Adenauer Says Russia Prepares German Civil War

Warns East German Youth Being Trained For Struggle

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer warned the West German parliament today that the Russians are preparing East German youth for a civil war against the Bonn republic.

"In East Germany we face a standing army of 150,000 Germans trained by the Soviet army," Adenauer said, adding:

"In East Germany the youth is being prepared for civil war against West Germany."

The 79-year-old chancellor plunged into a stormy debate in the Bundestag (lower house) over a bill to authorize the government to call up the first 6,000 volunteer German soldiers this summer for training.

Adenauer intervened after a leader of his own Christian Democratic party assailed the bill and warned that CDU deputies would not support it in its present form.

CONTROLS WANTED

Parliament is determined to clamp civilian controls on the new German army. The opposition Socialists and some members of Adenauer's four coalition parties charge that the brief, three-paragraph volunteers' law does not provide safeguards against a resurgence of German militarism.

The government contends the volunteers' bill is only a stopgap and that later, detailed legislation will contain all the safeguards necessary.

Rail Switchman Finds Shorts Bring Razzing

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—"They really razz me."

That's what Edward Zemanek, a husky freight car switchman said Monday about the Bermuda shorts he wears on the job.

Zemanek said: "They laugh and holler and whistle. I get a big kick out of it. It doesn't bother me a bit."

The big brakeman related he came to shorts gradually. He started out by rolling up his overall legs. That still proved too hot so, he said. "I just decided to wear shorts and be done with it."

Czechoslovakia Will Buy Surplus Canadian Butter

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has issued an export permit for the sale of surplus butter to Communist - controlled Czechoslovakia, it was learned today.

Federal officials declined to disclose details of the Czech butter negotiations, saying the deal was confidential, but informants said the Czechs would be getting fresh Canadian butter at a price well below the general price prevailing in Canada.

The Canadian Association of Consumers and the National Dairy Council both have urged the government that if surplus butter is to be sold at a cut price, Canadian consumers and not those in other countries should be the first to benefit by the price reduction.

The government is supporting the butter market by offering to buy all surpluses at 58 cents a pound wholesale. At the opening of the 1955 butter production year, it was believed to have held a record 30,000,000 pounds.

In attempt to rid itself of this heavy surplus, the government has been offering butter to hospitals and other public institutions at about 40 cents a pound wholesalez. It also has been offering stocks of 1954 butter to the general Canadian trade at 56 cents a pound wholesale, with the various financial losses involved charged to the federal treasury.

Federal Labor Code Is Ruled Constitutional

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today upheld the constitutionality of the federal labor code against a challenge from three provinces.

The court generally rejected a claim of Ontario, Quebec and Alberta and found that the main sections of the code properly apply to the approximately 500,000 workers upon whom Parliament made it effective in 1948.

The court also found that it applies specifically to Toronto waterfront stevedores—the issue that brought on the constitutional case.

It was the first challenge to the legality of the code—the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act—since its adoption for the regulation of labor-management relations in industries which Parliament regards as under its jurisdiction.

The industries over which Parliament assumed this control are railways, shipping, airlines, communications and similar undertakings crossing provincial boundaries.

Two Years For Assault

TORONTO (CP)—A man who police said tore a telephone receiver from the wall in a city tavern, rushed into a woman's washroom and beat a woman on the head with it shouting "I hate women," was sentenced Monday to two years in penitentiary.

Magistrate T. S. Elmore told John Brooks, 32, who police said had a long criminal record, "I only regret that I can't make it longer."

Mrs. Ruby Reynolds said in court she was in the washroom when Brooks pushed open the door. Brooks said he had never before seen Mrs. Reynolds but she resembled a woman who stole his wallet while he was using the phone outside.

VASTLY IMPROVED SONAR EQUIPMENT BEING DEVELOPED

Submarine-Killing Potential Increased

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian navy's submarine-killing potential is to be increased further.

Naval scientists, it was disclosed today, have started design of new and vastly improved sonar equipment for use in Canadian warships.

"The authorities concerned are confident that the performance of the proposed equipment, particularly under adverse conditions, will be vastly superior to that of the wartime sets," a naval spokesman said.

Sonar, formerly known as asdic, is a device for detecting submarines—a sort of underwater radar. The principle of sonar lies in the transmission of sound underwater and reception of a subsequent echo from any object the sound wave hits.

YEARS OF RESEARCH

Development of better sonar equipment has been the constant objective of Canada's anti-submarine navy. Years of research have gone into the problem.

That this research is paying off came to light in a guarded, one-sentence reference in the government white paper on defence tabled in the Commons June 7: "Several years of research directed to improved submarine-detection capability is nearing fruition."

The navy has the weapons—chiefly the Squid and the homing torpedo—to kill a submarine if it can be accurately located. The Squid is a mortar-type weapon which hurls bombs ahead of the sub-chaser. Even near the end of the Second World War its chance for a kill was 60 per cent if the U-boat were pin-pointed, and there have been big improvements in the Squid since then.

Two developments in the submarine near war's end made better sonar compulsory. One was the schnorkel breathing tube, which reduced to a minimum surface detection of a sub by radar. The other was the big increase in a submarine's underwater speed.

Youth Trapped Inside Vault Of New Bank

WINDSOR (CP) — A 13-year-old boy escaped death by suffocation by only 15 minutes Monday when he was accidentally trapped inside the vault of a bank being built here.

Police said the boy, Billy Garvey, entered the unfinished Bank of Montreal building through a basement window. He was accompanied by a friend, Jerry Burns, 11.

Billy entered the vault, and the heavy steel door swung shut, automatically locking from the outside.

Jerry immediately ran for help, and told police who located bank official C. D. McAlpine. Mr. McAlpine rushed to the bank and opened the vault.

Thinks 'Teddy Boys' Dress That Way Because Getting A Girl Now Harder

By GEORGE BRIMMELL

LONDON (Reuters) — A British doctor has put forward a new theory about how the British "Teddy boys" get that way.

The Teddies, who constitute one of Britain's major social problems today, dress themselves like riddies of the Edwardian era to impress girls says Dr. J. Macalister Brew The reason for this is the increasing ratio of males to females.

Dr. Brew, education and training officer to the National Association of Mixed Boys and Girls Clubs, says that for the same reason British girls are becoming less particular about their dress. She has advanced her theories in the July issue of "Family Doctor," published by the British Medical Association.

The Teddies are a comparatively recent phenomenon on the British scene. It was two years ago that youths began blossoming forth in drainpipe trousers, fancy waistcoats and bootlace ties.

They copied the fashion from what Britain's best-dressed men were wearing, but overdid it. Some made weekly trips to Throgmorton street, where London's stock exchange is situated, to get style ideas from the financial tycoons.

The Edwardian costume soon became a badge that indicated its wearer was probably a hooligan and troublemaker.

Since the craze swept Britain, there have been countless assault cases and stabbings involving teenagers in Edwardian dress.

Dr. Brew sees "no doubt that modern young women like the Edwardian fashion."

"For generations, although boys and girls have been cast by Nature for the role of hunter and hunted, the girl has had to perform the difficult role of retreating in such a way as to guarantee pursuit."

To achieve this, she says, girls traditionally took great care in their adornment, while all the young male needed was to be clean, personable and manly.

Now, however, the situation had changed and males were running into increasing competition as their numbers rose in relation to available girls.

Canberra Jet Sets Record For Ottawa-London Flight

WEST MALLING, Kent, England (AP)—A Royal Air Force Canberra jet bomber screeched across the Atlantic today from Ottawa to London at 496.8 miles an hour in a dramatic race against fog and dwindling fuel.

It was the first official bid for a capital to capital record across the Atlantic since 1938.

The same plane five days ago outsped the sun in a flight from Norway to Fairbanks, Alaska, over the North Pole. The crew had dinner in Norway and tea in Alaska—several hours earlier by local time.

It took six hours, 42 minutes and 12 seconds for the capital-to-capital flight of 3,300.41 miles, at an average speed of 496.8 m. p. h., officials said.

When the Canberra was only one hour away from its home base at West Malling, a swirling dawn fog swept down from the Kentish hills, blotting out the runway.

The fog warning was flashed to 35-year-old Sqdn. Ldr. Ivor Broom, wartime bomber ace and captain of the Canberra's three-man crew. He radioed back:

"I would like to come in to West Malling if visibility is over 500 yards." He made no mention of his rapidly dwindling fuel supplies.

Royal Aero Club officials said the previous official record was the New York-to-Berlin flight by Captain Henker in a German Focke-Wulf 200 Condor on Aug. 13, 1938. That took 19 hours, 55 minutes, one second at an average speed of 320.919 kilometres (about 200 miles) an hour.

The Canberra's time has to be confirmed by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, international controlling body for world flight records.

It will start a new series of postwar marks for the trans Atlantic run, officials said. Only observed flights between capital cities count.

Officials said the Canberra was actually in the air for six minutes more than the listed time, but the flight was measured from the centre of Ottawa to the centre of London, according to international rules.

Crucial Steel Negotiating Session Called to Stop Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A country-wide steel strike at midnight Thursday hung in the balance today as top negotiators of U. S. Steel and the United Steelworkers (CIO) met in a negotiating session.

A strike already has been authorized unless U. S. Steel and the companies which usually follow the world's largest producer can come up with a wage increase acceptable to the union.

U. S. Steel, which employs about 150,000 of the 600,000 USW members in the basic United States steel industry, has offered a wage increase of about 10 cents an hour.

"Entirely inadequate," is the answer of the union headed by David J. McDonald.

Among other things, McDonald says, the steel industry is booming and can well afford a "substantial" pay raise for his men who now average $2.33 an hour.

Despite unanimous backing Monday from the union's 170-man wage policy committee to strike, McDonald said at a press conference later that he's still optimistic.

"There is still time for a peaceful wage settlement," McDonald said.

John A. Stephens, U. S. Steel vice-president and chief negotiator, said that he, too, is hopeful of avoiding a strike. But Stephens added that his corporation "still believer its wage offer of last Thursday is 'substantial'" and will prove the basis of settlement.

Meanwhile, in Washington some government officials expressed concern over the situation. One official said:

"We are pessimistic about a strike being prevented."

Some companies began talking with union officials about an orderly shutdown. Closing a steel mill is a costly procedure which must be carried out quickly to avoid damage to machinery. Usually the industry likes to start banking its furnaces 72 hours ahead of a known walkout, but they can rush through the process in 48 hours or less.

Manitoba Votes Do Not Change House Standing

WINNIPEG (CP) — House strength of the governing Liberal-Progressives and their official opposition was unchanged today in Manitoba following a stand-pat pair of by-elections.

Two farmer candidates, one a Liberal-Progressive and the other a Progressive Conservative, won the by-elections Monday in the Deloraine-Glenwood and Mountain constituencies.

Albert Earl Draper, 57, retained Deloraine-Glenwood for the Progressive Conservatives by defeating Liberal - Progressive Robert Moffatt, 39-year-old Winnipeg lawyer, 2,056 to 1,377 in a two-way fight.

In Mountain, Liberal-Progressive Walter Clark, 54, defeated creamery operator Marcel Boulic, the Conservative candidate, 1,846 to 1,570 in a three-way battle. Roger Poiron, independent Social Credit candidate, was far back with 201 votes.

HOLD 35 SEATS

Liberal-Progressive 35, Progressive Conservative 11, CCF 5, Social Credit 2, Independent 2, Independent PC 1, Labor Progressive 1, Total 57.

The Canadian Press conceded the Conservative victory in Deloraine-Glenwood less than an hour after the polls closed.

There was no conceding in Mountain. Voting in the riding the Conservatives hadn't contested for 20 years was close all the way.

EVEN THE RATS BURN

ELY, Nev. (AP)—Two gambling clubs and three cafes were destroyed Monday night in a fire that spread so swiftly the game operators couldn't grab currency on the tables. Mayor N. E. Broadbent estimated the building and equipment loss at between $500,000 and $750,000. An undetermined amount of currency was lost.

Flood Crest Rolling South On Fraser River

By LARRY STANWOOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A flood crest rolling southward on British Columbia's Fraser river was expected to bring new high readings at Fraser valley centres today but waters were still below the "serious" level.

Federal water resources department officials said it was likely the river would go over the old danger level of 28 feet at Hope, B. C., 100 miles east of Vancouver. The new danger level has been raised to 30 feet by strengthening of dikes following disastrous floods in 1948.

Officials said the flood crest was built up by weekend torrential downpours following the hottest days of the year.

Reports from Quesnel and Prince George in central B. C. said the Fraser was still rising although waters in main tributaries had receded somewhat.

Hardest hit by rampaging creeks and rivers throughout the province was Quesnel, centre of the Cariboo cattle country 300 miles north of Vancouver.

Highway department and railway crews continued their around-the-clock mopping up operations today, fighting to plug the gaps in rail lines and highways. First traffic through Quesnel was expected Thursday.

A drop of about four inches in the Columbia river eased the flood threat at the smelter centre of Trail. Water there was still 11 inches below the danger level.

LOSE EIGHT BOATS THIS YEAR

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The 169-ton tuna clipper Northern Light broke in two and sank following an explosion and fire Monday 20 miles southwest of here. Eight fishermen were rescued unhurt by another clipper. The Northern Light, valued at $225,000, was the eighth San Diego fishing boat lost this year.

SENATE GETS ANOTHER ROUND OF CRITICISM

Some Call it Haven For Ward-Heelers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate has been described by various sectors of the Commons as a haven for political ward-heelers, an undemocratic body that should be abolished and a group of men now doing better work than ever before.

The opinions were expressed Monday by, respectively, a Progressive Conservative, a CCF member and a Liberal during debate on a Conservative motion demanding government reform of the upper chamber.

But Prime Minister St. Laurent intervened during a speech by John Diefenbaker (PC — Prince Albert) who said both the late Liberal prime minister Mackenzie King and Mr. St. Laurent showed disregard for the Senate. Mr. King had extracted a pledge from appointees in 1925 and 1926 that they support his ideas for reform but dropped the plan once he had a majority in the Senate.

NO COMMITMENTS ASKED

Mr. St. Laurent interjected that he has asked for no commitments from any of the 37 senators he has appointed since 1948.

The Commons reached no decision on the motion by Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe) stating the government should take steps to change the 102-seat Senate so it can "more effectively discharge the constitutional function it was intended to serve."

Today the Commons entered the sixth day of an oft-adjourned discussion on a bill to extend indefinitely the Defence Production Act, due to expire July 31, 1956. Conservatives have undertaken a marathon debate to oppose indefinite continuation of present powers.

Monday the Commons approved a measure to boost salaries of three federal boards and passed three other bills dealing with the parliamentary library, expropriation powers of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and government-guaranteed loans to fishermen.

WANT SENATE CHANGE

All opposition groups lined up behind Mr. Rowe's Senate-reform motion and members proposed a variety of ways of changing the upper chamber, whose members are appointed for life. It now has 73 Liberals, seven Progressive Conservatives and 22 vacancies. Its last member was named in 1953.

Mr. Rowe, Commons member since 1925 and a Conservative cabinet minister in 1935, said the fathers of Confederation intended the Senate to be the protector of minority and provincial rights and a check on hasty, rash decisions of the Commons.

"It never was intended as an institution to be filled with ward-heelers . . . that the chief qualification should be blind allegiance to any government," he said.

It had been made a public laughing stock by Mr. King. He had made Senate reform a political issue but had done nothing about it except appoint more Liberals.

Red Dean Enrages British Papers By Sermon Series on Communism

LONDON (AP) — The "Red" Dean of Canterbury's latest defence of communism brings angry blasts today from three leading British papers.

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, for years a persistent defender of communism, launched a six-sermon series on "Christianity and Communism" at Canterbury Sunday. He said he was convinced a synthesis of Christianity and communism "is possible and will eventually bring blessings to the entire human race."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express hits back today in an editorial: "Why is the Red Dean permitted to use Canterbury Cathedral as a centre for Communist propaganda?"

The Express urges the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, to "raise his voice in protest" and adds: "If he fails to do so, the people of Britain will hold Dr. Fisher responsible for a very grave scandal."

Cassandra, columnist of the pro-Labor Daily Mirror, speaks out against the dean's "half-baked theological creed . . . the pernicious nonsense that this bedeviler of the message of Canterbury still hawks throughout the land."

The Mirror writer recalls that Dr. Johnson had termed communism a "challenge to the Christian which must be met" and comments:

"It will be met.

"But it will not be met by this ruble-laden prelate—he collected £9,000 when he was awarded a Stalin peace prize—who through muddle-headedness prates and preaches about a doctrine that makes a mockery of the decency of man."

Candidus, columnist of the Conservative Daily Sketch, also joins in the attack:

"Apparently the Church of England has no power to cleanse the cathedral of communism. . . . This is lamentable, but it is hardly less lamentable that so many people in Britain are inclined to regard Hewlett Johnson as a bit of a joke."

Thieves Tunnel Into Bank Vault At Larder Lake

$16,000 In Stocks, Bonds Taken By Pro Operators

LARDER LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Thieves who tunneled into a bank vault escaped with between $14,000 and $16,000 in stocks and negotiable bonds, police said today.

Police chief Dan Timmerman said the robbery is believed to have been staged early Monday by three men who were "definitely professional."

Most of the stocks and bonds were taken from the safety deposit box of Anthony Boss, real estate agent in this northern Ontario gold-mining town near Kirkland Lake.

A district-wide search is on.

Chief Timmerman said the thieves cut the alarm switches as soon as they entered the building of the Imperial Bank of Canada. All three apparently wore gloves, as there were no fingerprints.

MOVED EVERY FRIDAY

Entering through a window at the rear of the bank, hidden by long grass, the men made their way to the cellar. There they used a drive shaft to break through the concrete floor of the vault. When they hit a steel girder, the men used an acetylene cutting outfit to continue the break-in. It had been stolen at Moonbeam near Kapuskasing June 24.

The bonds, which were in a strong-box, were the only thing of value in the bank at the time. It is a well-known fact in Larder Lake that all money in the bank is removed every pay-day and taken to the bank in Virginiatown.

Chief Timmerman estimated the stolen stocks and bonds may bring the thieves $5,000, as some were easily negotiable. Others, mining stocks, will not be easily disposed of, as they cannot be sold without complicated legal procedures.

Thirteen Victims Of Sub Disaster Buried Near Sea

PORTLAND, Dorset, England (CP) — Petty Officer Leverne D. McLeod of Stratford, Ont., was buried today in a little Royal Navy cemetery overlooking the sea where he died June 16 in the Sidon submarine disaster.

The bodies of the Royal Canadian Navy man and his 12 British fellow victims, killed when a dummy torpedo explodedan d plunged the submarine to the bottom of the harbor here, were laid among the summer flowers while three volleys sounded from naval craft.

McLeod's coffin was swathed in the Red Ensign—the other coffins bore the Union Jack—and nearby was a giant wreath of yellow roses from Canadian joint staff naval personnel in London.

Temporary white crosses mark the graves. While a keen Channel breeze blew and seabirds cried under overcast skies, the 13 coffins were borne up the hilly Portland streets to the cemetery from the naval hospital for the service.

McLeod, 24, is survived by his widow at Dartmouth, N. S. He was one of the Royal Canadian Navy volunteer group taking submarine training with the Royal Navy.

Called Her Shot Diamonds Found In Her Sofa

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Mrs. George A. King sent her living room sofa to an upholsterer for repair with the joking remark, "If you find any diamonds, be sure and let me know."

A short time later, the upholsterer called her. "Lady, we have found a diamond in your sofa."

It proved to be a set from her engagement ring, which she had lost 12 years ago.

Canadian Ship Blown Ashore In Red Waters

LONDON (Reuters)—The Canadian freighter Champlain has been blown ashore on the Chinese Communist island of Hainan by a typhoon, her London agents reported Monday night.

They said the 7,125-ton vessel went aground Sunday and the British crew of about 35 were stranded on the desolate coast of the island, about 250 miles from Hong Kong, waiting to be rescued.

A radio message from the ship's master, Capt. Alfred Summerfield of England, said "all is well."

The London agents said tonight "reports indicate that she is not seriously damaged and we hope that the crew will be able to reboard her and refloat her." There is no expectation that the Chinese Communists will hamper the operation, a spokesman added.

Falls 100 Feet Into Ravine

HAMILTON (CP)—A Waterdown youth today is in fair condition in hospital after falling an estimated 100 feet into a deep stream valley.

Aubrey Powell, 20, was taken to hospital with back and leg injuries and severe facial lacerations, after a rescue effort that included the services of provincial police, members of the West Flamboro volunteer fire brigade, Hamilton's disaster unit, and others who had flocked to the scene.

Cliff Bramhall, also of Waterdown, who was with Powell and two friends, Marion Sala and Grace Miracle, told police that he and Powell were standing near the edge of a cliff when suddenly "the made a brief sound and then fell forward out into the darkness. He cried for help when he reached the bottom, so I rushed over to Tiny's Garage, at Clappison's Corners, and asked for help."

RUSSIANS GOOD TENANTS

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP)—As tenants the Russians who attended the United Nations 10th anniversary session in San Francisco last week "were just wonderful," say Mr. and Mrs. Neal McNeil. The circus in question was the annual initiation ceremonies for new members of the Kinsmen Club.

Lighted Cigaret Butt Believed Cause of Blaze

A carelessly thrown cigaret, which dropped into the wastepaper basket for soiled paper towels is believed responsible for a blaze in the women's washroom at the Canadian Canners factory at Foxboro this morning.

Belleville firemen were called about 6.30 and confined the blaze to one corner of the washroom. Walls and ceilings of the washroom were blackened by the blaze.

"It was the type of thing which happens quite frequently," stated Fire Chief Gerald Vance. "A wastepaper basket full of soiled paper towels and then some one tosses away a lighted cigaret and we have a fire."

In response to an invitation from Mrs. Roluf, the June meeting of Prince Edward and Belleville club was held at her home, Blue Top Cabins, R.R. 4, Belleville.

Here, upon arrival the members and a few guests were met by Mr. Roluf while Mrs. Roluf, graciously received.

TRADE TALKS DIFFICULT

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) Jamaica's chief minister, Norman Manley, returned here Monday after trade talks in London which he described as "the most difficult negotiations" in his experience.

Ringling Circus Extravaganza Of Beauty, Skill and Color

The years rolled back for oldsters and wonder-eyed children got their first glimpse of the "Greatest Show on Earth" when the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus unfolded its 1955 edition near Sidney St. yesterday.

It was the familiar gaudy illusion of yesterday — as enthralling as ever, still captivating young and old alike. The modern touches while adding glamor and color missing in the old days have done nothing to remove the familiar circus atmosphere. It is estimated some 10,000 people saw the show.

It was an extravaganza of beauty, skill, color and glamor that annually brings gladness to millions along the tanbark trail from coast to coast.

Daring, beauty, color and pageantry were the keynotes. Highlighting acts that caused the audiences to run the gamut of emotion from the side-splitting antics of a crowd of clowns to the spine-chilling performances of aerial tight-wire artists and the "daring young men and women of the flying trapezes", were the sensational color-packed pageants.

RIOT OF COLOR

Outstanding was the moving riot of color, beautiful girls, gaily-caparisoned horses and elephants that was called "Holidays". It was one of the most glittering musical "spectaculars" ever seen in a circus here. It called for crowds of actors in captivating costumes riding fantastic floats or parading in lavish costumery as the sequence of "Holidays" unfolded. All the festive days on the calendar were represented from New Year's Day, St. Valentine, St. Patrick, April First, and in order came the fantastic melange of color until the greatest of all, the "Birthday" climaxed the moving sea of color.

Another scene of eye-catching beauty was "Honolulu Bay" featuring the lovely Pinito Del Oro, star of the swinging trapeze and the white princess in an exotic aerial ballet. The motif was definitely Hawaiian and a bevy of beautiful native girls from the south sea paradise were the princess' court. Miss Del Oro had her audience breathless with her thrilling performance on the swinging trapeze. She was attended by a cluster of white apes.

55 ELEPHANTS IN RING

The amazing performance of a herd of 55 elephants in the fun frolic "Mama's in the Park" was another colorful highlight of the show. Pachyderm mothers played by huge telephants who acted as ponderous nursemaids to their trunked midget offspring in huge baby carriages, made for sparkling humor. Comedy cops, monkeys, performing dogs, and the ubiquitous clowns in all kinds of grotesque and humorous costumery contributed to a hilarious performance.

Headed by Emmett Kelly, world-famous funny man, whose sole weapon is "pathos", one of the largest, funniest galaxies of clowns ever to visit Belleville, provided the humor and fun of the circus. They must have had a hundred costumes. They had their own acts and paraded in laugh-provoking garb that caricatured many world famous people as well as other characters.

Nothing was missing. Everything in the circus calendar was there. The famous three-rings were riots of color, skill, daring and artistry as the various acts followed each other in smooth sequence.

There were jugglers, slack and tight wire artists, performing ponies, horses and dogs, dressage acts by proud prancing horseflesh, the well-known bareback riders, artists who performed high in the air and other acts that easily stand at the top of circus entertainment.

DARING AND BEAUTIFUL

Josephine Berosini, an intrepid high wire artist, was as daring as she was beautiful. The audience was held spellbound as Miss Berosini, with nerves of steel, slowly ascended the steeply slanting rope to take her place on the high wire. There, with no net below her, she made her way across while riding a bicycle, as well as walking the wire with a covering over her head. When her act was finished, she descended the same way.

A Japanese member of the show, Takeo Usui, made his first appearance in America this season. His suicidal pursuits on a steeply sloping strand required perfect body control. The slow climb upward, followed by sliding down the wire backwards on his feet, thrilled the spectators.

The Yong brothers and sisters, a family of graceful gymnasts, gave an excellent exhibition of grace while performing gruelling gyrations. The five displayed perfect balance as they went through their act.

The Three Nocks, billed as Swiss stratosphere specialists, presented a chilling display of steel-nerved daring at the top of their high, slender, swaying masts. Moving back and forth above the crowd, they changed from one mast to another and performed feats of balance.

SPLENDID SIDESHOW

Outside the "Big Top" was the old familiar sawdust atmosphere. Barkers shrilled the delights of sideshows or called attention to the beauty of their wares, the succulency of their food and the coolness of soft drinks.

Familiar to old-time circus goers was the sideshow. Here one could see a woman spotted like a leopard, a glass blower, midgets, contortionists, a human skeleton weighing 62 pounds and standing over six feet; a Viking giant, "the tallest man in the world", eight feet, eight inches, weighing 425 pounds; a girl stabbed a dozen times in a box an Hawaiian show with beautiful dancing girls, a Pueblo Indian sculptor who did wonders with his clay, a sword swallower the inevitable snake-charmer, and a human pretzel, besides others.

The menagerie was one of the best seen here with its coterie of lions, tigers, giraffes, elephants, pumas, cougars, spotted and black leopards, monkeys, apes and gorillas, rhinoceroses and hippopotami plus some polar bears which appeared far from comfortable in the heat.

"The Greatest Show on Earth" is no misnomer.

Mr. Hall also said nearby Whitby has been selected as venue for hearing of assault charges against suspended Constables Roy Morden and Grant Thompson. Both were remanded Monday on $2,000 bail.

Given Two Months

TORONTO (CP)—A postal clerk with 15 years' service was sentenced Monday to two months in jail on two charges of theft of mail and detaining mail.

Allan Shufflebotham of suburban Lakeview was charged after a postal inspector said he saw Shufflebotham open, read and reseal letters. Letters containing money orders were found in Shufflbotham's pockets, the official added.

New Federal Entomological Laboratory Near Completion

It is the shining, new federal entomological laboratory on Dundas Street, which will officially open this fall, the latest command headquarters for the nation's battle against the relentless insect hosts attacking Canada's lands and forests.

Known locally and colloquially as "the bug house", the lab has been abuilding for over two years now, during which time its methodical growth toward completion has been watched with interest by the city. That interest began to stir a little more actively of recent months, when it was obvious that the big three-storey structure itself was completed and ready for occupancy.

Now its long, clean-cut corridors are being walked by scientists, lab workers and technicians, who began taking over the new headquarters in May. However, the entire building is not yet in operation. There still are some labs and offices needing finishing touches to fittings and equipment while a modelling job on the broken ground at the building's rear yet has to be started.

Chief entomologist of the lab, Dr. Alfred Wilkes, points out all phases of the work should be co-ordinated and complete by the fall when the official opening will be staged, maybe in September.

Once in operation, the lab will be a forceful unit in the nation's battle of the bug.

COVER EVERY PHASE

The co-ordinated work to be carried out in its 27 separate laboratories will cover every phase of the war against destructive insects. Here methodical, painstaking research will be directed toward finding ways and means of combatting hazards to the nation's pastoral reserves. The causes and effects of destructive field pests—a threat ever new—and investigations into methods of eliminating the hazards.

Here government entomologists will make use of the most up-to-date facilities to aid them in the fight. Large airy laboratories will be serviced with the latest designed equipment and will be compact self-contained units with utility-rooms and offices opening off them.

An important departmental addition to the new centre will be the installation of a bacteriology department, now working out of Queen's University at Kingston.

Probably the prize piece of equipment to be installed in the lab is a $25,000 electron microscope to be used in virus research. When trained on a subject it will magnify it 200,000 times making visible for inspection and photographing the presence of objects which previously were only ascertained through tests.

LARGE CONFERENCE ROOM

A large conference room, which will seat 150 when furnished also will be available for staff lectures and forums on the second floor. Behind it is the library, which is fully equipped with up-to-date bound knowledge of insect work and special fields of research in the insect world. It is a regional branch of the main library in Ottawa.

The ground floor of the building also contains six cold storage rooms which operate under temperatures ranging from zero to 60 degrees.

Minor Baseball

Parkdale kept their undefeated string intact at King George School last night by whipping the Tigers 14-5 while Deacon's Quakers laced the Orfuns 18-7 in peewee baseball action.

Jim Colligan's Parkdale crew broke open their game with 8 runs in the top of the sixth to win going away. R. Michaud and W. Keeble shared hurling duties for the victors, allowing only three hits, whiffing nine and walking ten. Ted Hook went the distance for Hooking's Tigers, touched for seven hits, fanning six and walking eight.

D. Rose, the Parkdale catcher, sparked his club with the hickory with a pair of doubles while Durrant, McBride, Mullin, Keeble and Wood each had a single. T. McCabe, F. Sager and T. Hook hit safely for the Tigers.

Deacon's also continued to pound their opposition as they sent 13 runs home in the first three frames and were never challenged. Archer and T. Thompson pitched for the winners, allowing three hits and fanning 11. Roberts toiled the route in defeat, claiming ten on strikes. Archer took the win in four frames pitched.

T. Thompson, Mavety and S. Thompson paced the Quakers at bat, while Rolfe, Simpson and Tryon were best in a losing cause.

R. H. Macklem Presented With Painting

Last night at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, 60 people, members of the South Hastings Educational Association, met to pay tribute to the founder of that organization, Mr. R. H. Macklem, inspector of South Hastings public schools.

Mr. E. R. Valcamp, vice-president of the organization, acting as chairman, told of the formation of the Association ten years ago, stating that it was an organization that had sponsored conservation, music festivals, public speaking contests, and scholarship awards. He referred to the work of Inspector Macklem in the public schools, his connection with the Film Councils, and other adult organizations.

On behalf of the Association, Mr. Valcamp presented Mr. Macklem with a painting depicting a rural scene near Halloway, the work of the Canadian artist, Manly Macdonald.

THANKS TENDERED

In his reply, Mr. Macklem thanked each person present, drawing to the attention of his listeners some of the means by which he would carry the memories of the association with him.

Mr. Roscoe Robson, MLA for East Hastings, spoke of his associations with Mr. Macklem and referred to the expanding school population, which brought with it problems of new classrooms, and of providing educational advantages for the elementary school pupils.

Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater recalled pioneer conditions in his own school section and contrasted them with conditions today. He referred to the fact that 100 years ago a farmer had been a public school inspector, and that his paternal grandmother had been subjected to an oral examination before commencing to teach.

Mr. L. A. Kells, superintendent of education in Belleville public schools, spoke of his associations with Mr. Macklem and went on to say that the organization of which Mr. Macklem was the founder, was at the time of its inception the only one to embrace trustees, teachers, ratepayers, and councillors.

THE STRATFORD FESTIVAL

The third annual Stratford Shakespearean Festival began its season last evening with financial success already achieved and critical acclaim almost assured.

So immediate and so pronounced has been the success of the Stratford festival that it is almost impossible to imagine that it is only in its third season. So much has been accomplished, so much written about it, and so widespread its fame that it seems to have been with us always instead of having only lately sprung up in our midst.

In less than four months of actual playing time in the last two years Stratford has become Canada's most outstanding theatrical enterprise and has established itself as one of the most vital forces in theatre in North America. Its unique presentation of Shakespeare and its vigorous interpretations have challenged older Shakespearean companies including even the brilliant host that labors each summer in the playwright's hometown at Stratford-on-Avon.

This year an extended season will see the presentation of Julius Caesar, the Merchant of Venice and a repeat performance of Sophocles' Oedipus Rex. Attendance for the season is expected to reach 160,000, a tremendous increase from the 125,000 who attended last season's plays and the 67,000 who were privileged to see the festival's first program in 1953.

Important as attendance and fame may be, the striking contribution which Stratford is making to Canadian theatre is the training which it gives Canadian talent.

It is true that Shakespearean plays starring English and European actors, directed by an English director and staged with the assistance of Americans can hardly be classed as Canadian theatre in the same sense as plays written by Canadians and presented by all-Canadian talent. But that is hardly important from the standpoint of the infant Canadian theatre. What Canadian theatre needs most is a corps of competent directors and well-trained, disciplined players.

The Stratford festival is providing young Canadian talent with outstanding direction and giving those associated with it a new standard for performance and fresh incentive for achievement. International acclaim of the performance of the predominantly Canadian cast not only strengthens the confidence of the players in their own abilities but also confirms doubting Thomases among theatregoers about these same abilities. This latter accomplishment is most important for the theatre which depends almost entirely for its support on public approval.

We greet Stratford's third season with a keen sense of anticipation and warmest regard for its continuing success.

PRIORITY FOR THE AIR FORCE

When Air Vice Marshal John L. Plant suggested a few weeks ago that the army should be scrapped to provide manpower for the RCAF, aviation writers listening to his address laughed politely at a typical service joke.

The chorus of indignation that arose from wounded army and navy feelings was anything but laughable. The humor also escaped Defence Minister Ralph Campney who shifted AVM Plant to a less important and less conspicuous post within hours. Likely AVM Plant would be willing to admit readily enough that even air marshals should leave policy decisions to politicians and humor to professional comedians.

However, now that the subject is out in the open, the suspicion grows that AVM Plant's exaggerated plea for air force manpower might be worth serious consideration.

Half of Canada's defence budget of more than two billion dollars per year is already committed to the RCAF. Defence department thinking, as well as its spending, is being directed toward air defence. Canada's defence strategy is based on the possibility of air attack. The Canadian high command is not seriously considering a land invasion of North America nor an amphibious assault. It is definitely conscious of the likelihood of aerial warfare in which high-speed bombers, armed with atomic and hydrogen weapons, could be directed against strategic Canadian and American targets across Canadian soil.

To defend against this possibility Canada is preparing three aircraft warning chains across the Arctic and sub-Arctic. Plans for national defence call for swift, powerful fighter defences to back up the warning chains.

For the first time in Canadian history, air force personnel outnumber regular troops—51,000 to 49,000.

National defence, is, therefore, both actually and strategically, primarily the responsibility of the air force.

It is only sensible, therefore, that the air force receive first choice of manpower available for military service until the manpower to meet its responsibilities has been provided.

Scrapping the army is not the answer but shifting permanent army and navy personnel and career officers into the air force might be a partial solution. The training of an efficient warning team and an effective fighter strength, if the air force is our first line of defence, is an air force task.

Conscription of manpower is debatable inasmuch as most conscripts serve their mandatory terms and return to civilian life leaving the armed services with a continuing and expensive problem of meeting responsibilities with relatively untrained conscripts.

Increased salary schedules for military personnel, living allowances and other material benefits that would tend to make military service an attractive permanent career, rather than an unattractive, compulsory disruption of one's way of life, might also solve the armed forces' manpower problems. Until sufficient manpower is available, however, it might be wise for those already embarked on permanent military careers in the army or navy to be shifted to the air force where their service may be of more urgent and direct concern than it is at present.

SIGNS OF CHILDHOOD

You can tell where children play
If the lawn is worn away.
Where the bicycles you see
Little boys and girls will be.

It is well if all can be Fit for those who call to see.
But it asks for greater grace
To make a home a happy place.

Flowers are very nice to raise,
They need care in many ways,
But a mother said (and smiled):
"I would rather raise a child."

On every dwelling street
There's a place where children meet.
Where the lawn is wearing out

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JUNE 28th, 1935

Inmates of the Hastings County Home and the Home for the Aged are still talking about their drive through the county, sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club. Some 20 cars were in the motor cavalcade and the appreciation of the management of the two institutions was expressed at the conclusion of the drive. The old people were thrilled to be passing through the county and seeing many localities with which they were familiar and which had been home to them for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. C. MacLean, of Toronto, spent the week-end here, and celebrated the 38th anniversary of their wedding with friends. Mrs. MacLean was formerly Miss Jessie Brignall of this city, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brignall, who were prominent members of John Street Presbyterian Church. Mr. Brignall was a member of the drygoods firm of Brignall and Thompson. During her residence here Mrs. MacLean was popular with many friends and older residents will recall having often enjoyed hearing her as an elocutionist. For many years Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. MacLean, resided in Port Arthur, Ontario, but on taking up residence in Toronto.

Mrs. Mary Arthurs of Toronto, spent the week-end here with Mrs. Margaret Young, of Bettes St.

Miss Helen Truaisch of this city, and Miss Thelma Bird, of Canniffton, have passed the examinations and are now qualified as Registered Nurses.

30 YEARS AGO

JUNE 28th, 1925

In the recent examination at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Miss Beatrice M. Liddle, of Shannonville, a pupil of Miss Bernice E. MacDonald, passed the the elementary grade with honors.

Miss Mae Birks, pupil of Miss Kindred, passed the elementary examinations in piano at the recent examinations at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick, John Street, have as their guests Mrs. H. O. Bolzer, Miss Olive McManus and Miss K. Reedy, all of Hazelton, North Dakota. They are enroute to Montreal and Saint Anne de Beaupre.

Cheese reached its peak price so far this season at the meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board when Mark Sprague bid 20 1/16 cents; the bulk of the cheese board offered, however, was sold at 20 cents per lb., and W. H. Morton took the balance at 19⅞ cents. White cheese to the amount of 3,175 boxes and 425 boxes of colored cheese were boarded, making a total of 3,603 boxes.

40 YEARS AGO

JUNE 28th, 1915

Mr. and Mrs. A. Swayze, of Alymer, Ontario, formerly of this city, will celebrate shortly the 50th or golden anniversary of their wedding. We join their many friends here in extending congratulations and good wishes.

The Official Gazette contains the following appointments: 15th Regiment Argyll Light Infantry — to be provisional lieutenants (supernumary) — Russell Day Weller and Arthur I. Bird.

W. Flint Jones, a former highly respected resident of Belleville, and of late residing in Toronto, died today in the general hospital in that city. For many years Mr. Jones conducted a drygoods store in this city and for a time he was editor of the Daily Ontario.

Mr. Sandy Grant, MPP, for East Hastings, was a visitor in town today.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: "Her Majesty Queen Victoria was crowned 57 years ago today, namely, June 28, 1838. She has, however, reigned since June 20, 1837. Long may she continue to reign over us."

50 YEARS AGO

JUNE 28th, 1905

Mr. E. Hunter, who has lived here for some years, will leave shortly to reside in Collingwood. Many friends regret his departure from the city.

Mr. B. L. Hyman entertained a number of friends at Massassaga Park yesterday afternoon.

The 73rd annual picnic in connection with Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School will take place on Monday to 12 O'clock Point per the steamer Aletha. The boat will make four trips.

The steamer Alexandria will run her first excursion this season July 3 to Quebec direct without change of passengers to another steamer; she will run all the rapids. Fare including everything, $18.00. This is a popular trip and many citizens will, no doubt, be passengers. The running of the rapids without change is an added attraction.

Money Makes Circus Go

(By Ralph G. Martin in Newsweek Magazine.)

Who care about the cost of rhinestone tears on the sad-faced clown, or whether the price of elephants is up or down, or that the circus pays $50,000 every year for a new 10-ton canvas Big Top for Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus. It weighs 21 tons when wet.

"Ran or shine our expense nut is $22,000 a day and if it rains we are dead," says slender Henry Ringling North, the circus' inside man and more serious of the North brothers. "We hit some 190 cities and seven months, mostly in one-night stands, and we're always fighting weather. They had a bad drought in the southwest last year so I took a week from Oklahoma and put it in Wisconsin, and what happened? It rained there all week and business was zero. And Kansas City hadn't had rain in months—until the fat cloudburst on the day we arrived. As for Virginia and the Carolinas, we went there earlier last year just to make sure we didn't run into any cold weather, and all we did was run smack into Hurricane Hazel. That simply substracted $100,000 from our gross. So last year we're knocking on wood."

It will take more than wood-knocking.

Circus travel expenses have tripled in the past ten years. Ringling's food budget has jumped to the high wire; The circus feeds of three meals a day to 1,400 people. (Every day they consume 2,000 pounds of meat, 1,500 loaves of bread, 2,800 fried eggs, 5,600 pancakes, 25 bushels of potatoes, 80 pounds of butter, and 80 pounds of coffee.) Next year Ringling will spend $280,000 for a mobile air-conditioning setup to pull in more people to a bigger Big Top (it now seats 9,600).

"Ours is a price problem," says North, "because everything keeps going up and up and we can't pad the ticket price because customers won't pay it. That means we somehow have to keep absorbing the cost spiral. I remember when we used to get all the camels we wanted for $600 apiece delivered right to our door. Now it's $1,200. I think the only thing that has come down is the price of elephants—from $3,500 to $3,000 and don't ask me why. Even then we are not saving anything because we bought a lot of baby elephants for a new number my brother John wanted. Now we've got 55 elephants, and you should see how much penicillin they use when they get colds!"

• • •

To cut cost, the North brothers have gone in for technology. Once they had a full department that did nothing but fix wooden wheels; now almost everything is metal except their 65-foot centre tent pole. They now save some 1,500 man-hours preparation time with portable grandstands, mechanical stake pullers, motorized derricks to pick up canvas. They have also eliminated the need for some 350 work horses, and cut their travelling labor force from 1,000 to 700.

But they never plan to pinch pennies on splash.

"If we've got a special idea for an elephant's robe and it costs $1,200, well that doesn't stop us," said Wardrobe Superintendent Joe McCarthy. "Costume cost in one production number alone could outfit a Broadway musical."

• • •

Freshening up the circus every year is the constant challenge. Burly John Ringling North heads for Europe on an annual pilgrimage in search of performers, usually comes back with fifteen new acts. The gimmick for guaranteed freshness: Contracts for a single season only. Meanwhile the Ringling Circus heads for its winter headquarters, some 200 acres in Sarasota, Fla., where the show puts on a new face. Clowns create new "walk-arounds" — costumes and routines. Designers dream up new fantasies. More than 41,000 years of canvas and 70 miles of rope get repaired or think up the main themes of the new show, and make mental notes in planning next year's route.

• • •

"It's more than just a schedule", says Henry North, "It's kind of a jigsaw puzzle. We try to cover the whole country in five years, but the biting question is what to hit when. It makes sense to tour the wheat country right after harvest because we have to push with prosperity. We have to check that we don't repeat some towns too soon. We've never figured out why but we know for sure that some places will never be circus towns. Besides all that, we try to run the whole 19,000 miles on such a tight timetable that we can come to a place soon enough to set up in time to put on a show that same day. Nobody has quite figured how it all moves, but it does."

To put together a $6 million season, Ringling counts on a New York gate of $2 million, and the rest from the road. The Norths are now testing several new techniques to push up the ante. They are eliminating half-price tickets for children, putting all seats on a reserved basis, halving the hand-out of free passes, going in for wider use of food promotion tieups in supermarkets — and, once more at the kids than the mothers. They have also decided to use TV instead of fighting it, shifting a greater part of their promotion budget for spot announcements. So far it all seems to add up at the box office.

"But I remember during my uncle's lifetime he could count on a million dollars after taxes," says Henry North. "Now we're lucky if we can pull in $500,000 before taxes. That means we haven't a chance in the world to fatten up a reserve for a bad year. That's why so many circuses are always consolidating, and it's why we're the only big railroad show still in business."

They're not only still in business, but they've just had to add ten more railroad cars (they now have 80). As a result, in a triumph of double superlatives, Ringling has changed its official billing from "The Greatest Show on Earth" to "The Greatest Greatest Show on Earth."

• • •

Some 24 circuses are currently on tour, grossing upwards of $25 million. Among them are:

The Clyde Beatty Circus, only other U.S. railroad circus. One of its fifteen car (Beatty's) looks like a jungle planter's home.

The Shrine-Morton Circus gives half its 3 million gross to the Shrine's children's hospitals.

Few Youths Aim For Top

(Sault Daily Star)

How many youngsters today aim right for the top? Mighty few, as you will find if you discuss the future with any lad about to leave school.

How high do our younger citizens aim? Not very high — about the middle of the road, no more—according to the information we have gleaned from talking to young people just starting out in business.

To start off with, the wage packet seems to be the most important part of the job, regardless of what the work is. The average youngster wants to earn as much money as he can. He is not particularly interested in the work he will be required to do.

Ask any young man setting out in life just how high he hopes to get. Eight times out of ten he will give you a picture of a mediocre job with the usual home, wife and up to four children. Very few will tell you that they want to be Governor-General, Premier or mayor of their city. Even fewer will say that they want to become the owner of a business, a member of parliament, a musician, writer or painter. All these lads ask is a secure job, preferably with a pension, two weeks paid holiday a year, and a wife, refrigerator, washing machine and other modern amenities.

Is there something wrong with these lads? Nothing in particular; just a lack of ambition, too little faith in themselves, a shrinking from appearing too prominently in the public eye and a fear of their ability to provide adequately for a future unless someone organizes it for them.

It seems to us that a healthy youngster, who has just passed his examinations, should feel that the whole world is his oyster and that the future holds untold promise for him. We believe that there is plenty of room at the top, anywhere in the world and that that is the place for every youngster to aim.

We know that Canada is direly short of recruits for the top positions. That few youngsters, even the sons of prominent men, are being trained to take their fathers' place in the leadership of Canada. We also know that many men who have proved capable of becoming important world statesmen are resigning their positions and using their talents in the commercial field.

What is it that makes a young man content to draw unemployment pay and make up the money doing odd jobs of bar-tending and laboring? What is it that makes a man stick to one job only, and, if laid off, sponge on his parents and friends until he is re-employed?

Many of these men are capable of doing great work for themselves and Canada. What can we, as parents, do to instill greater ambition into our children?

Take No Chances!

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CALL FOR MORE YOUNG REBELS

The death of Albert Einstein caused the world to ponder the immense resources of the human intellect. Here was a man who before he was thirty decided that he would go back and check up on certain principles in physics which had been accepted generations before and assumed by everyone to be correct. He found that some of these principles were not correct, and by so doing awoke the world to the possibility of things completely and absolutely new. His theory of relativity and his equation concerning mass and energy produced not a new era but a new age.

All of this arose from the fact that a young man dared to question the contemporary pattern of thought. It may sound absurd to say that the trouble with youth today is that it is lacking in a spirit of rebellion. Youth today considers itself utterly rebellious and often appears to be so, but the flouting of restraint and the casting off of parental authority is usually willfulness, not rebellion. A rebel is a person who insists, in the face of prevailing ignorance and evil, that right must be done and truth must be followed. Jesus was a rebel because he insisted on returning to truth which his contemporaries had rejected. Galileo was a rebel, and so was Christopher Columbus, and so were the Pilgrim Fathers.

The world cries out for more rebels—which means today people who will challenge a lot of the empty - headed, pseudo - psychological, collectivistic nonsense that has the nerve to march along under the banner of progress.

Books and Words

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

According to a report just issued by the library of Congress, that institution acquired its 10 millionth book last year.

In addition, the library now has 14.2 million manuscripts, 2.2 million maps, 2 million photographs, 2 million pieces of music, and in excess of 400,000 phonograph records.

It is hard to understand why, with all this information available to the new members, so many pages of the Congressional Record appear so barren and sterile.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Calcium in An Old Codger's Bones

Milk, whole fresh milk, skim milk, buttermilk, sour milk, Bulgarian milk, acidophilus milk, evaporated milk, drided powdered milk, whichever you prefer, is the best food source of calcium.

Any and every kind of cheese is second only to milk in this respect.

Not less than 1¼ pints, three large glassfuls, of milk daily is the most essential item in the high calcium health diet.

No other food is so nearly perfect as milk. No other food can be more properly called health food.

To the best of my knowledge none of the purported medical authorities who warn about "too much" calcium, "too much" vitamin D, etc., has ventured to specify how much too much would be. From the clippings collected for me I gather that any amount the p.m. authorities have not yet learned to prescribe is too much.

Why are the bones of elderly people more fragile than the bones of young persons? Any schoolboy who studied physiology in the 19th century can answer the question—and there are a lot of 19th century schoolboys practising medicine today. From the text book Fourteen Weeks in Physiology, by J. Dorman Steele, Ph. D., a copy of which a namesake kindly sent me, I quote:

"The composition of the bones at maturity is about one part animal to two parts mineral matter. In youth it is nearly half and half, while in old age the mineral is greatly in excess . . ."

Steele conjured his notion out of fancy, for precise chemical analyses of bone had not yet been made. Today there can be no question that the bones of the aged are easily broken because the bones become gradually demineralized with advancing age. The demineralization is especially a steady loss of calcium, and the steady loss of calcium is due primarily to nutritional deficiency (malnutrition), especially in? adequate intake of calcium, that is, less than the amount one gets in 1½ pints of milk — three full glasses daily. And how much calcium does one get in 1½ pints of milk? Maybe 10 or 12 grains. Not enough for a growing child, but perhaps enough to keep a mature adult from aging prematurely.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Canadian universities are reported to be petrified at the prospect of having to accommodate up to 135,000 students by 1965. At a recent convention of Canadian university presidents and officials representing 36 Canadian institutions of higher learning, the problem was approached from several angles, with emphasis on the necessity of finding new criteria for admitting students to universities.

"We are admitting," said President Sidney Smith of Toronto, "many young men and women who have neither the brains nor the moral stamina to pursue advanced studies."

It is probably difficult for university authorities to face the fact that the organizations which they now direct are no longer universities, but are technical institutes.

Some years ago, The Packsack offered a solution of the massive problem of whom to admit to universities. Nobody paid any attention then, and doubtless still wont. Here it is. Let the high schools and preparatory schools select a strictly limited quota, each year, according to this system: 25 per cent the top all round scholars; 25 per cent athletes and good big handsome squash heads; 25 per cent genuises, marvels in one subject, and dunces in all others; and 25 per cent the sons and daughters of wealthy people who are going to inherit big businesses, industries, wealth. Allow these four categories to enter the universities. They are going to succeed anyway, regardless of what is done for them, one way or the other. They are going to be our leaders. They always have been, always will be. Nothing we can do for them, or to them, can alter their destiny.

By university, in their case, I mean those few old disapidated buildings you will find in the core of all our big universities. There let them pursue the ancient learning, without haste, without fuss, and regardless of whether they do well or ill at it.

All those other buildings, those shirt factories, physics buildings, engineering buildings, medical, luminic technological buildings, should, remaining where they are, be called the technical institutes they really are.

And let all you like of the other 135,000 of the year 1965 attend the institutes, in order to become, as they are bound to be, the employees, the servants, the hirelings of those others, the destined.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONFIDENCE

Every once in a while I stop to measure in my mind some of the simple and familiar words the meaning of which means so much to us all. Take this word, Confidence. Unless we have Confidence in ourselves, in our friends, in our business associates, in our country, and in God, what is to give us faith in anything?

We put our money into investments in which we have Confidence, and we put money into our bank because we have Confidence in it. Everything falls apart when Confidence is lost. Nothing is truer. Especially do we feel the loss of it in a friend. To do so is to experience a minor tragedy.

Every great business is largely built upon Confidence. Every sound idea must be backed by it. It's the very essential. We need it every day of our lives. And we unconsciously exercise it, like when we step into an elevator, a taxicab, a train or plane. How much greater is our Confidence in all things when we place it in God, the giver and creator of all!

shown as a market loss, apparently for no other reason than that of a loss of Confidence in the securities bought. When many people lose Confidence in a good thing, then it is that smart people buy what has been tossed away through fright!

All about us are examples of success caused by self-Confidence. No one in all this world can give us the Confidence that we can give ourselves. If we do not believe in our selves, who else can, or will? You can't defeat a person armed with Confidence.

No one can question our usefulness if we distribute good will instead of fear and false rumors. Our influence can become very great. We can never measure its full significance. Personal Confidence is

You can't throw away a memory

The man driving the combine out there in the field got rid of his last team of horses many years ago. The horse-collar and the harness lay around the barn, collecting dust and mould. But for some reason he could never throw them out.

It was the same way with the milking stool, the lantern, and the pitchfork. They all brought back memories—of hard times, to be sure, but times that could never be forgotten. So the farmer who owned them left these relics of the past in a corner of the old barn.

Now he does his farming the modern way. In the spring he wastes no time putting in the crop with his big Massey-Harris tractor. Mid-summer he gets out his baler and lays in a year's supply of feed for his herd of cattle. In the fall the crop is whisked off in record time with a combine, and winter and summer the milking is done by a power-driven machine.

It's an easier, more productive life for the Canadian farmer now, and a better one for all Canadians. Modern farming has brought a higher standard of living in both town and country, for every Canadian benefits when farmers are prosperous.

Massey-Harris machines were leaders in this great farm revolution. And today, other Massey-Harris revolutions are quietly in the making. You will hear about them—and benefit from them—as the years go by.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

STRANGE FEARS CAN BE

There are a few things more dreadful than to be afraid.

It is bad enough to be afraid of some danger that actually exists. But it is even more terrifying to be afraid and not quite know what it is you fear.

A woman who writes me that she has "about the worst case of being afraid" that she has ever known, has the second type of fear.

"Two terrible things have happened that have made me worse," she says. "My brother was killed, and a very close sister-in-law met death in a horrible way"—just how, she does not say. The significant fact, however, is that she declares she "was afraid even before these things happened."

This woman is married, and has several children, and she explains that "It is when it is quiet that I am afraid. The children make so much noise when they are awake that I can't hear stillness either day or night." But it is after the family are all in bed that the real terror creeps up:

"Then I have a fear of someone coming in the house, or I see a vision of the ones who have died. I get up and turn on the lights, which wakes my husband up. Then he will curse me, turn the lights out and leave me in the dark again, which makes me feel that I hate him for it.

"My husband has seen stories on TV about people with such fears, and knows it's a case for a doctor, but he only says its my own wicked mind, although he knows I'm anything but wicked. I want him to know that I can't help it, that I have really tried. I have good health in every other way except for my fear.

"I can remember that, even when I was a child and some neighbor died, or our dog would get killed, it affected me just the same way."

This woman is absolutely right when she says such a condition as hers "is a case for a doctor." And it is encouraging that she realizes this. For there are people with abnormal fears who are either unable to recognize the fact that they are in need of a doctor's care, or, recognizing it, refuse to admit it because to do so would make them even more afraid. This, of course, only prolongs their torture, whereas the recognition of the need for help, and a readiness to admit the need and to seek it, can begin the cure quickly.

This woman is right again when she says that she "can't help" being afraid. For the truth is that she doesn't actually, know herself just what she is afraid of, and she needs someone to explain it to her. The underlying causes obviously lie far back in something that happened in her childhood which implanted such terror in her that she has never got over it. Yet it was all so long ago that she does not even remember what this happening was, or if she did remember it, she would not understand how it could be responsible for her present strange fears. So, in order to get rid of these fears, she must have the help of someone who can explain them to her. Once it is made clear to her, and she fully understands it, she is on the way to being free of them.

Whether her husband goes along with her or not, she should find her way to a doctor who is familiar with problems of this kind and who can guide her to the solution of hers. And the best way to find such a person is for her either to ask her own doctor, or to go to the clinic of the nearest large hospital and ask there.

Will this woman write me again and let me know what she decides to do?

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

STOUT — BUT STYLISH

There are many women who, even though aware that their weight is increasing cannot bring themselves to face a reducing campaign. They love food too much. If they haven't the stamina to slenderize for the sake of health and beauty, however they can at least put their minds on becoming dress that will help to camouflage the curves and impart an illusion of figure elegance.

The most important point is to have one's clothes of loose fit. The snug bodice reveals the over-developed bust; the sheath skirt calls attention to hips that have followed a policy of expansion. As for slacks—perish the thought.

Soft long-lined draped fabrics are the happy choice because they seem to lessen the appearance of width. The V neck line not only improves the appearance of the figure, but makes the short, plump neck look more slender and takes the curse off the double chin.

If the upper arms are heavy, a sleeveless formal or the bare-top is out of the question. Why display this anatomical defect? Smart little cape-like effects can cover them.

Dark colors are best. Prints of large design add to the appearance of weight. The placing of the belt must be considered. If one is short waisted it should be dropped slightly. If the torso is long and legs short, then up the ceinture.

Salad Days

(Guest column for Mary Moore by Agnes M. Anderson)

Dear Folks: Agnes Anderson is chief production manager of a large radio station—she is also a good cook and a friend of mine. This guest column and two more in succeeding weeks is a labor of love to help me with my writing before I take off for overseas.

Dear Mary: So this is your year of discovery! I can just picture you, a very charming and disarming sort of culinary archeologist, trotting around Britain, armed with testing spoon, notebook and hearty analytical appetite, uncovering the secrets of such historical delights as Bubble and Squeak, Mince Collops, Spotted Dick, and Devonshire Cream. May all your holidays be rewarding!

Meanwhile at home there's plenty of fun for the imaginative, exploring and developing ideas for summer menus. To me—a salad is not a recipe; it's an adventure for I honestly enjoy experimentation. I won't say all my efforts have been wildly successful, but after all, good green things have an affinity for each other and one can't make many mistakes.

I pigeonhole salads into three very general categories: the "tossed" green salads, which, in one form or another, appear every day at our house; the salad plate which gives plenty of scope for the imagination; and the salad dish, which contains practically the entire meal, stirred together in a bowl.

My tossed salad starts with an old wooden butter bowl, which has been in our family a long time. Years ago, many a pound of fresh butter was "worked" in this bowl. In its old age, it has been thoroughly impregnated with garlic, and when it's used, it receives a gentle face-washing with oil—never, never soap and water. The salad ceremony begins when I rub the bowl lightly with a garlic corm. My folks scorn the exotic greens—chicory, endive and the rest. Lettuce—leaf or iceberg—is all they want. This whim I indulge, as long as they never question what else goes into the bowl.

For chopping, I use an old breadboard, and I shred the lettuce—not too big, not too thin, not too long. To this, I add finely chopped onion or green onions, snipped with scissors from root to tasty tops. Next, celery cut in small chunks, to give the salad something to "bite". This is my salad foundation and what else it contains depends on my mood and what the refrigerator holds.

On uninspired days I simply add cucumber slices, tomato wedges and after the dressing has been added, slices of hard boiled egg. (Since I always "toss" my salad, the egg is added last so the pretty gold and white slices won't get broken.)

You know, I talk too much! No time to tell you now of my other salad "categories"—to dwell in pleasant contemplation of summer taste discoveries. May I come again sometime??

Sincerely yours
Andy.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PLANS FOR SMALL WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are having a very small wedding, just about as small as they come: only the parents on both sides, my matron of honor and her husband and the best man and his wife. It will be in the chapel of the church.

1. How much does the groom give to the minister? (No fee is set.)

2. Does my father pay the sexton's fee?

3. Is it correct, and if so is it necessary to send formal announcements of the marriage?

4. Does the groom pay for all corsages?

5. In the case of a small wedding like this, does the bride still give a gift to her attendant, and the groom give a gift to his best man? If so, should they be personal gifts?

6. The groom will be wearing a dark charcoal suit. May he wear tan shoes, or is it more suitable for him to wear black shoes for this occasion?

7. As the wedding dinner will be held in a restaurant where other people are around and thus will witness the proceedings, is it in order to have a wedding cake and to have a toast to the bride and groom? — D.E.

1. For such a very small wedding $5 or $10 would be a proper amount. (The amount of the fee is never fixed, and the groom must decide what amount he wishes to give.)

2. Yes. The bride's family gives the fee to the sexton . . also to the organist if there is to be one.

3. It is correct, but it is not necessary, to send formal announcements of the marriage. Sometimes these announcements are sent in the form of personal notes.

4. Your groom should provide your wedding corsage, that most romantic of all corsages! He also provides a corsage for your mother and for his mother. And either he or your family provides the corsage for your attendant (this varies in different communities, but I think it would be a gracious gesture for him to provide your matron of honor's corsage.) He also provides boutonnieres for: himself, his best man, your father, and his father.

5. Yes. You should give your attendant a gift, and the groom should give his best man a gift. It should be something personal . . . and something lasting.

6. Black shoes are best for this occasion.

7. No matter where the wedding dinner, please do have a wedding cake, and please do have the toast to the bride and groom. Both wonderful and abiding memories!

CWL of St. Michael's Enrertains At Reception in Honor Of Rev. Thomas P. Callaghan, C.Ss.R.

On Sunday afternoon, the County Gardens in Prince Edward was the scene of a very lovely reception held in honor of Rev. Thomas Peter Callaghan, C.Ss.R., by St. Michael's Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League of Canada. More than five hundred friends, relatives, members of the clergy and civic dignitaries called to pay tribute to Father Callaghan, who received the guests with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Callaghan his sisters, Miss Theresa and Mrs. G. Simboli and his brothers, Maurice and John.

Tall white standards holding white gladioli and blue delphinium formed an archway and from the standards extended ropes of blue and white ribbon to the opposite walls, separating the lounge from the tea room. Guests were received at this point by the hostess president of the league, Mrs. B. E. Burley and were invited to tea by Mrs. F. R. Ross. Quintet round shaped tables were placed at intervals; each with its white lacey place mats centred with a crystal vase holding blue cornflowers and Talisman rosebuds. Against the background of dove grey drapery and beneath the blue and gold crest of the league, the tea table was most artistically arranged. Covered with an unusually lovely Italian hand-made lace and embroidered cloth, its flower centre repeated the colors of the league and Our Lady, with blue delphiniums, white Shasta mums, yellow roses and laurel leaves. Triple silver candelabra holding blue and white candles flanked the beautiful flower piece and silver services gleamed in the candlelight at either end.

THOSE WHO SERVED

Pouring during the afternoon were Mrs. Frederick Lee, Mrs. Albert Wilkinson, Mrs. T. W. Bowler, Miss Alice Doyle, Mrs. J. E. Boyd and Mrs. William Frawley, while those who served included Mrs. Carl Casey, Mrs. Wilfred Callaghan, Mrs. Robert Kitchen, Mrs. Kenneth Blaind, Mrs. Joseph Legault, Mrs. P. J. Callaghan, Mrs. Samuel Domenico, Mrs. C. H. Lanzebeer, Mrs. Clement Cox and Mrs. K. Broadworth. Replenishing were Mrs. J. J. Trudeau, Mrs. T. C. Young, Mrs. Peter Feeney, Mrs. Angus McFee, Mrs. Cornelius Lynch, Mrs. J. J. Farrell and Mrs. J. A. Boyle.

The tea room was under the supervision of Mrs. J. E. Logan and Mrs. Frank Domenico and Mrs. Rodolfe Cruji was responsible for the delicious cups of tea.

During the afternoon the pastor of St. Michael's and director of the league, Very Reverend L. B. Garvin visited with the guests together with the Reverend Peter Murphy and Reverend J. J. Buckley of St. Joseph's Parish.

Arrangements for this lovely event in honor of Father Callaghan were completed by Mrs. J. E. Logan, Mrs. Frank Domenico and the president, Mrs. Burley.

BAN CROCKET HATS

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Davy Crockett "coonskin" hats made of cardboard and shredded crepe paper were banned Friday by the Providence fire department because they proved highly inflammable. The McLellan stores received a shipment of the caps. They looked inflammable, and somebody at the store touched a match to one. It turned to a cinder in a flash.

Millions of Tiny Sucker Fry Ready to Feed Growing 'Lunge

TORONTO — Maskinonge fishing opens generally throughout Ontario July 1. Already millions of tiny sucker fry to provide food for next year's crop of maskinonge have been hatched in Ontario Department of Lands and Forests hatcheries. There isn't much future in being an infant sucker, a coarse fish found in many Ontario streams, particularly in the spring when the run is on.

Ontario is one of the few places in the world where the muskie, maskinonge, muskellunge or whatever you care to call it is raised in a hatchery to augment the natural supply of the fish, one of the largest caught in fresh water.

For many years, government organizations have tried to raise muskies, but one of the major difficulties lies in the fact that the muskie is a cannibal and also requires food from the time it is about 12 days old. If the food is not provided, in the form of suckers, for instance, then the tiny muskies feed on each other.

Each Spring, hatchery employees net muskies and remove the eggs which, it is hoped, will develop into future maskinonge. At one provincial hatchery this year, Deer Lake, nearly six million eggs were collected. For many years, the Department simply "planted" eggs in waters known to be favorable. But too many of them died or were taken by predators. Only in comparatively recent years was it decided to raise the fish to at least the fingerling stage, providing them with live food until they were big enough to take care of themselves.

POLICY PAYS OFF

This policy has paid off in keeping muskie fishing alive in areas where they would have vanished long ago. The muskie is one of the most highly prized trophies of any fisherman. Yet, thousands of Ontario residents have never caught one and many have never even seen one.

The scientific name of the big fish is Esox masquinongy. The fish is better known as the maskinonge, northern muskellunge, "tiger muskie", muskie or 'lunge. It is pike-like in appearance. In fact, the Department of Lands and Forests now is "crossing" it with the pike and producing a hybrid known as the "mus-pike". The muskie has a long body with a broad back and a long flattened head, large mouth and strong jaws.

It may be distinguished from the pike by its coloration. The muskie has dark, vertical bars or dark spots on a light background; the cheeks are not usually covered by scales on the lower half; the holes on the underside of the lower jaw are small and 12 to 18 in number—compared with 10 on the pike.

But the skilled fisherman does not even need to look at the muskie to recognize the difference. The fighting qualities are completely at variance. Most pike "come in like a log". The muskie may dive, run with the bait, jump out and stand on his tail and shake his whip-like body and head and "try to throw the plug back at you."

WILL ROLL IN LINE

The muskie may also roll in the line if it is not kept tight enough and, by getting sufficient purchase, snap it fairly easily. Muskies of 20 pounds are not at all unusual. Each year, a few are caught weighing 40 pounds. The world record is slightly better than 60 pounds and has frequently changed hands in Ontario.

Up to about 30 years ago, practically no one ever thought of casting for muskies. It is generally believed that Ernest Poole, once tourist agent of the Canadian National Railways, and the late Ernie Calvert, camp operator on Lake of the Woods, were among the first in Canada to discover that the muskie would strike at plugs, bugs, spinners and other artificials. Before that, most muskie fishermen trolled, using baits such as the white sucker, perch, pumpkin seeds, rock bass and even bullheads. But once the word spread that the bait or fly fisherman, and even the spinning enthusiasts, had a better than average chance to catch a whopper, muskie fishing became very popular.

People travelled thousands of miles for a chance to catch a muskie. The late Rex Beach, author and fisherman, who had travelled the world in search of sport, first caught a maskinonge in Ontario. His enthusiastic magazine articles gave muskie fishing a fillip. He caught his first muskie on Little Vermillion Lake near Hudson, Ont. and later flew into Cliff Lake to the north, then accessible only by plane. Today, Cliff Lake may be reached by highway between Sioux Lookout and Red Lake.

Ferocious in appearance, the muskie has given many a fisherman a thrill and even a moment of fear. Hooked, tired but still game, the cold eyes of the fish meet those of the fisherman in seeming hatred. So vivid is the experience that more than one novice to muskie fishing has wished he had never started the contest.

There is no record of any Ontario fisherman ever having been attacked by a muskie — though placing the fingers too close to its sharp teeth is not recommended.

Customs Men Fish for Keys To Whisky Cache

GALWAY, Ireland (CP) — The keenest fishermen in all Ireland today were the customs inspectors of Galway.

With magnets dangling from the ends of their lines they fished the waters alongside the local dock for a set of keys.

The keys, which fell into the water, belonged to a local warehouse.

SENATE GETS

Argus MacInnis (CCF — Vancouver Kingsway) asked whether Commons members doubt their judgment so much that they feel review by a non-elected body is necessary. It was denial of democracy that a group not responsible to the people should have veto power.

As a protector of minorities the Senate had done well in protecting the rich, always a minority.

Mr. MacInnis said he agrees with CCF policy that the Senate should be abolished, but he wondered how it could be done with no CCF members in the upper chamber.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC — Macleod) said the Senate should be reformed so it can play a useful role in guarding provincial rights. He suggested a combination of elected and appointed senators, or a combination of provincial and federal appointees. Something should be done to restore public confidence in it.

DOESN'T AGREE

Mr. McIvor, at 82 the oldest Commons member, said he doesn't agree with proposals for an age limit in the Senate.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said he wonders whether Mr. St. Laurent, in not filling present vacancies, is bringing about the CCF aim of abolition. He said strengthening the Senate by reforms will merely continue an undemocratic body.

It was the second time the Senate has come up for knocks this parliamentary session. Earlier the Senate itself voted 37 to 12 to defeat a bill sponsored by Senator William Euler (L—Ontario) to put a six-month time limit on the length vacancies can go unfilled.

A Commons bill sponsored by Frank S. Follwell (L — Hastings South) to require retirement of senators at 75 has not been debated since it was introduced March 2.

Band Festival At Waterloo Attracts 20,000

WATERLOO (CP) — More than 20,000 people watched 11 bands perform at the Waterloo band festival Saturday.

Sixty-two bands, including 10 RCAF groups, took part in a three-hour street parade.

RCAF bands from Saskatoon and Portage La Prairie, Man., were flown to Waterloo for the performance.

The Preston, Ont., Scout House band won three competitions. It collected 84.5 points in the valve instruments, open class one, competition and won the Canadian junior championship with 85.8 points. The band gained 88.5 points in the fancy drill.

Britons Break Track Records

LONDON (CP) — Britain's track stars, reaching their mid-summer peak, are threatening world records every time they run.

Saturday, in an obscure district championship, two little-publicized Englishmen, Frank Sando of Aylesford, Kent, and Ken Norris of London's Wembley district, ran three miles in the world's third fastest time, 13 minutes 29.8 seconds.

Sando finished about a foot in front of Norris after wresting the lead from Norris about a yard from the finish.

Nine of the 21 runners in this southern counties championship did the three miles in less than 14 minutes—a feat described by British newspapers as "something unique in athletics history."

Of the five runners who have beaten 13½ minutes, Britain can claim four—Sando, Norris, Chris Chataway and Gordon Pirie. Only Chataway and Russia's Vladimir Kuc have run faster, Kuc in 13 minutes 26.2 seconds and Chataway in 13-27.2.

Next bet for Britain's cinder-scorching runners comes Saturday when Pirie will attack the unofficial world record for three-quarters of a mile in the Beverly Baxter trophy meeting at Southgate, Middlesex.

Cannifton

CANNIFTON — Mrs. L. S. Throop moved last Tuesday to Purdy St., Belleville.

Mrs. Allen Soble, Bonnie and Jackie, and Mrs. Worrell, Port Hope, came down for the circus and stayed over night.

The community held a shower for Mr. and Mrs. Allen (Pete) Smith. They were given a coffee table and a trilight lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lawson and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Bleckman and Billie were at the R.A. picnic at Cedardale on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Latchford and family spent the week-end at the Latchford cottage at Bancroft.

Mrs. George Sharpe, who has been at the Belleville General Hospital for over a week, has returned home. She is progressing favorably.

EUCHRE PARTY

The Cannifton and Corbyville weekly euchre was held at the Corbyville cafeteria. There were six tables: Ladies, first, Edna Jones; second, Lorraine Curlette; third, Alice Latchford. Men, first, Jordan Latchford; second, Gertie McKay; third, Mrs. Norm Curlette. Lone hand, Mrs. F. Windsor; draw, Mrs. Morgan, of Plainfield.

Miss Claudia Farnham is spending a week with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Denike.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Windsor spent a couple of days at their cottage on East Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell entertained the Cannifton choir at their home on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lou Lemmon and family were down from Toronto over the week-end, visiting Mrs. Lemmon's mother, Mrs. Lena Shorey and Mr. and Mrs. George Shorey.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lywood and Jean Diane spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Grass.

Tax Collectors Clamp Down On Joe Louis

CHICAGO (AP)—A government lawyer said Monday that former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis hired his former wife, Marva as his manager in a 1945 divorce settlement.

Marva, now Mrs. Marva Trotter Barrow Spaulding, testified she knew nothing about a manager-ship agreement outlined by Asst. U.S. Solicitor Thomas J. Donnelly in a tax court hearing.

The government is asking that $65,000 held in trust for the two children of Louis and his former wife be applied toward a settlement of back income taxes which Donnelly said amount to $246,000 for 1946.

Louis, who has declared he hasn't enough money to pay the back taxes, is part owner of the Moulin Rouge Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., where he works as official host.

Happy Father Of Triplets Embraces Wife

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — The happy father of triplets that were nearly born over the Atlantic jumped off an airliner here Sunday night and rushed to the hospital to embrace his wife.

Gordon Keith left Windom, Minn. as soon as he learned his wife had her triplets two months prematurely, 10 hours after she was landed here from a trans Atlantic flight.

Mrs. Keith is resting in hospital here for a few days before she is flown to Pepperrell air force base near St. John's to join her babies. They were flown to hospital at the American base Sunday so better facilities could be used for looking after them.

Mr. Keith, 30-year-old Windom newspaper publisher, was flown to Gander from New York after several delays by Capt. Bill Whitfield, English pilot who was at the controls of a Scandinavian Airlines plane Friday when Mrs. Keith announced that she expected to have triplets at any time.

At the time the plane was 1,000 miles from Prestwick, Scotland, and 800 miles from Gander. Rather than turn back, says Capt. Whitfield, "I gave her the gun." He said the race was too close for comfort.

Must Be Liberal To Become Judge Says Senator

OTTAWA (CP)—A charge that a lawyer must be a "died in the wool Liberal" to be appointed to the bench was heard in the Senate Monday night.

Senator John T. Haig, Opposition leader, and a practising lawyer in Winnipeg, said there is a growing feeling among Canadians that to be appointed a judge a lawyer must be a Liberal supporter.

He said that in the last 20 years there has not been a single Conservative supporter appointed to the Manitoba bench. Supporters of his party or of the CCF and Social Credit parties were never appointed to the judiciary.

Senator Haig spoke as the upper chamber gave second reading—approval in principle—to a bill providing a $2,500 annual pay increase to Canada's federally - appointed judges. It was passed by the Commons previously.

GOLD MINING AT PEAK

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South African gold mines produced a record revenue last year of £158,600,000 ($303,080,000), C. B. Anderson, president of the Transvaal and Orange Free State Chamber mines, said today. Working costs, however, increased by £13,000,000.

Opening Night of Festival At Stratford Impresses Critics

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD (CP) — A distinguished first-night audience saw an "energetic and provocative" performance of "Julius Caesar" as the Stratford Shakespearian festival rolled majestically into its third season Monday night.

Critical opinion was that this was a difficult play to produce but after the first intermission the production scene had brightened, particularly in director Michael Langham's handling of the conspiratorial scene.

Herbert Whittaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail said: "The sun of this production shone forth as Caesar's sun set. The circle of Stratford's tent-theatre and the centre of its being, Tanya Moiseiwitsch's witching stage, became transformed truly into the Roman Forum. . . ."

LAST YEAR REPEAT

Tonight's production, "Oedipus Rex," is a repeat of a last year's presentation with British actor Douglas Campbell in the title role in place of Hollywood's James Mason Wednesday, what has been rumored as a fanciful and colorful production of "The Merchant of Venice" will open.

The drama critic of Variety said of Monday night's "Julius Caesar" that "The dagger-wielding solons were all outstanding in their respective roles, with only Lloyd Bochner too high-pitched and often inaudible."

The first act, he said, "seemed unsteady and had difficulty in holding audience interest but the play then built steadily on the sheer action poetry of the Shakespeare lines and plot, plus the last-act slaughter."

Walter O'Hearn of the Montreal Star said the production provided some "rich insights into a difficult play."

CONSISTENT MOOD

He said the play had a consistent mood. ". . . This is a heavily stylized production; the actors declaim with a frankness, and a frequent grace, to capture the ear and eye. Golden eagles and flaunting banners wave over the unitary stage; rabble shout and dash through the aisles."

Mr. O'Hearn termed Lorne Greene's Brutus, "a performance of astonishing stature." He said Don Harron's "cold, youthful Octavius, while a small role, had a chill perfection."

Mr. Whittaker said in discussing Donald Davis as Mark Antony in the funeral oration that "to this rostrum came Mark Antony and the play soared magnificently into its true stature. . . The director showed us what a fine rousing piece of theatre Shakespeare created here."

NEW PIERCING NOTE

Mr. Langham, he said, managed to introduce one new piercing note of horror and fun on which to end the second act. The ravaging Roman mob came upon the drunken poet, Cinna, and "before our unbelieving eye, tore him to shreds." Thus "with a theatrical trick, Mr. Langham topped off his splendid oration scene and sent us out happy that Stratford was in full flower again."

Other principals included Douglas Campbell as Casca; Eleanor Stuart of Montreal as Calpurnia, Caesar's wife; William Shatner, Montreal, Lucius, Brutus' servant; Douglas Rain, Winnipeg, as Decius Brutus; Cinna the poet, William Hutt, Ottawa, and a cast of 60.

Costumes and decor were by Tanya Moiseiwitsch. Musical director was Louis Applebaum and artistic director Tyrone Guthrie.

Senator Protests Section in Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Ontario attorney-general said Monday night that legislation to ensure secrecy of private radio communications gives the government the right to make criminal law.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) protested a section in a bill to amend the Radio Act which would make it illegal for unauthorized persons to use or pass on any overheard private radio communications.

The bill would apply to radio-telephone messages, taxi-radio calls or radio reports by mining company prospecting crews. One legal authority said it also may prevent newspapers making use of information contained in police radio calls.

CAN MAKE EXCEPTIONS

The legislation provides that the government may make exceptions to permit public use of messages transmitted by commercial broadcasting stations, distress signals or ship warnings of hazards to navigation.

Senator Roebuck said, however, that the exceptions would be contained in regulations approved under the Radio Act. The exceptions should be written into the legislation and not hidden in regulations. "This is the same as legislating against sin and allowing the executive to define sin," he told the Senate.

The bill, previously passed by the Commons, received final Senate approval after Senator Roebuck's brief protest.

MORE HUK TROUBLE

MANILA (AP) — Four Filipino soldiers and a Communist Huk rebel were killed Monday in a clash about 40 miles southeast of Manila, Philippine news service reported. It was the first serious incident between government troops and dissidents reported this year.

Canada's Ocean Merchant Fleet Slowly Shrinking

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet shrank by 20 ships between April 1, 1954, and the end of March of this year.

The annual report of the Canadian maritime commission, tabled Monday in the Commons, said the deepwater fleet of dry cargo vessels under Canadian registry totalled 27 last March 31 compared with 47 a year previous.

The report also said the current unhealthy condition of Canada's shipbuilding industry will continue unless there is a major increase in orders. No ships were built for export in Canada during the year.

MERCHANT SHIPS DECLINE

The commission said the merchant navy, including deep-sea, coastal and Great Lakes ships, declined to 345 vessels from 360. Coastal ships declined to 61 from 63 while Great Lakes vessels rose to 257 from 250.

Sixteen Canadian vessels were transferred to United Kingdom registry under terms of a 1950 agreement between Canada and the U.K. Twenty-four rave been transferred since November, 1953.

A commission spokesman said the majority of ocean-going ships still on Canadian registry do not operate from Canadian ports.

"The inability of Canadian ships to survive in world-wide competition is due to inherent high operating costs in relation to those of major competitors. . ." the report said.

GAINS SUDDEN RICHES

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Anna Chulick, 48-year-old former $1.13-an-hour factory worker, Monday became the sole heir to a $104,289 estate left by her uncle, Michael Kowal, who died May 21 at the age of 70 Kowal had been a confectionary operator and retired 27 years ago with a "little money," which mounted through simple living and shrewd investments.

PAYS FOR SPREE

MOSCOW (AP) — A Georgia newspaper, Tbilisi's Dawn of the East, reports a firing squad has executed ex-convict S. I. Bakhrusuli for a crime spree that included six murders in five months.

Compulsory Registration of Votes May Be Instituted After Survey

TORONTO (CP)—A survey designed to improve voting procedure in provincial elections is underway in Ontario and, upon completion, may put an end to the system of paid election enumerators.

A committee comprising former Toronto returning officers is making the unofficial survey and questioning all other officers who acted for the 88 ridings in the recent provincial election. They are being asked to list ways to improve electoral procedure.

The resultant report will be published in book form and presented to Rod Lewis, chief election officer for Ontario, in the hope provincial legislation may endorse the recommendations made.

One possible result of the survey would be a proposal that the 150-year-old system of enumerators—who compile street lists of eligible voters—be scrapped in favor of compulsory registration of voters, as enforced in some United States cities. Under the latter system a citizen must register or forgo his vote.

Toronto lawyer Michael Doyle, a member of the survey committee, said compulsory registration would be a decided improvement. He said dependable enumerators are not always easy to find.

NEHRU IN AUSTRIA

Do We See Habs? $64 TV Question In Ottawa Setup

OTTAWA (CP)—Now that Ottawa has two CBC television stations, one English and the other French, the big question in the minds of the latter station's viewers is: "Will we see Montreal Canadiens' hockey games on TV next winter"

Except for that uncertainty, French-speaking TV enthusiasts in the Ottawa metropolitan area—where the population is about 45 per cent French-speaking—appear well satisfied with the two-station setup.

At the moment, the answer they get from the publicly-owned CBC is: "We're willing to televise Canadiens' games if the league, the clubs and the sponsors say it is all right."

Support for the Habs is particularly strong in the predominantly French - speaking community of Hull, across the Ottawa river from the capital.

FEATURED LEAFS

For the last two winters, while Ottawa had only one TV outlet, CBOT, operating on a bilingual basis, the Saturday night games on television featured Toronto Maple Leafs exclusively.

Agitation to have Leafs and Canadiens appear on alternate Saturdays met with no success.

The possibility of Ottawa district hockey fans following either club on television now has come up following last Friday's opening of CBOFT the new French-language station here. CBOT now is an English-language outlet only.

After four days of operation from its new $1,700,000 studios, CBOT-CBOFT reports little public reaction, other than that bilingual viewers now may switch from Channel 4, in English, to Channel 9, in French, or vice versa.

So far, all the French programs on CBOFT come from Montreal's CBFT studios, although plans are being made for programs from Ottawa starting next September. Programs next winter likely will include press conferences, public opinion programs and possibly a variety show.

The two-station system is similar to Montreal's CBMT-CBFT setup.

Board to Enter Wage Dispute At GM, Oshawa

TORONTO (CP)—A three-man conciliation board Wednesday will enter the wage dispute between General Motors of Canada and the 10,000 employees of its Oshawa plant.

Talks between the company and United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) broke down Monday.

An Ontario government conciliator is to meet with representatives of both sides in an effort to settle union requests for a guaranteed annual wage and increased health benefits.

The board's appointment in the squabble is seen as a test of the UAW's announced policy of proposals before such boards. The union has stated it considers conciliation boards ineffective in settling labor disputes.

DIFFER ON SENIORITY

The union asks that employees be laid off in order of their company-wide seniority in layoffs of more than 14 days. It seeks to eliminate the system of seniority within occupational groups.

The UAW also seeks the right to have employees bid for job openings in other sections of the plant.

A breakdown in negotiations involving GM workers in four other Ontario cities occurred June 14. This dispute also is expected to be referred to the conciliation board. Mennen Williams has agreed to investigate the case.

John Reyeraft said Gov. Williams agreed to look into the case of Bernard McCann, 52, after he presented the governor with a petition signed by 2,500 persons seeking McCann's release.

McCann escaped from the Michigan state prison in February, 1954, and was captured by Windsor police in March. He was taken back to Michigan in September,

'Hollywood Cut' Has no Place In Army Life

LONDON (Reuers) — Tom Wood Monday was sentenced to 28 days in the guardhouse for defying an order to get rid of his £70 coiffure.

Tired of the "army crop" hairstyle after his compulsory military service two years ago, Wood, who is 22, began spending 11 shillings a week to have the kind of haircut London's dance hall glamor boys call the "Hollywood cut." It features drooping, well-oiled curls over the forehead, long sideburns and a thick shock extending down the nape of the neck.

Developing and caring for it requires weekly professional trim, shampoo and shaping.

All went well until Wood was called up for his two weeks' reservist training.

"Cut it," barked the sergeant. Wood ignored the order. He got k.p. for that.

That was last year. When he reported for his two weeks' training this year the order was repeated and again ignored.

Asks $7,500,000 Damages From Alberta Papers

CALGARY (CP)—E. W. Costello, secretary for Mannix Ltd. and Mannix - O'Sullivan Paving Ltd., said Monday defamation suits for damages totalling $7,500,000 are being launched against the Calgary Herald, the Edmonton Journal and the Southam Co. Ltd.

He said The Herald was served Monday with notice of two actions totalling $2,500,000 and that The Journal was to be served notice today of two similar actions. Mr. Costello said notice of two more actions for another $2,500,000 also was served Monday on the Southam company.

The notices said stories printed in both Southam newspapers June 15, June 22 and June 23, defamed the large construction firm and the road-building company. Copies of the notices were released to the press by Mr. Costello.

The stories quoted or referred to speeches by Alberta Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse during the campaign for Wednesday's Alberta general election.

'Copter Found With Two Dead Beside Wreckage

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP)—A helicopter that carried two men to their deaths during a fierce northern Ontario forest fire three weeks ago was found Monday, smashed to bits near a logging road.

The bodies of Pilot Arthur Cole of Vancouver and his passenger, Barney Smith, a forester with the Abitibi Power and Paper Company at Sault Ste. Marie, were picked up near the wreckage.

Hope for the survival of the two men had been given up more than a week ago after the RCAF and private planes searched the area. The wreckage was spotted by a forester, H. H. (Holly) Parsons of Toronto, who was flying over the district. Glittering pieces of plastic window attracted his attention.

A ground party went to the crash scene to bring out the bodies.

NO KNOWN CAUSE

There was no known cause for the crash, which happened 12 miles north of Chapleau, a community on the CPR main line about 100 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Cole and Smith vanished June 2 while on a flight for the Abitibi Company to direct estimations of salvageable timber in the area. At that time the forest fire had raged over some 60,000 acres of woodland.

Parsons, a consulting forester, was flying with Reg Phillip, an Austin Airways Co. pilot, when he sighted the wreckage, between Racine lake and Jennie lake.

The helicopter was based at Toronto island airport and was chartered by Abitibi. When it left Chapleau it had only enough fuel for four flying hours.

RCAF PLEASES

METZ, France (CP) — Heading into the last lap of Exercise Carte Blanche, Canada's 600 flying men seem sure of a pat on the back from the official brass. At 5 p.m. Monday night, they had flown 1,811 sorties in this largest of all NATO air manoeuvres and had been credited with 108 aircraft destroyed. Another 606 "probables" await confirmation by the umpires. Fifty-three "enemy" machines have been damaged.

'What Is So Rare As A Day In June' Except When Those Dodgers Lose

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GOLDEN TRAIL!

The "rags-to-riches" story of Archie Moore goes on. Three years ago the light heavyweight champion took $800 as his purse. He had spent more than that in publicity for a contemplated fight with Rocky Marciano.

The other day he knocked out Bobo Olson in the third round that paved the way to golden glory. Archie picked up a cheque for some $81,000.

Then he dined in grand style. He had a suite at the Hotel Warwick in New York. He gorged food that previously he had read about. He said he was trying to get back the weight he lost measuring down to meet Olson. Moore never had so much money nor has he eaten so good. The mob threw him a party. He ate like a gourmet. He said he was trying to get gack the weight necessary for him to fight Rocky Marciano. Brother, he's going to need a lot more than food to beat the Brockton Blockbuster.

There may be such a thing that his victory over Bobo may have gone to the Moore noggin'. He's is as cocky as a sparrow and as far as he and his manager Charlie Johnston are concerned, the fight can take place "anywhere."

"Anywhere I hang my hat is home," he boasts. "Chicago is a good town. We should draw well there."

He sees flaws in Marciano's style. He may be in a position to do that now, but later on he may be in a fist position and admit his error if he comes to in time.

After all, a frustrated veteran like ageless Moore should have something to dream about. As a matter of fact his ego is something that maybe might best him. The guy risen from the two-bit-a-day class to some $80,000 overnight after all should be given some mental consideration.

According to reports from the United States, Moore is so elated over his alleged reduction of weight that he is going to write a book about it. How about waiving publication until after you meet Rocky, Archie?

After all you have boasted that you are a master at weight-making. You said you can go up to 185 pounds and be stronger than you were at 175 against Olson. Who is kidding you?

Moore ventured the prediction that a fight between he and Rocky would be a good one. He claims he saw flaws in Rocky's attack in the Walcott fight. "The flaws are still there. I believe I can get to Rocky and if I hit him I'll floor him." (Archie, d'jever think what might happen if Rocky hits you first?)

Archie is no Jack Benny. He says he is 38, that's one under Benny's claim, and we think Moore is the better comedian. At least he doesn't smell, with his appreciation-inviting looks at the audience.

Moore, like most negroes is a bop addict. His ego is out of this world. After all can you blame him? He's going on tour with a jazz band and be the big shot with a wisp of a moustache and a goatee. It's a tuft of whisker that adorns his lower lip. Cult, he says.

"I hope to play Brockton," he grinned, the other day. "That's the home of Rocky." Cocky, eh!"

With the prospect of perhaps a half million bucks staring in the face who can blame him for being a little cocky. After all what newspaper man or any other Joe can make a quarter million in fifty minutes. Shucks, it takes us two weeks to make that much.

Flatbush Fusiliers Plugging At Same Rate As In '52, '54 But With A Twelve-Game Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If it's any consolation to the rest of the National League, Brooklyn is back to normal again. The Dodgers aren't winning any more games these days than they did during June of the past three seasons.

Trouble is, of course, that the Brooks won the pennant in two of the last three years.

No games were scheduled in either league Monday.

The Dodgers have been playing .720 ball for June with the month almost over. That's about the same winning percentage they enjoyed in 1952, when they won, and in '54, when they lost. They travelled at a .724 clip for the month of June in both years.

TOO SLOW LAST YEAR

Last year it proved too slow a pace. The New York Giants got their heroics started and raced along at an .857 clip, taking the lead for good in June.

In '52, the Brooks moved past the Giants into first place during June and had a 3½-game lead at the end of the month. They made it two straight the following year, although barely above .500 for June. Neither of the contenders at the time—Milwaukee and St. Louis—did much better, however.

This time, though, the Brooks have that big edge they piled up in April and May to lead the second-place Chicago Cubs by 12½ games. The Cubs, incidentally, have played just .444 ball for the month, yet are still a half-game up on Milwaukee.

Juan De Fuca Beats Canadian Girl Swimmer

VICTORIA (CP)—An 18-year-old Toronto school girl put up a courageous fight against the Strait of Juan de Fuca Monday night before she was beaten by contrary tides.

Janice White, daughter of a Toronto industrialist and practically an unknown in swim circles, swam roughly nine miles in more than six hours before she gave up.

Her swim followed by 12 hours the attempt of Rev. John Donelon, Roman Catholic priest of Toronto's St. Peter's church, who stayed in only two hours and 27 minutes before being pulled out stiff with cold.

WILL TRY AGAIN

Janice said she will make another attempt to swim between Victoria and the Washington state shore—18.3 miles away. First, however, she will return east to take part in a swimming race there.

Bert Thomas, persistent challenger from Tacoma, Wash., who has made four unsuccessful tries at the strait, accompanied Janice in her coach's boat.

He said she was a better swimmer than Pat Russell, who swam against him June 3 and lasted seven hours and 18 minutes before she was pulled semi-conscious from the water.

IN GOOD SHAPE

The 155-pound Janice, who swam without the usual cold-protecting grease on her body, was in good condition when she came out of the water. She said she saw there was no use bucking the tide.

Father Donelon, who carefully plotted his course with the help of experts in Toronto, couldn't endure the cold and had the tides against him. He said he is coming back for another attempt but not this year.

MANOTICK, NASHUA, SHINE

NEW YORK (AP)—Manotick, a 46-to-1 longshot owned by Chris Chenery, surprised with a bristling stretch finish Monday to win the $30,540 Gazelle Stakes over Two Stars and heavily favored High Voltage at Aqueduct.

Manotick's surprise victory over the other nine three-year-old fillies in the 1 1-16-mile shared the spotlight with a fine workout by Nashua, the Belair Stud's great three-year-old colt.

Nashua, tuning up for the $50,000 added Dwyer Stakes Saturday, romped a mile and a furlong in 1:50 3-5. Judging by his sparkling prep between the second and third races Monday, Nashua should have a breeze for the fat purse.

Jets Extend Win Streak To Ten Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Columbus Jets keep steamrolling along in pursuit of the Toronto Maple Leafs, but the road to the top of the International League is slow and tedious.

The Jets extended their winning streak to 10 games Monday night by edging Buffalo Bisons 2-1, to move within seven and one-half games of idle Toronto.

During the Jets' present string of victories they have been able to gain only three and one half games on the pace setters, who also have been busily fighting off threats by the Montreal Royals and Havana Sugar Kings.

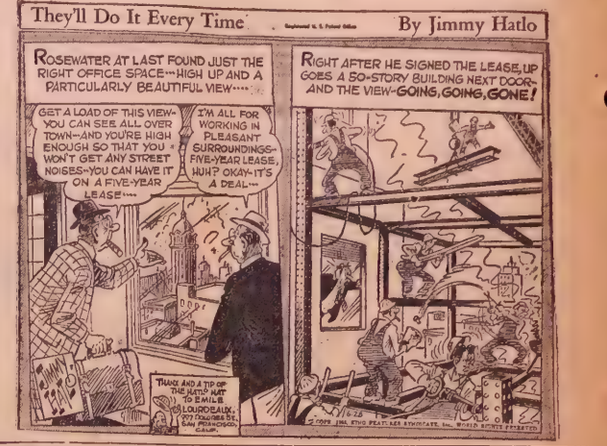
Both the Royals and Sugar Kings also won Monday night to pick up ground on the Maple Leafs. The Royals, behind the shutout pitching of righthander Don Drysdale trounced Syracuse Chiefs 8-0, and the Sugar Kings easily swept past Rochester Red Wings 8-1. The Richmond Virginians were idle.

TWO-RUN DOUBLE

The Bisons took a 1-0 lead over Columbus on Chick King's home run in the fifth, but Frank Verdi's two run double in the eighth kept the Jets string alive.

Drysdale allowed six Syracuse singles in gaining his eighth victory in 11 starts. The Royals got to three Syracuse pitchers for 13 hits, including home runs by John Bucha, a solo shot in the second, and Clyde Parris' two-run blast in the third. Southpaw Kent Peterson was hit solidly during his four-inning stint as the Royals scored five runs to send him down to his fourth setback.

The Cubans jumped on starter and loser Duke Markell in the first inning with a four-run outburst. Luis Garcia paced the Sugar Kings with two doubles and his eighth homer of the season, to drive in four runs.



Hurricane' Blows Down Slade

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, the perpetual motion man, swarmed over Jimmy Slade with his persistent attack Monday night to even an old score by winning a unanimous 10-round decision. Jackson weighed 195½, Slade 183½ pounds.

There were no knockdowns in the battle witnessed by 1,400 fans paying $2,178. Slade, upset conqueror of the red-hot Jackson April 26, 1954, was barely able to squint through his swollen right eye at the end.

Jackson opened a cut over Slade's eye in the third round and it bled through the rest of the fight.

It was the Hurricane's sixth straight success.

BISONS RECALL ROOKIE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Ronnie Rozman, rookie righthand pitcher, was recalled Monday from Little Rock by Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League. General manager Hillman Lyons said he would replace Vince Trakan, who was sent to the Southern Association club.

Righthanders Maintain Whiff Record Over Forkside Hurlers Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The co-emergence of two great young southpaw strikeout artists, Karl Spooner of Brooklyn and Herb Score of Cleveland, has brought a query as to how lefthanders have compared with righties over the years in getting the third strike.

If the man's made a bet on the lefties, he's a goner. You have to go down the list through four righthanders—Walter Johnson, 3,497; Cy Young, 2,836; Bobby Feller, 2,538 starting this season, and Christy Mathewson, 2,499—before you come to the first crooked arm, Rube Waddell, who fanned 2,375 in his big league career. Lefties Bob Grove and Eddie Plank followed with 2,271 and 2,257, respectively.

Righthanders, in fact, lead in almost every strikeout department. Among the moderns—that is, since the pitching box was extended from 50 feet to its present 60 feet, 6 inches in 1893—Feller set the record for the most in a season when he fanned 348 batters in 1946. Waddell stands second with 343 whiffs in 1904.

In most strikeouts in a nine-inning game it's Feller again, with the 18 Detroit Tigers he set down in 1938. The Indian fireballer lost that contest, by the way. Bobby also struck out 17 in a 1936 game, matching the mark held up to that time by Dizzy Dean. It is rather surprising to note that Grove never blinded as many as 15 batters in a game.

Still another righty, Max Surkont, then with Milwaukee, set the modern record for consecutive strikeouts when he put eight batters down in order two seasons ago. Spooner became the first lefty to get his name in the No. 1 spot when he baffled 15 Giants in his first big league start last September.

Canadian Oarsmen To Start Battle For Grand Challenge Cup Friday

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (CP)—Canada made her first bid for honors in the Henley royal regatta 70 years ago.

Friday, the University of British Columbia eights crew will be seeking to stay in the fight for the biggest prize of all, the Grand Challenge Cup, which has always eluded Canada's grasp.

A Toronto Argonauts foursome made Canada's Henley debut in 1885 in the Stewards' Challenge Cup—unsuccessfully as it turned out. The first Canadian triumph was marked up in 1904 in the Diamond Sculls when Lou Scholes won.

And although the Winnipeg Rowing Club won the Stewards' in 1910, and Joe Wright Jr., and Jack Guest Sr., duplicated Scholes' Sculls triumph in 1928 and 1930, at least nine assaults on the Grand have failed.

GET SOME BREAKS

In what may be the most frustrating Henley since the inaugural in 1839 the Canadians have had some breaks over the two other overseas entries, the Russian Club Krasnoe Znamia and the University of Pennsylvania. The dock strike has been the stumbling block.

UBC, arriving first on the Henley scene June 10, didn't get its shell until eight days later. But the Russians, who won three of five Henley events last year, including the Grand, still haven't got theirs.

It looked today as though they might have to use borrowed shells for the regatta which starts Wednesday and ends Saturday.

Hopes for a speedy unloading faded despite willingness of five rowing-minded dockers to give the Russians a break. A Henley truck returned empty after waiting at dockside for hours.

The American crew had planned to ship its shell via the Queen Mary before a strike of stewards and other hands intervened. Finally authorities wrangled passage aboard a big U.S. Air Force transport.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Soccer, the only game of football deserving the term properly, because the ball is propelled principally with the feet, and never carried, is the oldest game in the world, and has greater international scope than any other game.

Football originated in England in the 11th century, and the legend is that the first "ball" was a Danish skull that the boys booted around.

Records now show that soccer was played in the schools as far back as 1710. But it was not until halfway through the nineteenth century that the first adult club was formed. The example of this organization, the Sheffield Club, was speedily followed in various parts of Britain and only the lack of a standard set of rules handicapped progress. The solution to this difficulty came with the advent of the Football Association, Oct. 26, 1863.

At the Freemason's Tavern, Great Queen Street, in London, a small band of footballers assembled that day to lay down a code of rules for the regulation of the game. Soccer has been played since with comparatively little change.

Today soccer has its La Federation Internationale de Football Association, a flourishing world body formed in 1904 controlling the game in its wider aspects. More than 70 countries are in affiliation, making it the biggest international sports body of them all.

The first international match, Scotland vs. England, was played in 1872, a scoreless draw. Shinguards came in, in 1874, the crossbar a year later. In 1878, whistles were used by referees for the first time. Goal nets and the penalty kick came on in 1891.

It is said the sun never sets on soccer, a game of speed, science, skill and durability. It is played in every country in the world. It is played coast to coast in these Dominions, has scored a degree of popularity in the United States. In South America, it is a tremendous game, and it has spread throughout Europe and into Russia.

In Canada, soccer has had sporadic bursts of popularity, though the game never caught on with any degree of enthusiasm, like Canadian football.

Two Canadian Harness Horse Drivers Suspended By Racing Commission

NEW YORK (CP)—William D. Gilmour, 22, of Ridgeway, Ont., Monday was suspended for 10 days from riding at the Vernon Downs track by state harness racing commissioner George P. Monaghan. The suspension, which runs through July 6, was imposed mainly for associating with what Monaghan called known gamblers.

Another Canadian, 51-year-old William J. Harvey of Norwich, Ont. was even more severely penalized. Harvey had been suspended June 17 and Monaghan Monday extended the suspension 20 more days, through July 16.

A third driver, suspended with Harvey when the investigation into Vernon Downs started 10 days ago, was restored to driving at the track as of today. He is Louis Rapone, 29 of Caledonia, N.Y.

Driver Vincent J. Aquino of Buffalo received a severe reprimand from Monaghan for talking to a gambler but no other action was taken against him.

Monaghan emphasized that no criminal violations had been uncovered. He named the known gamblers involved as Alphonse Ferri, 40, and John Gastel, 50, both of Buffalo.

Monaghan said Ferri was "an admitted toot" and had spent his time around the stables at Vernon Downs talking to drivers.

Gastle, Monaghan said, was convicted as a common gambler in Buffalo for running a crap game in 1950.

Monaghan said Harvey was "less than candid" in his answers to questions by commission investigators.

"He wanted them to believe he didn't know these two men, whereas it was proved to my satisfaction that he did know them," Monaghan added.

The commissioner said the two gamblers were barred from harness tracks in New York state permanently. Monaghan said Rapone was co-operative with the investigators.

Rapone admitted he had known Ferri for a long time and had had dinner with him in restaurants, Monaghan continued.

Monaghan described Gilmour as admitting he had known Gastel for a number of years and said Gastel had been working around Gilmour's barn at Vernon Downs.

The commissioner quoted both Gastel and Gilmour as denying that Gastel had been paid for this work. Monaghan added:

"Gilmour should have known he (Gastel) was a convicted gambler."

All the suspensions also enjoin the racing of all horses owned by the drivers involved.

In addition, Monaghan promulgated a new rule, setting out in clear terms that no driver, trainer, groom or any other person having access to harness race horses shall at any time consort with any known gambler, bookmaker, tout or "persons of similar pursuits either on or off the track."

The rule said that if the reputation of such gamblers is notorious the racing man "shall be presumed to have knowledge of such fact."

Penalties for violating the rule were set at a fine of not more than $5,000 for each violation, or suspension or revocation of his state harness racing licence.

Leafs Defeat White Sox In Exhibition

Harshman was in the Sox dugout when a ball, thrown by second baseman Pete Castiglione, struck Harshman after it deflected off first baseman Mike Goliat's glove.

A doctor was called and Harshman went to the hospital to receive a few stitches. He left with the team for Chicago after the exhibition game, won by Leafs 7-3.

The Leafs broke out with a six-run uprising in the fourth inning to defeat the Sox before 8,064 fans.

Letty Bill Miller, an American Leaguer earlier this season with Baltimore Orioles, held his former opponents to two safeties and one run in the five innings he pitched for Leafs while earning the victory.

John Hetki finished the game, allowing another six hits and two runs

Rightfielder Lew Morton led the Leafs' 12-hit attack with three hits in three trips to the plate, including two doubles.

Oshawa Edges Elgins 3-2; Panthers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pitcher Johnny Ambrose could hardly be blamed if he developed a complex for ball games going more than eight innings. Batters have the habit of blasting him badly in the ninth and overtime innings.

Ambrose, who toils for St. Thomas Elgins in the Intercounty Senior League, faced Oshawa Merchants twice in five days and was sorry after each game.

Monday night Wilmer Fields, Merchant third baseman, hit one of Ambrose's gopher balls out of the park in the 10th inning to give Oshawa a 3-2 win over Elgins.

Ted O'Connor did it last Thursday in the last of the ninth when he homered with two mates on base to give his team an 8-6 win.

KITCHENER WINS

ENGLAND BEATS S.A.

LONDON (Reuters) — England beat South Africa by 71 runs in a dramatic second cricket test at Lord's Monday to go two up in the five-match series. The final score was England 133 and 353, South Africa 304 and 111.

Brian Statham, Lancashire's fast bowler, achieved the best performance of his career by taking seven wickets for 39 runs in South Africa's second innings of 111.

Four Boxing Managers Are 'Set Down' By NY State Athletic Commission

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—A boxing investigation which already has put six fight managers on the "indefinitely suspended" list ends today with a decision promised in a "reasonably short time."

Four managers were set down Monday for refusing to answer a question by Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state athletic commission. They did so on the advice of Murray Frank, counsel for the Boxing Guild of New York.

Each time Helfand asked one of the managers whether he was a guild officer or committee member, he drew the same reply: "I cannot answer that question on the advice of Murray Frank, who says guild matters are not under your jurisdiction."

Cus d'Amato, manager of light-heavyweight contender Floyd Patterson, and Bobby Melnick, whose stable includes Ralph (Tiger) Jones are two of the suspended managers. Bobby Nelson, who once managed Joe Miceli, and Charlie Bauer, manager of Danish Chris Christensen, are the others.

Bill Daly, former manager of welterweight Vince Martinez, who claimed he was "grounded" by the guild, had been suspended earlier along with Tex Pelte, his associate.

Hymie Wallman, guild vice-president, did answer Helfand's questions about the organization's activities. He said the guild paid $20 a week to Nelson for asking New York clubs to use guild-managed fighters and $35 a week for a man to collect a $100 voluntary assessment by the guild from managers with fighters on television.

Wallman said Jimmy Deangelo, d'Amato and Bauer had collected the TV fee at various times. Nelson said his $20 salary was for answering the phone at guild headquarters and taking care of the meeting room.

Irving Cohen, former manager of Rocky Graziano and Billy Graham, was granted permission to consult his personal lawyer before deciding whether to answer questions.

Both Daly and Pelte have requested hearings before the commission on their suspensions. The other suspended managers may follow the same line.

Helfand promised he would rule on the request for hearings when the commission hands down its decision on the entire investigation. He said the commission was investigating to see whether the action of any member of the guild or the guild itself violated commission rules or was contrary to the best interests of boxing.

Irving Galt, assistant attorney general of New York state, who is in charge of anti-trust and monopolistic investigations, sat in on Monday's inquiry.

HOLD TITLE BOUT

MONTREAL (CP)—Alan McFater of Toronto puts his Canadian welterweight title on the line tonight against the fighter he snatched it from a couple of months ago, Tony Percy of Drummondville, Que. The 12-rounder, with official recognition by the Canadian Boxing Federation, will be held at Slade Exchange in Montreal's east end.

Mary Gay Tops Eligibles For Ladies' Golf Team

TORONTO (CP)—Mary Gay of Kitchener Westmount finished fourth in the test match for potential members of the Ontario ladies' provincial golf team Monday. However, she retained her lead for first place in the point standings.

Miss Gay leads Toronto's Mrs. J. H. McCarter by three points and third-place Noreen Laing of Toronto by eight points.

Marlene Stewart from Lookout Point won Monday's event with a two-over-par 79. She is well back of the leaders for a place on the provincial team, however, because she has only participated in two tournaments — Monday's and the Ontario Open.

To become eligible for the team, which will represent Ontario in the interprovincial test matches at Victoria, B.C., in August, members must compete in at least seven of nine tournaments.

Kay Helleur of Toronto Rosedale and Mrs. McCarter finished behind Miss Stewart with 81. Miss Gay registered an 82.

Point leaders for the team are: Mary Gay, Kitchener, 39; Mrs. J. H. McCarter, Toronto, 36; Noreen Laing, Toronto 31; Shirley Woodley, Toronto 23; Mrs. J. B. Seawright, Toronto 16.

Boston Red Sox 'Golden Greek' Dies Suddenly

BOSTON (AP) — An outwardly-hardened sports world was shocked and saddened today by the unexpected death of Harry Agganis, the "Golden Greek" who passed up tempting pro football offers for a baseball career with the Boston Red Sox.

The brilliant athletic career of the 25-year-old Red Sox first baseman and former Boston University football great was closed out abruptly Monday as he succumbed to a long ailment at Sancta Maria Hospital in nearby Cambridge.

A fierce competitor on the playing field but a happy-go-lucky type when not in action, Agganis apparently had been making a successful recovery from his second bout with a virus infection since mid-May.

"All of us in the American League office are saddened and shocked by Harry's passing," AL president Will Harridge said.

Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey said he and his wife were "stunned and saddened" by the news.

The "Golden Greek," so-called for his glittering performances in baseball, football and basketball while a student, in his freshman year last season had 11 homers eight triples, 13 doubles and 57 RBIs on a .251 average.

He lost his starting first base job to Norm Zauchin, a rookie slugger, at the beginning of this season, but soon won it back. He was hitting .313 when forced out of the lineup for the last time.

SIGNS BONUS CONTRACT

"Babe" Makes Second Comeback From Operations

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Babe Zaharias, recovering from her second operation in a little more than two years, looked toward a return to golf today. Her doctors think it will be three months but the way the great woman athlete operates it'll probably be sooner.

"I don't intend to retire until I meet somebody who is better than I am," she said with the same old confidence that has marked her fabulous career in sports over a period of 25 years. She added thoughtfully: "I haven't found that person yet."

In 1953 the 42-year-old Babe underwent an operation for cancer. In four months she was back in golf and winning. Then last Wednesday she had another operation, this time to correct a ruptured spinal disc. The Babe got it while trying to jack a car out of the sand at Port Arkansas, Tex.

Monday surgeons removed stitches from the incision and she said she would be using her golf clubs again "as soon as my doctors say I can."

Latta Defeats Melrose 14-3

Latta bats exploded at the Melrose diamond last night in the seventh inning with an 8 run barrage to win by the score of 14 to 3; taking a firm hold on the third rung in the South Hastings Baseball League.

Latta scored 3 in the second, 1 in the fourth, 2 in the sixth and salted it away in the seventh with 8 runs.

Melrose were held off the score sheet until the sixth when they collected two, adding another in the seventh.

Stewart started for Latta but developed a charley horse in the third being relieved by Harry Reid and was followed by Ted Parks in the seventh.

Milligan started for Melrose, being relieved by Dafoe with J. McFarlane in the last inning.

Glass with a triple and two singles, Meeks, with 4 hits, F. Ray, three and Scott with three were best for Latta.

Line score	R	H	E
Melrose	000 002 1	3	4	1

Umpires: plate, Tim Williams; bases, Don Harrison.

Minor Softball

A three run rally in the bottom of the seventh gave the Rotary Club a 13-12 victory over the Booth Radio-T.V.'s in a pee wee softball game at the Moira Street firehall last night.

Gaffney and Blakely formed the winning battery, Gaffney allowing 11 hits, fanning seven and walking 11. Mulloy hurled for Booth's and gave up 11 hits, struck out six and walked 12. Rose was his receiver.

The Rotary pitcher also paced his club at bat with a brace of doubles and a single while Butcher punched a triple and single. Mulloy had a trio of singles in defeat, Andrews claimed a double and a single while Donovan and Blaker had triples.

Sam Snead's Golf School

It's important to remember the left hand grips the club an inch, possibly two, below the top of the handle. Exactly where, is controlled by the sole of the club head which must be flat on the ground. Notice that the club is gripped in the fingers and not in the palm of the hand. Control lies in the finger grip. You can't hold a golf club in a palm grip — that's a baseball grip. As I'll show in tomorrow's little guide to par the second joint of the right forefinger is extended a bit down the shaft. This provides club control and leverage at impact. The heel of the left hand, by levering the club handle opposite to the force furnished by the looped forefinger of the right hand, provides the whip cracker effect for long, straight flight.

Radio Networks Departing Sharply From Old Pattern

By WAYNE OLIVER

More casualties can be expected among the holdouts in that category as radio adjusts for a stronger stand against TV's raids on evening audiences.

Among the old radio reliables who may not be back next season are Jack Benny and Bob Hope, busy with TV, and the radio version of "My Little Margie." Some that are on a weekly half-hour basis may change to what the industry calls strip shows—15 minutes at the same time each evening Monday through Friday.

The networks aren't all moving in the same direction on radio. ABC has gone in for frequent newscasts, music and sports on weekends. NBC recently overhauled its weekend schedule for its Monitor service that runs 40 solid hours, from 8 a. m. Saturday to midnight Sunday, tossing out many old fixtures.

CBS radio will have more weeknight strip programming, such as that already in use for Bing Crosby and Fibber 'N Molly on NBC. Both once were big once-a-week shows but now are heard 15 minutes nightly Monday through Friday.

One aspect of radio, the daytime soap operas, will remain undisturbed. The top 10 daytime soapers in the Nielsen radio rating have a higher average audience than the top 10 nighttime network shows.

Educational television is promised improved programs for its celluloid network this fall and winter season by H. K. Newburn, president of the educational television and radio centre of Ann Abor, Mich.

The centre, established by the Fund for Adult Education, serves as a program clearing house of 13 educational TV stations. It provides a total of five hours of programming a week on film. The best program on an individual station is made available to all.

At a press conference here, Newburn said there will be more programs produced this fall designed for all the educational stations.

McGILL APPOINTMENT

Bullpen Boys Shining Bright This Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's bullpen brigade is shining brighter than ever this year, With guys like Jim Konstanty, Sandy Consuegra, Ed Roebuck and Hal Jeffcoat delivering in the clutch, there's no reason to feel sorry for the major league pitchers on relief.

Konstanty, with an earned run average of 1.00 and a won-lost record of 6-0, including 12 game-saving performances, particularly has been brilliant. The veteran New York Yankees' righthander is showing the for mwhich won for him the National League's most valuable player award in 1950 when he finished with a 16-7 mark in 74 games for Philadelphia.

Consuegra has saved eight games for the Chicago White Sox. Called by manager Marty Marion the "best relief pitcher in baseball," Consuegra has appeared in relief roles 16 times. He has a 5-2 record and an earned run mark of 1.97.

Roebuck, a rookie, has made several important contributions to the Brooklyn pennant drive. He has protected Dodger advantages 10 times and has been credited with four triumphs. He's lost three and is 2.20 in the ERA department.

Unbeaten until June 19, Jeffcoat has lost his last two games in relief, but early season showing is not to be overlooked. He saved seven games for the Chicago Cubs. Hal's earned run average is a fine 1.84.

Familiarity with a bridge rule does not breed contempt for it. But it can give you expanding ideas. Which is what it often does to expert players who like to branch out.

A jump overcall is a defensive bid that promises eight tricks with a rebiddable suit. With less than two tricks, responder passes. With two tricks or more, he bids to show enough for game.

Eight and two are ten. Therefore, the rule applies to a jump overcall in a major suit. Because eight and two would not make the 11 needed for game in a minor suit.

To make game in a minor, three tricks are needed by responder. So, the jump overcall in a minor invites a try for a game bid of three no-trump if there is a good gamble for it.

You need not feel sorry for yourself with this east hand:

EAST
♠K 10 7
♥J 10 8 3
♦A 7 4
♣8 6 2

South opens the bidding with one heart. Your west partner jump overcalls with a bid of three clubs. North passes. With a count of two tricks in your own hand you can see ten total in your pair.

Even if you had a possible third trick your pair may not make game in the minor against opponents' opening. Chances are they will take three tricks before all yours are developed.

On the other hand, there is a chance for game in no-trump. Most or all eight tricks from overcaller may come in clubs. Any one of your stoppers in the other three suits could make a ninth trick.

Of course, such a game try in no-trump by responder must have the practical backing of stoppers in the other suits. And the doubtful cases should be attempted only by an expert player.

Unfortunately, most bridge players think they are experts or on the verge of being. So, this may start another epidemic of no-trump defence bidding. If so, I'm sorry I mentioned the darn thing.

Major Leaguers Look Over Leaf Stadium

TORONTO (CP) — A prominent major leaguer inspected the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand here Monday and another one will look it over today. This revived rumors of Toronto seeking a major-league franchise.

Frank Lane, general manager of Chicago White Sox and chairman of the American League realignment committee, inspected the property with Jack Kent Cooke, owner and president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, and CNE general manager Hiram McCallum.

PROPOSES PARK

McCallum has proposed that the grandstand could be made into a 70,000-seating capacity park for baseball and football. Baseball commissioner Ford Frick has indicated that discussion of further major league transfers still is unnecessary.

"I can only say that a park of major league standards must be available before any application will be received by the majors," Lane said.

"It is a matter of record that had Toronto possessed a major league park at the time of the transfer of the Philadelphia As franchise after last season it might have come here instead of going to Kansas City."

DeWitt is coming here at Cooke's request to advise on the practicability of turning the grandstand into a profitable baseball and football park.

Leafs Buy Lou Limmer

TORONTO (CP)—First baseman Lou Limmer has been purchased by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League from Kansas City Athletics of the American League it was announced today. He will report for tonight's game here against Richmond Virginians.

Leafs had been looking for a first baseman since Ed Stevens suffered a broken ankle June 22 in a game against Montreal Royals.

Patty, Trabert Reach Tennis Semi-Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Budge Patty, who may be the answer to U.S. Davis Cup problems, Monday upset Lew Hoad, the powerful Australian, to reach the men's singles semi-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Hoad, a member of the last two Aussie Davis Cup squads, hasn't been playing up to his usual standard. But this takes nothing away from Patty who swept to a convincing straight-set victory, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, leading U.S. Davis Cup player, also reached the semi-finals, eliminating defending champion Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, 8-6, 6-1, 6-4.

BEATS SWEDE

Ken Rosewall, Hoad's Davis Cup teammate, and favored to win the Wimbledon singles, defeated towering Sven Davidson of Sweden 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, using his great backhand to fine effect.

The other semi-finalist will be unseeded Kurt Nielsen of Denmark who came from behind to defeat Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli 1-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 7-2. However, neither played consistent tennis.

Rosewall, seeded second but rated highly as a result of his victory in the recent Queen's Club tournament and his general all-round good play, meets Nielsen in the semi-final round Wednesday while Trabert will play Patty.

With Vic Seixas' ailing shoulder a questionable proposition, Talbert has been on a semi-scouting trip here looking for a possible Davis Cup player to fill in for the Philadelphian. After Monday's matches he said Patty had told him he would "seriously consider returning home" to try to win a place on the Davis Cup team.

Jane Wyman Completes Deal To Take Over Fireside Theatre

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's lucky that Jane Wyman likes work, because she's going to be up to her pretty eyelashes in acting assignments for the next three years.

This week she was laboring on "Miracle in the Rain" with Van Johnson. She finishes July 12, then starts July 15 on a gruelling TV schedule that will consume the rest of the year.

Jane recently announced a deal to take over the longtime TV favorite, "Fireside Theatre." The Tuesday at 9 spot will be called "Jane Wyman's Fireside Theatre" and she'll preside as both hostess and star.

She explained the project in her Warner Brothers dressing room, where she was having her hair put up. And a prettier sight in pin curls you'll never see.

"This is what I have been after for five years," she explained. "It is one of those dream deals. I'll do 20 of the shows myself and introduce 16 others. We made our first in the series last week. It stars Victor McLaglen and Wallace Ford, and I believe it's the first time they've been together since 'The Informer.'"

Jane dipped her toe into TV a year ago, when she made a half-hour show which appeared on "G.E. Theatre" this season. It was the type of story line that might have developed into a series—the story of a woman doctor. But she abandoned that idea in favor of an anthology type of series.

"I think the anthology is a much better idea," she reasoned. "In that way you can do a variety of roles in comedy and drama. I think a series would get awfully tiring.

Jane said she wasn't just a passive member of the enterprise. It's her company and she has her finger in all phases of production. She ought to know how to juggle the movie-making angles; in 18 years of film acting, she has accumulated a world of knowledge.

All this TV activity doesn't mean she's going to neglect her movie career. As soon as she winds up the TV season, she must report to Universal-International for a picture. If the TV sponsor picks up her option, she'll be set for another 36 half-hours in 1956. Then she'll have to make a film for Warners.

"I've got to do a picture a year during the next three years for Warners and U-I," she said. "The options for the TV show come at the same time as those deals. So if all goes well, I'll be tied up completely for the next three years."

Ashburn, Kaline Lead Hitters In Majors

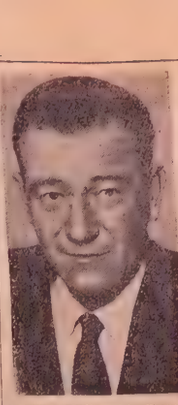
While Ted Williams has been getting most of the credit for the spurt which has seen Boston win 19 of its last 23 games, Jensen has batted in 19 runs during that span to take over the American League's RBI lead with 55.

Jensen, with seven homers since May 28, for a total of 15, has taken over third place in that department. He trails New York's Mickey Mantle, the pace-setter with 18 and Gus Zernial of Kansas City, who has 16. Jensen is batting .264 for a 22-point pickup this month.



Detroit's Al Kaline, however, continues to hold a commanding lead in the batting competition. Despite a 14-point drop to .365 last week, the sophomore outfielder is well ahead of runnerup Nellie Fox of Chicago. Fox climbed 10 points to .339 as a result of 13 hits in 31 at bats.

Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers slumped 23 points to .320. He only had four safeties in 27 trips. Al Smith of Cleveland moved from ninth place to fourth as a result of a 23-point gain to .317. Larry Doby, also of the Indians, is fifth with .309. Doby climbed 14 points and three notches in the standings.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1955

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Stirring, benefic aspects. However do not force issues and do not be careless with heavy machinery, dangerous equipment. Recognize others' good qualities, and thus show your own.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—There are promising indications now for your specific talents, occupational duties and personal affairs. Be most careful, however, if starting new enterprises or investing money. Day fine for routine activities.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You will probably be very keen mentally, full of creative ideas for advertising, promoting, making fresh headway in your particular field of endeavor. At the same time, be wisely careful in all you do.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Fine rays generally, but don't spend too much time on unessential personal matters when that time could be bringing you really big results; monetary returns from business, work, profession.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — This month ends on a happy, encouraging note. Whatever your schedule of "musts" or plans for interesting doings, today favors them. Improvements in home, business favored.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Similar to Gemini. Try new, promising projects and ideas. Don't underestimate your business acumen and capability. Today sponsors new, clever — as well as the usual — activities to better everyday living.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Same as for Taureans. Both you and they are in the front line of favors, perhaps business advancement — at least some gain—if you give earnest attention to duty, business. Family affairs favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Vigorous matters should be pushed now — but sensibly, of course. Writers, accountants, secretaries and journalists are among the many favored this good day.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter is among the well aspected planets today. Trades, industry, building, government interests, pharmicists, physicians, all professional people under fine rays.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — An auspicious period for you and your interests. Work with cheer and faith in God's help; don't overtax yourself; there are good days ahead.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) —Avoid extremes and unhealthy restlessness and you can have a progressive, profitable day. Vacation activities are favored as are business and professional matters.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — A well planned program can speed up production, further your goals and make the balance of the week more productive. Good rays now.

YOU BORN TODAY are interesting, clever; usually generous and efficient but not always as persistent and patient as you should be to achieve the success that can be yours. Consistency of effort and perserverance are also needed to bring to fruition your fine ideas. Many fields could bring you success: law, advertising, acting, promotional work, national and international diplomacy — any field where originality, cleverness and quick wit are requisite. Birthdate: G. W. Goethals, builder of Panama Canal; Peter Paul Rubens, Flemish painter.

Montreal Mayor Sees Success In Night Club Clean-Up Campaign

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—A night-club comedian raised a snicker from his jaded fans when at 2 a.m. he signed off with the stage-whisper: "Now, I'm going to say two dirty words:

"Jean Drapeau."

Among those who chuckled—when he heard about it the next day — was Jean Drapeau, Montreal's young "clean-up" mayor.

HAD GRIM RING

There was a grim ring in the mayor's laugh, however, because he knew he had touched a nerve in his drive against law-breaking clubs.

"That remark is enough to identify both the club—the type of club—and the mayor," he said in an interview.

"I'm happy because people know it's no 'front' we're putting up here. I'm very satisfied that it's in clubs of bad reputation that things like that are said."

Many night clubs had for years ignored the legal 2 a.m. week-day closing hour here—and a few still do despite the reform administration's threat to cancel licences. A number of cases now are pending before the courts.

Night clubs are just one of the problems that the professor-like Drapeau fastens with steady gaze through horn-rimmed spectacles. Interviewed after eight months of office, the 39 - year - old lawyer showed bounce, vigor and humor as he gave a capsule report on his job.

GIVEN BIG MANDATE

Montrealers showed in a landslide mandate to Drapeau last October that they were angered at shocking findings of vice in the past, sullying the charm of their gay old city.

But how would Drapeau, then 38, measure up as successor to Mayor Camillien Houde, an easy-going, politically-wise, much-loved character who held office a total of 18 years?

How would the studious young reformer compare with the ebullient Houde, whose personal honor had not been impugned in the vice findings, and who once told a captivated audience?

"They speak of vice and ugliness, but if you look upon Montreal from beside the cross (atop Mont Royal in the centre of the city) you see none of those things."

Youth, for one thing, has been no hindrance—"not since the election anyway," said Mr. Drapeau.

WORKS LONG HOURS

"I can work a 16-to-20-hour day and be at my desk at 8 a.m. the next day," he said. "I seek the advice of older people. It doesn't hurt to know that I'll still be alive—or should be—in 25 or 30 years to see the result of my decisions. They'd better be good."

The names of Drapeau and Pacifique (Pax) Plante, now assistant director of police, are linked as inexorably as Pat and Mike in the minds of Montrealers — and Drapeau confirms with a smile that "our teamwork is enduring."

Plante, who was Drapeau's law partner and long-time friend, has been cracking down on gambling spots which can only be classed as penny-ante when compared with the booming horse parlors of other days.

"Our mandate for reform is never forgotten," said Drapeau.

"But just now the city's three main problems are housing, traffic and mass transportation.

"The problem of slum clearance—which should have been faced 25 years ago—is acute. We need family housing badly. There are more than 23,000 dwellings of 80-year vintage in 13 districts of Montreal.

SUCCESS IMPERATIVE

"What we need is a general attack. Our first attempt must be a success — even financially, or it might lead to discouragement, and another do-nothing period."

To solve traffic and mass transportation bottlenecks, Mr. Drapeau pins his hopes on one-way throughways and the Monorail system of transport used in some German cities.

"The subway was a solution 50 years ago, but whether it is for the future is another matter—especially considering the enormous costs of construction."

The mayor, who has been fostering good relationships with Toronto by visits and other gestures, nevertheless took a whimsical gibe at Montreal's rival and its new subway.

"Toronto's subway has a plaque noting it is the first in Canada," he said.

Perhaps someday a line—"and the last in the world"—will be added, he grinned.

THE BULLS WON

MADRID (AP) — For the first time in more than 25 years, a bullfight was called off in Madrid Sunday because all three matadors suffered injuries that prevented them from continuing. Two bulls remained when officials called off the fight. Antonio de la Casa was severely gored in the left thigh. Jaime Ostos and Juan Galves suffered injuries described by doctors as "pretty serious."

REAFFIRM PLAN

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Ministers Nehru of India and Josef Cyrankiewicz of Poland issued a joint statement Sunday night reaffirming Nehru's five principles of peaceful coexistence. The statement was issued after Nehru's visit to Warsaw. A similar joint statement by Nehru and Soviet Prime Minister Bulganin was issued as the Indian leader ended his visit to Moscow last week.

U.S. Steel Firms Start To Bank Their Furnaces

Fear Strike on Thursday But Iron Age Sees Peace

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Employees of the United States basic steel industry were ready today to begin orderly shutdowns because a strike is feared at midnight Thursday.

Meanwhile, the United Steelworkers (CIO) planned showdown talks with U. S. Steel Company and other major producers in the hope they will increase their offer to boost wages.

U. S. Steel, which employs 150,000 of the 600,000 USW union members, held firm to its proposal to raise wages an average of slightly more than 10 cents an hour.

SHUTDOWN BEGINS

U. S. Steel said it would begin closing down sometime today. Usually 72 hours is required to cool off furnaces and close operations so machinery will not be damaged. The process can be rushed in 48 hours.

Other major producers, who usually follow the contract pattern set by U. S. Steel, indicated they also would follow its lead in closing down operations.

Clifford Hood, president of U. S. Steel, said in a statement Tuesday night the industry is threatened with "a wholly unnecessary strike." Such a strike "would have damaging effects on the country's presently flourishing economy."

CUSTOMERS CONCERNED

David J. McDonald, president of the USW who has never called a strike in the three years he has headed the union, reiterated in a television broadcast Tuesday night that the union is entitled to "an even shake—a wage increase" because the steel industry is enjoying a profitable year.

There was increasing concern throughout the country by manufacturers who use steel. The steel industry has been operating at capacity throughout the year but some products are in scarce supply. Automobile industry representatives said a steel strike would force car assembly lines to close in two or three weeks at the most.

NEW YORK (AP)—Iron Age, the national metal-working weekly, predicts a peaceful settlement of the country-wide steel strike threatened for midnight Thursday.

"Steel labor gets its pay raise this week," Iron Age says. "It will be less substantial than union leaders hope but more than steel producers wanted to give."

Steel consumers will begin paying higher prices soon, the magazine adds. It forecast steel prices will be increased an average of $4.50 a ton, on top of the current composite price of about $118 a ton. It said steel product prices would be boosted from $4 to $6 a ton, perhaps more on some items.

The magazine reports that it looks as though the union will get a total increase of 13 to 15 cents an hour, with about 3½ cents allocated to cover increases in the wage differentials between job classes.

21 Taken Off Before Ship Sinks After Collision

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Twenty-one men were taken off the 163-ton Halifax vessel Rupert Brand without injury Tuesday just before she sank following a collision with the steamer Agenir in dense fog off Newfoundland's northwest coast.

The tug Louise Simard out of Corner Brook raced about 100 miles to the crash scene and had put a line aboard the Rupert Brand just before she sank.

The tug took off 13 men, the Agenir eight. The Agenir's tonnage and nationality were not known. She is not believed seriously damaged.

Reports reaching here said the ships collided about 4 p. m. EDT. The Rupert Brand sank a few hours later.

Burglars Prey On Motel Guests

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—Police said Tuesday burglars escaped with $346 from five vacationing tourists in a motel here, making a total of 12 people robbed and $1,313 taken since last Saturday.

At least four of the tourists have had to return home on borrowed funds. Police said the burglars rented a room in a motel and then ransacked the other rooms during the early hours of the morning.

DECIDE TO STRIKE

GUELPH (CP)—Draftsmen at the Canadian General Electric transformer plant voted here Tuesday night to strike after weeks of negotiations with company officials.

Union officials, in an effort to stall the 55-man strike, said today that a conciliation board a week ago suggested both company and union officials continue further talks in an effort to reach a settlement.

Today's Chuckle

"You crook! When you sold me this farm you told me I could grow nuts on it!"

"You misunderstood me—what I said was that you could go nuts on it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Continued warm weather is forecast for Ontario today and Thursday with temperatures climbing to the mid-80s both days. By late Thursday thundershowers will be possible over southern Ontario but they will be few and far between and will not likely provide any general relief from the current dry spell.

Two Officers Bail Out Safely From Jet Fighter

MONTREAL (CP)—Two RCAF officers bailed out of their CF-100 jet fighter and parachuted to safety Tuesday shortly after reporting mechanical difficulty while on a routine training flight from their base at nearby St. Hubert.

The jet crashed and was destroyed near La Profidence, a suburb of St. Hyacinthe, Que., 35 miles east of Montreal. The aircraft gouged a path in a highway before coming to a halt in a field.

The officers—pilot C. P. Forrest, 24, of Toronto, and navigator J. Fleury, 26, of Vancouver — also landed in a field, but some five miles from the crash scene. They suffered nothing more than scratches.

The CF-100, attached to 423 Squadron at St. Hubert, was airborne some 30 minutes when the mishap occurred.

'Desperate Trio' Asks $30,000 a Year As Guarantee Against Kidnapping

TORONTO (CP)—Police in suburban Forest Hill village today said they are investigating "as a routine police matter" a letter received last week at the home of Rankine Nesbitt, wealthy Toronto lawyer whose daughter was abducted last March.

Police said the letter was received at the Nesbitt home last week. It was postmarked from Hamilton.

It demanded $30,000 a year "for life" for assurance that Mr. Nesbitt's seven-year-old daughter Alice would not be abducted again.

Deputy police chief Joseph Thurston of Forest Hill said: "We are investigating this thing as a police matter, but we are 100 per cent sure that it is a hoax."

The letter was signed "The Desperate Trio." It demanded that half of the first $30,000 be paid immediately and instructed the Nesbitts to put a code message in a Toronto newspaper.

Police said the Nesbitt family, vacationing at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N. B., for the last month, are disregarding the letter.

DELAY GERMAN ARMY TO ASSURE CIVILIAN RULE

Bundestag Insistent Adenauer Rewrite Bill

BONN (AP)—A new delay in putting the first West Germans into uniform was seen today as the lower house of Parliament sent a bill to call up the first volunteers to committees for rewriting.

Although approving rearmament in principle, many of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's supporters complained that the measure contained no guarantees of civilian control over the military and could lead to a resurgence of German militarism.

The blow to Adenauer's plans came Tuesday night after a heated debate in the Bundestag (lower house).

Adenauer's request for temporary power to recruit a nucleus of volunteers pending passage of permanent army legislation came under attack from representatives of all parties.

LEADER DESERTED

The decision to return it to committee was taken on a show of hands. Despite a personal appeal by their 79-year-old leader, many of Adenauer's chief lieutenants deserted him in the debate. The government said full controls would be provided in the permanent legislation.

Although a setback of Adenauer, the result was not a complete rebuff. Under its rules, the Bundestag could have rejected the bill outright instead of sending it back for further study before the decisive second and third readings. But the mounting demands for changes could postpone for months the start of West German rearmament.

Under the Paris treaties on German rearmament, the Bonn government has agreed to raise a 500,000-man army, navy and air force to strengthen Western defence in Europe against possible Soviet aggression.

The volunteers' bill would have permitted the government to enrol enlistees before March 31, 1956.

Korean Veteran Pleads Guilty To Collaboration

NEW YORK (AP) — A young Korean War veteran, who came home to a hero's welcome, unexpectedly pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges he collaborated with Chinese Reds while a war prisoner.

Counsel for the defendant, Cpl. Harold M. Dunn of Baldwinsville, N.Y., gave no reason for the change of plea which came only 20 minutes after he went on trial before a military court.

He could receive a life sentence at hard labor. In view of his plea, however, such an extreme penalty appeared doubtful.

Expect Record Alberta Vote After Most Bitter Campaign

EDMONTON (CP)—Voters today elect Alberta's 13th legislature.

A record turnout was expected to climax the most bitter election campaign in the 50-year history of the province.

There were 202 candidates, including 12 women, contesting 61 seats. Social Credit made its bid for a sixth consecutive term of office with a standard-bearer in every constituency. The Liberals, out of power since 1921, ran 53 candidates; the CCF 38 and the Progressive Conservatives 26. The rest of the field was made up of nine Labor-Progressives, seven Independents, three Independent Social Crediters, three Coalition and one Liberal-Progressive Conservative.

Standing in the legislature at dissolution: Social Credit, 49; Liberal, 4; Progressive Conservative 3; CCF 2; Independent Social Credit 1; vacant 2.

The Social Credit party won 52 seats in the 1952 election. It retained one seat and lost another to the Progressive Conservatives in by-elections.

The election was not expected this year. The government had two years left of its five-year term. Previously it called elections every four years.

Premier E. C. Manning, 47, said he called the election because the integrity of Social Credit members of the legislature was challenged by the opposition.

J. Harper Prowse, leader of the official Opposition and Liberal party suggested in the legislature that Social Credit members who had dealings with the provincial treasury branches sat illegally in the House because they held contracts with the government, a violation of the Legislative Assembly Act.

That initial exchange branched into several bitter opposition-government exchanges during the campaign. The opposition questioned numerous financial dealings involving the government, former cabinet ministers and relatives and friends of government members.

Mr. Manning charged Mr. Prowse with attempting to cast "unwarranted insinuations and reflections on members of the legislature." He said his opponents were using "gutter politics."

It was Mr. Manning's fourth election as party chief. He took over when Premier William Aberhart, founder of the party in Alberta, died in 1943.

Mr. Prowse, 42 next month, was chosen Liberal leader in 1947 when the party decided to re-enter Alberta politics.

CCF leader Elmer E. Roper, 62, a native of Ingonish, N. S., first won a seat in the legislature in a 1942 by-election.

J. Percy Page, 68, a member of the legislature for 11 years, was Progressive Conservative leader in the House during the last session. All party leaders contested seats in the seven-member Edmonton riding.

Truck and Ocean Shippers Criticize Government's Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Truck and ocean shipping spokesmen have criticized the government's bill on railway agreed charges while railway men supported it.

In argument before the Commons railway committee Tuesday night, counsel for Irish Shipping Ltd., owned by the government of the Irish Republic, and Saguenay Terminals Ltd. of Montreal said the railways will use the special freight rates to discriminate against them.

Earlier the committee heard Canadian Trucking Associations, representing 7,000 long-haul truckers, claim the road industry could be hit disastrously by wide-open use of agreed charges, which it suggested the legislation would permit.

The government-owned CNR said not so. The truckers were trying to skim the cream off freight hauling, leaving the cheap-rate business to the railways.

The committee is considering a government measure to give the railways more freedom in setting agreed charges, special contract rates under which shippers guarantee a railway a set percentage of their business in return for a lowered toll.

The CTA, in a brief delivered by its executive secretary John Magee of Ottawa, urged that truckers be given the same right of complaint as would be accorded to shippers and competing water carriers under the legislation.

The bill would enable these to complain to the transport minister against any agreed charge after it had been in effect for three months. The CTA also urged that the three-month waiting period be eliminated.

H. E. B. Coyne, Ottawa lawyer representing the two shipping companies, referred to recent proceedings before the board of transport commissioners in a case involving the shipping lines. He said the railways had tried to coerce the two companies into violating anti-combines law to get equality of treatment with other ship lines.

"We are afraid that agreed charges will be used by the railways to discriminate against us," Mr. Coyne said. "They have done it, they are doing it now and we think they will do it in the future."

CNR counsel Hugh O'Donnell of Montreal said the CNR accepts the legislation as presented in the Commons. Its purpose was to help the railways, which badly needed it.

The railways conceded the trucks have a place in the economy, but they objected to truckers being added to the number of potential complainants against agreed charges.

NATO Officials Study Results Of Air Exercise

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

METZ, France (CP) — Top air officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today tackled the mammoth task of assessing results of Exercise Carte Blanche, the week-long manoeuvre which engaged airmen of 11 countries in simulated atomic war.

The exercise, involving 6,000 personnel of the 1st Canadian Air Division, ended Monday night, but only tentative conclusions have yet been reached.

At Canadian headquarters here, officials are also checking the score. The division's 88 squadrons of Sabre jet fighters, permanently stationed in four wings at Grostenquin and Marville in France and at Zweibruecken and Baden-Soellingen in Germany, flew some 2,500 sorties. Six hundred Canadian pilots participated, supported by ground and administrative personnel.

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Employees of six York Knitting Mills textile plants here and in Toronto Tuesday night voted to strike Monday after rejecting a company request for a cut-back in wages.

Army Engineers Support Deeper Channel Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army engineers go before a House of Representatives public works subcommittee today in support of a $109,000,000 project to provide 27-foot connecting channels in the Great Lakes west of Lake Erie.

The proposal, designed to tie in with the 27-foot St. Lawrence seaway now under construction, would permit ocean going ships to sail from the Atlantic to the western reaches of the Great Lakes. The lakes' connecting channels now range from 21 to 25 feet.

The board of army engineers early this year unanimously approved the proposed work to provide a 27-foot channel for both downbound and upbound traffic through the lakes.

The channel deepening work would be in the St. Mary's river, Straits of Mackinac, St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit river.

MAN IS KILLED

COMMONS SPLIT OVER POWERS GROWS LENGTHY

Minister Rejects Demand For Limit

OTTAWA (CP)—A deep Commons split over a government bill to extend indefinitely the broad powers of the defence production act is stretching into a long, long debate.

Defence Production Minister Tuesday rejected a repeated opposition demand for a time limit on some of the powers.

He said they are needed to help ensure, among other things, success of a six-year, $100,000,000 program to produce a new supersonic jet fighter and development of guided missiles which would take even longer. The plane he referred to apparently is the proposed CF-105 jet.

Progressive Conservative speakers replied they will oppose the bill as long as they can.

PROUD OF IT

"If we are conducting a filibuster we are proud of it," said Margaret Aitken (PC—York-Humber). Her party would fight as long as the machinery of Parliament allowed.

"We don't propose to leave this House even in the heat of the season until we have done our duty," said Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe).

Tuesday, in the sixth day of debate on the bill's principle, Progressive Conservatives proposed a motion that would permit the 35 members of their party who already had spoken to speak again.

The motion by A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) would block the bill's passage and refer the matter to a House committee. It suggested putting the defence production department on a permanent basis with "such powers as ought to be of a continuing nature" and granting for one year whatever other powers are necessary to meet world conditions.

The government Tuesday night there had been 45 speeches from the Conservatives, seven from the Liberals including two by Mr. Howe, six from the Social Crediters, five from CCF members and one from an Independent during the six days the bill was debated.

The Independent, Ross Thatcher, Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, said Tuesday the two main parties seem to have reached an impasse. He urged the government to compromise and agree on a time limit on powers of the Defence Production Act, which expires July 31 next year.

Today the debate, which has been adjourned several times since it began June 7, is set aside again. Study of other government legislation was scheduled.

Progressive Conservatives have said some of the act's powers are too sweeping to be made permanent.

Miss Aitken said the bill encroaches on the freedom and liberties of Canadians. Mr. Rowe said the powers could be used to liquidate Parliament. And Sybil Bennett (PC—Halton) said Mr. Howe could even take over the press under his wide powers.

Mr. Howe said the debate has seen "any legitimate objection on the bill drowned in a torrent of exaggeration and the corpses of the arguments now are floating around in a vast ocean of words."

Referring to a speech by Mr. Drew, he noted Mr. Drew had said it was the greatest issue to face

Armada Hunting Pilots in Pacific Now Has Third Man on Missing List

TOKYO (AP)—A Marine helicopter searching for two downed Marine pilots drifting helplessly in the Pacific more than 72 hours crashed in the sea today and one of its crew is missing, the navy said.

As the vast armada of searching planes and ships lost contact with the feeble radio of the first two raft-borne pilots, the navy announced the helicopter crash.

On Tuesday night, a Marine Fury disappeared in the search and its pilot is missing also.

The first two downed Marines, by now weakened by more than three days in tiny life rafts, had been out of radio contact since early Tuesday.

In the 20,000-square-mile search area a bright June sun burned away the fog that repeatedly has closed in and prevented rescues after planes glimpsed the bobbing life rafts. More than 70 air force, navy and Marine planes and nearly a dozen U. S. Navy, Japanese and Canadian ships were in the search.

Missing are 2nd Lieut. David Winton Bell, son of Charles H. Bell, president of the huge General Mills Corp. and Capt. H. P. Montague, Jr., of Jackson, Miss.

They are drifting on individual rafts, possibly 30 miles apart. One raft carries a weak radio.

Navy officers said the men can probably hold out on the rafts for days unless they are injured or the weather turns bad.

Tie Up Employees As They Arrive To Start Work

MARMORA (Staff) — Two armed men robbed the Toronto-Dominion Bank here of a rumored $5,400 this morning.

They gained entry to the bank before it opened for business, holding up an accountant, Roy Moss. Then they tied him up, waited for the arrival of the other five members of the staff, tied them up as they reported for work and then escaped with the cash and the bank's guns.

Police were reported to have thrown up roadblocks from Toronto east to the Quebec border, in an effort to apprehend the pair. The bandits' car, abandoned, was found near Peterborough at 1.15 p.m.

Details were scanty. A curtain of silence was drawn around the holdup by bank manager Carl McKay and the members of his staff, who refused to give details of the holdup to reporters.

Ontario Provincial Police threw every available man into the hunt and extra patrols searched the area between Perth and Toronto.

The men were reported to have entered the bank by a side door some time after nine a.m., and were admitted by an accountant, Roy Moss. They tied up Moss and lined up against the wall two female bank tellers. They were seen leaving the bank about 9.50 a.m., by a local resident, Fred Johnson, 61. Johnson watched as the men entered a 1942 black automobile and headed west out of the town along on Highway 7.

Beside Manager McKay, the bank is staffed by six employees, including two girls. They are Roy Moss, accountant; Ron Henry, teller; Alex Fraser; William Cook, Jr.; Wilma McKinnon and Joan Shannon, stenographers.

H. Clarkson of the bank's head office said in Toronto the two men arrived shortly after 9 a.m. and said they were sent from a heating firm to look at the plumbing. They waited for a time-lock on the vault to go off but became panicky before it did.

FIRE CHIEF MOVES CAR

While the robbery was in progress, Ken Snider, justice of the peace and local fire chief and in charge of public works, moved the men's car from in front of the bank to the opposite side of the street. The town's water wagon was washing the street at the time in preparation for a street dance tonight.

Two wooden horses had been erected across the end of Forsythe St., on the northeast corner of which the bank is located, to keep traffic off during the watering.

When the men left the bank and climbed into their car, Snider unwittingly facilitated their getaway by moving the barricade for them.

GIVES DESCRIPTION

Johnson was sitting on a stone ledge about 40 feet from the bank entrance when he saw the men leave.

First he thought they were surveyors, he said.

He described one of them as about five feet, ten inches in height, weighing about 200 lbs. He was approximately 30 years of age and was wearing khaki shirt and pants and a slouch hat.

The second man was shorter, about five feet, seven inches, 30-35 years and weighing about 140 lbs. Johnson said he was wearing a blue shirt and dark pants and had no hat over his dark hair.

The heavier man was carrying a steel tool chest and there was a handkerchief, or rag, hanging from his hip pocket. The other man was carrying a cloth bag.

Neither had guns visible, he told reporters.

They crossed to their automobile on Forsythe St., which is a continuation of Highway 14.

A few minutes after 10 a.m. Cyril Tandy, 61, with local resident, Bob Sanderson, and local parish priest, Rev. Walter Healey, arrived in front of the bank.

Tandy, who is a steward at the local Canadian Legion Branch, was taking in last night receipts for banking. They were admitted to the bank about 10.20 a.m., and reported one of the girls of the staff was crying when they got in.

When reporters arrived shortly after noon they found business progressing as usual. However, intense police activity was pointed up by four cruisers parked in front of the bank and a police photographer taking pictures inside the bank.

An OPP car passed at Stirling was seen to be packing shotguns.

Albert College Conservatory's Final Recital Given in Two Parts

Due to the large number of students taking part in the recitals it was found necessary to divide the final program into two parts for the Albert College Conservatory of Music. The first took place on Monday evening at the school chapel and the second on Tuesday evening. The participants were advanced pupils of piano and voice studying under Bessie Handley, Egerton Boyce and William Connor.

On Monday the program was varied, with piano solos, piano duos with William Connor and his pupils, and vocal solos by the students of Egerton Boyce. Many selections were difficult numbers and the performers displayed considerable ability and skill, a credit to their teachers.

Principal A. E. MacKenzie was present to welcome the participants, and to thank them for providing the concert. He also expressed his appreciation to the teachers and to the parents who showed their interest and support by attending on these occasions.

TUESDAY'S PROGRAM

On Tuesday evening the piano pupils of Bessie Handley and the vocal and piano students of Egerton Boyce were heard in the concluding recital. In a relaxed and happy atmosphere the program was carried smoothly through. There was a predominance of male participants who gave fine performances. Francis Rose appeared both as vocalist and pianist. His vocal solo, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" was sung to an organ accompaniment by Egerton Boyce. Carl Green's sacred vocal selections were also presented with the organ accompaniment.

To bring a successful evening to a close Mrs. Lois Chambers, a senior member of the group, played a Chopin composition and received enthusiastic applause.

Kiwanians Hosts To Top Winners Of Field Day

Belleville Kiwanis yesterday played host to eight bright-eyed youngsters as the final section of their recent Kids' Day program.

Four boys and as many girls, they were the top athletes of district public schools, who had proved their track prowess at the big annual sporting event sponsored by Kiwanis. Yesterday they came along to the club centre with members of the schools' staffs to receive their tribute—eight silver trophy cups.

Richard Eves (7-8 years group), King George School; Bob Ridley (9-10), Queen Victoria; Bill Latchford (11-12), Queen Mary; Ricky Locke (13-15) Prince of Wales; Joan Sherry (7-8), Prince Charles; Linda Batchelor (9-10), Queen Alexandra; Jamie Gill (11-12), King George; Barbara Simpson (13-15), Queen Mary.

The awarding of the trophies was supervised by Hugh Murray, committee chairman who organized the event for the club. Mr. Murray had high praise for the work done by Kiwanians but said:

WORKERS THANKED

"Outside of the work done by club members the success of this event was due in large part to many outside Kiwanis. We owe a great deal to the principals and staffs of the public and separate schools for their magnificent contribution to our part in National Kids' Day.

"We also are indebted to the city recreational director, Lloyd Doran. His help and guidance in the program's organization was terrific."

Mr. Murray also made special mention of the contribution of St. John Ambulance, which, he said, "have stood by at the event with a complete service, ready for any emergency."

Present at the meeting was R. S. McCluskie, representing the ambulance service. Lloyd Doran, unable to attend the gathering, was presented with a lighter in absentia.

Also present were staff representatives and principles from the eight public and three separate schools in the district, which took part in the big day.

Police Warn Cartage Firms Hauling Gravel

Cartage firms engaged in hauling gravel and crushed rock will run afoul of the law if their equipment is such that material is allowed to drop from trucks causing damage to passing cars.

Provincial police reported today that they had received several complaints recently from motorists whose windshields have been shattered by gravel and rock falling from trucks, while they were being driven on the highway.

Police said the gravel in some cases filtered through faulty tailgates, while in other instances it dropped through holes in the dump box and falling on the wheels was propelled against passing cars.

Police pointed out that the highway traffic act compels truckers to have their vehicles loaded in such a manner that the material cannot be dislodged while in transit. They added that prosecutions would follow when truckers failed to meet this requirement.

Minor Baseball

Ernie Young's Stewart-Warner club captured their initial start of the year in the midget league last night by downing Houston Lumber 4-3 on the clutch hurling and hitting of Jackie Elliott.

The winner's overcame a 1-0 first frame deficit with two in the first and another pair in the fourth while Houston's tallied one in each of the fifth and seventh frames.

Jack Elliott threw a neat seven-hitter for the win, cutting down 11 batters on strikes, many with runners on base. Dave Coe was his battery mate. Glen Bennett started for Houston's and took the loss in five innings, allowing four hits for as many runs. Joe Ryan hurled the six for the losers and whiffed all three men he faced.

Elliott paced his club with the wood, slamming a triple and single while John Foster tripled and Jim Sopha had a single. Bob Wannamaker and Bill Foster hit bases empty homers for Houston's and both added a single while Ab Wright doubled and singles went to Gord St. Louis and Butch Duvall.

106 Bills Given Royal Assent

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation increasing war veterans allowances by an average 20 per cent was among 106 bills given royal assent Tuesday night in the traditional final sanctioning of legislation in the Senate chamber.

Assent was given by Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, acting for Governor-General Massey, to 20 government bills, 73 bills of divorce and 14 private bills, including eight by which new pipeline companies are incorporated.

The veterans bill, besides increasing allowances, also boosts permissible income that may be earned by Canada's 41,500 burned-out pensioners and their dependents. Another bill given royal assent lowers the eligible age to blind pensions to 18 years from 21 and increases permissible annual incomes.

Also included was a 10-year Canada-United States convention designed to eradicate the sea lamprey in the Great Lakes. The eels prey on the commercial fishery.

CHILD KILLED

Motorists Asked To Use Extra Care in Driving

With close to 5,000 primary school children in Belleville and suburbs to leave classes Wednesday for two months summer holidays, an appeal for motorists to use extra care in driving was made this morning by Police Chief Walter Probert.

"Hundreds of kiddies who ordinarily would be in classes will be at loose ends. Despite frequent warnings they will play carelessly and unthinkingly will cross busy streets," he said.

Chief Probert noted that a child may suddenly dart from behind a parked car in pursuit of a bounding ball giving the motorist little or no chance to avoid an accident. Or a hundred other emergencies could crop up that might mean a child being crippled for life.

"If an accident causing death or serious injury is to be prevented motorists will have to exercise just that extra bit of caution," the chief noted.

$1,500 Taken From Offices Of Riverside Dairy Products

TRENTON (Special) — Police today are seeking an unknown man who made off with $1,500 from the Front Street offices of Riverside Dairy Products yesterday afternoon.

The robbery occurred while an office clerk, Mrs. Murphy, had left the downstairs office for a few minutes. The money, of all denominations, was in envelopes in the cash drawer of the office.

Board to Consider Plans For New Cafeteria at BCI

Plans for a cafeteria at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School are being considered by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board with H. H. Roberts, school architect, having been authorized to draw plans and prepare cost estimates.

The architect's report will be received by the board early in the autumn at which time board members will decide whether to proceed with the work.

Board members at their June meeting awarded the contract for the construction of a playing field at the Quinte Secondary School to the Tatham Company Ltd. The contract covers preparation of the playing field only, the board having decided not to proceed with the proposed running track at this time.

Walter McCormick, local painting contractor, will paint the steel sash and outside installations at the Belleville Collegiate. Contract price for the job is $1,282.

Due to health reasons Mr. Norman Smith, shop director at B.C.I., has resigned his position as head of the shop but will continue as teacher in the department. Mr. Ardell Wilson, motor mechanics department head, was appointed as acting shop director on a probationary basis.

RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED

Other resignations accepted from teachers included that of Clare Kelso, English teacher, and Fred Hannaford, draughting instructor. The board ratified the engagement of Mrs. James Musgrove as English teacher with duties to commence in September.

Chairman of the Board, Mr. Roy Sills, with a special committee of his choosing, was authorized to re-open negotiations with St. Thomas' Church officials with the view of securing part of the St. Thomas' Church burying grounds for bus accommodation.

Authorization was also given for the hiring of a second secretary for the principal's office at Quinte Secondary School; for the purchase of 50 desks for the same school, and for the school caretaker, Carman Sine, to attend a caretakers' school at St. Thomas in July.

Fire insurance on the Collegiate has been raised in accordance with recommendations following appraisal by a Toronto appraisal firm.

Out-of-Court Settlement For $70,000 Is Accepted

PICTON.—Out-of-court settlement for $70,000 offered by three defendants has been accepted by the town of Picton. This is related to litigation wherein the town had entered action for $95,000 damages against the Cornish Construction Co., who were defendants along with Jas. F. MacLaren Associates, Toronto, engineering firm, who supplied plans and specifications, and the bonding company, Phoenix Assurance Company.

The damage claim arose from repairs to the town's pure water pumping station, Spencer Street. Shortly after the completion of an enlargement of the former pumping station in 1953, the new addition showed signs of settling, revealed by cracked walls and broken water main connections.

Picton Public Utilities thereupon awarded a supplementary contract for under-pinning the new concrete structure by driving steel piles which were filled with concrete, and for repairs to the damaged building. These repairs cost $88,771 and this plus bank interest, landscaping etc. was included in the damage claim total of $95,571.

Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Moorhouse presiding, sat here for 11 days hearing evidence. The action brought a great array of legal talent. R. E. Nourse, Q.C., town solicitor, was assisted by W. B. Williston, Q.C., Toronto. Defendant's counsel included, H. W. S. Greer, Q.C., R. T. Payton, Q.C., J. J. Robinette, Q.C., J. H. Amys, Q.C., all of Toronto

Plaintiff and defendants will pay their own costs, that of the town being around $8,000.

Davy Crockett Will Appear At Scout Jamboree

HAMILTON (CP)—Davy Crockett will put in a personal appearance at the eighth world scout jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake next August.

He is David C. Crockett of Hamilton, a member of the 17th Mount Hamilton United troop and a delegate to the jamboree.

His grandfather, the late W. A. Crockett, member of the Ontario legislature in 1919, was believed a distant relative of the hero of the Alamo.

The Crockett family of Hamilton also has the pioneer spirit. A forebear, W. A. Crockett, was the first to settle on the eastern section of Hamilton mountain. A street is named for him.

Will Investigate Charges Made If in Power

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning says that if the Social Credit party is returned to power, it intends to have a "full and impartial investigation" into charges made during the campaign by "opposition candidates and some newspapers."

The premier made the statement at a party campaign rally Monday night.

Referring to the proposed investigation, Premier Manning said that "those making the charges will have an opportunity to submit evidence of the charges and insinuations under oath."

He said the opposition had tried to give the impression that there had been dipping into provincial treasury funds.

Felling Trees Not Way to Thin Out Orchard

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Felling mature fruit trees is not the proper way to thin out an apple orchard, five youthful west coast loggers found out here Tuesday from an irate Okanagan valley orchardist.

The boys, working their way to the Calgary Stampede, were instructed to "thin out the orchard," an orchardist's expression for culling the young fruit so that individual apples are about five inches apart on the tree.

The boys attacked their newfound job with zeal—and an axe. They were halted in time to save the orchard only after the first crashing sounds of falling timber.

NOW LOOK FOR TWO MOONS

Don't look now—but there may be two moons in the sky.

Almost anything could happen, after the way the sun rose in the west the other day.

Of course, the sun still rose in the east, as usual, for most of us last Thursday, but three officers of the Royal Air Force, honorable men, say they saw the sun climb into the sky from the west.

What's more, they were not doing a Wrong-Way Corrigan act, nor had their compass developed a slight case of the jitters. As far as these men were concerned, the sun did rise from the west.

The explanation is simple. They were travelling westward at a faster pace than the sun, catching up with it. And so, as they day wore on, the hour got earlier and earlier.

Try this story on your son or daughter of primary school age and you will be met with a look of blank disbelief. But the adult mind, after going down into the depths of confusion, arises spluttering to the surface and manages to keep itself afloat in a sea where another long-established belief has been swamped.

The adult mind can grasp the fact that, sometimes, the sun does not rise in the east.

It all depends on the point of view.

This gives us new courage to tackle once again a monumental task in belief.

Some day next winter, when the curtains are drawn close against the outside storm, when the younger members of the family are abed, the radio is tuned low and the wind sings a lullaby down the chimney, we are going to settle back in an easy chair, close our eyes and try to believe that it is true—that when you pot the eight ball into the end pocket at the neighborhood pool room your cue ball never really touches the eight ball.

Bertrand Russell is the authority for that statement. What actually happens, he says, is unbelievably complicated (we have no difficulty believing that statement!) but the two balls really approach each other and are then repelled from each other without ever really touching each other.

Perhaps you got stuck over the picture of the eight ball approaching the cue ball, after you had just stroked the cue ball with plenty of English. But there's really nothing difficult about that. Motion is all a matter of relativity, says Russell, and it is just as correct to say that the road moves under the automobile at 60 miles an hour as it is to say that the car rushes over the road at 60.

Really nothing difficult about that, surely, after three English airmen have just proved the point by making the sun rise in the west by the simple method of travelling westward at a faster pace than the sun.

DRIVE TO STAY ALIVE

"Drive to stay alive" could very well be every motorist's motto as the Dominion Day holiday inaugurates the first of summer's extended vacation week-ends.

Driving and living are becoming an ever greater gamble as more and faster cars overcrowd Ontario highways. All too often vital citizens Friday night are vital statistics Monday morning.

The mounting highway slaughter is a combination of too much horse power and too little horse sense on horse and buggy highways. One of the plain truths about Ontario's yearly death toll is that Ontario's highways are antiquated and inadequate to handle the number of cars using them at the speed which modern traffic moves.

Another factor increasing the number of highway fatalities is the "slow driver." The grisly reward of the frustration and rage generated by this menace is all too often found in headon collisions as frantic motorists try to dodge past him in heavy traffic. Fatigue is another accomplice of death. Swimming all day and then driving 200 miles at night is imposing unnecessary strain on a tired body and is, in fact, a flirtation with death.

There is not a motorist in Ontario who thinks that he will die in his car before Monday next and yet there will likely be two or three dozen. The sad fact is that almost every death could have been prevented. Mechanical failure is hardly ever a cause of motor vehicle fatalities these days. Driver failure is much commoner.

The very uncertainty of the gamble with death on the highway should make each motorist a model of caution instead of a horrible example of recklessness.

There are far too many pieces of good advice for drivers to attempt to even list them here. However, a good working rule might be for each motorist to drive as though all other motorists are incompetent and capable of killing him and his family. Remember always that the most important nut in your car is the one behind the wheel.

LADYBUGS IN THE COOLER

Keeping ladybugs in the refrigerator until they are required to exterminate aphids on rose bushes may be a sound plan but would the lady of the house be content to have a container of ladybugs in the refrigerator?

The suggestion is that the ladybugs be kept in a cool spot until required, then revived in a warm room and placed on the rose bushes. They lay about 300 eggs at a time, and the larvae simply dote on aphids. (Stratford Beacon-Herald.)

SUMMER TASK

I saw him with a knife in hand,
A dismal sight to see.
His feelings I could understand.
They'd often bothered me.
An apron round his waist was tied,
Near-by a pewter dish.
But in his task he found no pride.
The man was cleaning fish.

But no such man was he.
A dead fish has a deadly fin,
As sharp as sharp can be.
I don't know is it true of whales,
Since whales I've never scraped,
But perch and bass have countless scales
With which they're stoutly draped.

A dead fish is a slippery thing
And difficult to hold,
From board and knife it's apt to spring.
It's also clammy, cold.
And so I laughed as I passed by,
For at Port Austin, Mich.,
Some years ago I vowed that I
Had cleaned my final fish.

Belleville People in the Yukon: A very interesting photograph was received by City Clerk Wilfrid Holmes a few days ago from a former resident of Belleville, Lieut. Col. Herbert D. Hulme who is a son of the late R. Croft Hulme of this city. The photograph was taken in Dawson City, Yukon Territory, 35 years ago, during a visit there of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and His Honor Judge J. F. Wills. Fourteen persons are shown in the picture all of whom at one time resided in Belleville and the names are as follows: Miro Warrington, Glencoe Hulme, Lieut. Col. Herbert D. Hulme, His Honor Judge J. F. Wills, R. M. deGex, Allan E. Marks, Fred Carscallen, George E. J. Hanwell, Henry Bleecker, Hon. Mr. Justice Charles D. Macaulay, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Henry T. Wills, John Turner and Robert Bogle, Lieut. Col. Hulme's kindness in giving the picture to the city is much appreciated and it will be hung in the council chamber where it may be seen by citizens who may be interested. Lieut. Col. Hulme resides in Vancouver, B.C., and is engaged in the practice of law. In his letter addressed to the mayor, he says: "I will be glad if you will accept this photograph with my best wishes for you and the City of Belleville in which I spent many years as a youth."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A business friend of mine who has come up good and high in the world and has lots of money and several cars and a cruiser, and is on the special list of all big charity and social service drives—a tycoon, in short—also has the worst old secretary you ever fell foul of.

She has been with him nearly thirty years. She was his secretary away back in the days when their office was in a dowdy old building and always have been. Indeed, she has always been such a cranky, bossy individual that a great many of the tycoon's friends and colleagues have protested. Why, they want to know, does he keep such an old battleaxe for a secretary? For besides being ill-natured, she always has been capable of mistakes and errors both in judgment and in fact.

The other day, she bawled me out most impertinently for calling to take her boss off fishing for the afternoon, and assured me that if it hadn't been for men like me amongst his cronies, he might have risen a great deal higher in the business world. I was stugg.

So when I got past her into the sanctum, I enquired of my friend, as nicely as I could, how much longer he intended to keep that old gorgon out in front.

"Boy," he said, "I hope she outlasts me. She's been the most invaluable single associate I have ever had. Everybody in the business world knows what she's like. The worse she behaves, the more I like it. The more funbies she is guilty of, the better. Because I can always blame my own fumbles, my own shortcomings my own failures on her. When I tell anybody that my secretary forgot all about telling me something, or that I wrote when I forgot to write, or that I missed a meeting on her account, everybody believes me. She's worth her weight in gold. She takes all the falls."

Nature Sets Bones Better

(Hollywood, Calif., Citizen-News)

"Nature often cures fractures and sets broken bones better than the greatest surgeon," reads a report from the national meeting of 5,000 family doctors in Los Angeles. . . .

Dr. Harold E. Crowe, chairman of the surgical committee at Los Angeles Orthopaedic Hospital, pointed out that an injured and shortened leg often grows an inch or so faster and accommodates its length to that of the normal leg in a short time.

Noteworthy also is this reported statement of his: "God cures fractures. Orthopaedists who know this often can eliminate surgery and reduce the risk."

Man is a relatively frail creature who would never have survived the long eras of ignorance and primitive living without nature's ability to repair injuries and restore health. The greatest physicians of our day rely on this God-directed spirit within us.

Cultivating Friends

(Montreal Gazette)

The quickening growth of pension and retirement plans is being accompanied by sound advice to all those who can look forward to rest and leisure in old age. It is necessary, we are told, to prepare for retirement in other ways than the financial, if it is to be properly enjoyed. It is advisable, for instance, to cultivate hobbies and interests, so that retirement be a "season of mellow fruitfulness" rather than one of empty aimlessness.

Other things should be cultivated besides hobbies. Loneliness is the real plague of old age. We should cultivate friends. Perhaps that seems an odd bit of advice, to be told to deliberately build friendships. They are usually taken as a matter of course. But wiser men have not thought so.

"If a man does not make new acquaintances as he passes through life," said Samuel Johnson, "he will soon find himself left alone. A man should keep his friendships in constant repair."

How does a person go about finding, or choosing friends? Common interests, common associations are ready links of acquaintance in office or factory or club. But tere is a great distance between acquaintance and true friendship.

South said that "a true friend is the gift of God" but Emerson was more direct in telling how to get one: "The only way to have a friend is to be one."

* * *

Finding a true friend is not easy. "The difficulty is not so great to die for a friend," said Home, "as to find a friend worth dying for."

What are the marks of true friendship? There seems general agreement that a friend is one who "conceals our faults from the view of others," but feels it his duty to quietly reveal them to ourselves.

That desiription illustrates one of the two attributes of friendship which wise men have agreed upon for centuries — that a friend should be a person of prudence, of discretion. The second attribute is not so well known. Philosophers across the centuries have advised that friends should always be sought among those better than ourselves. Sir Walter Raleigh and Confucius are most definite about that.

Raleigh, of course, had a tempestuous court life which eventually landed him in prison. Perhaps such experiences colored his advice. He wrote:

"If thy frifnds be of better quality than thyself, thou mayest be sure of two things: the first, they will be more careful to keep thy counsel, because they have more to lose than thou hast; the second, they will esteem thee for thyself, and not for that which thou dost possess."

* * *

There are other warnings. Friendship should not be rushed, it is "a slow growth." It must be accompanied by virtue, though no one should demand perfection — "whoever looks for a friend without imperfections will never find what he seeks"

The dangers of imprudent friendships are many and obvious. But the comfort of the true friendship is a warm satisfaction through every age of man. In youth, friends share their hopes and dreams; in maturity, the problems of responsible life; in old age, their memories and satisfactions.

The wonder of friendship, it has long been agreed, is that this sharing enables us to halve our sorrows and double our joys.

* * *

There is usally a careful distinction drawn by the philosophers between the relationship of man and wife and that of friend and friend. Perhaps the distinction has been carefully drawn. Plato, for instance, declared:

"The love of man to woman is a thing common and of course, and at first partakes more of instinct and passion than of choice; but friendship between man and man is infinite and immortal."

Plato said that a long time ago, when a true marital friendship, based on equality and mutual respect, might have seemed quite impossible to achieve. The status of women has changed until today marriage can be a true partnership of equals. Friendship, then, between man and wife is possible, where once it was usually impossible.

It is not only possible, it is most desirable. One of the major threats to marriage today is that when the two have ceased being romantic lovers, they find they are not even friends. Happy marriages are made up of people who have become friends, after the first flush of romance has faded.

* * *

Such a friendship, of man and wife, is naturally the closet and the deepest of all. Such a friend is the ideal companion of old age. But death, unfortunately, is no respecter of marriage vows.

Again, the sage thought comes from Emerson. "We take care of our health, we lay up money, we make our roof tight and our clothing sufficient, but who provides wisely that he shall not be wanting in the best property of all — friends?

It is never too early to be building up friendship insurance for the days ahead. There are premiums to be paid; friendship is not a one-sided affair. But the dividends are beyond price.

Where Bustle Is Popular

(Manchester Guardian)

While in Northern Rhodesia recently the Archbishop of Canterbury was introduced to the missionary "bustle" which the women of Barotseland have worn proudly for the last 70 years and refuse to give up.

They are probably the last wearers of the Victorian "bustle" which came into Central Africa on the trim figure of Mme. Coillard, the wife of the French pioneer missionary Francois Coillard in 1887.

The Paramount Chief's wives were quick to see that the "bustle" enhanced the rotundity of their figures, which was to be desired, and the "bustle" was adopted into the native dress fashion.

Some of the original "bustles" which Mme. Coillard procured for her flock are still treasured in the best Barotse families, and to produce the authentic elegance the premier wife of the chief will — on state occasions —wear as many as 20 flowing skirts to billow over the "bustle".

Land Prices Sent Soaring

(Wall Street Journal)

Twenty-one acres of undeveloped land along the edge of Syracuse, N.Y., sold for $15,000 in 1951. Recently, 12½ acres of this same land, now sitting beside the New York Thruway, sold for $75,000.

At Buffalo, land along the new thruway has jumped to $5,000 an acre from a few hundred dollars an acre prior to construction of this new fourlane superhighway.

Such soaring land values are only one part of the economic impact the New York Thruway and other express highways, fast blossoming out across the nation, have on the areas through which they pass. They're also fueling factory building booms along their routes, causing construction of new shopping centres, sending new residential subdivisions a-sprouting —and bringing gloom to motel men, restaurateurs and gas station operators on by-passed highways.

Some $150 million in new plant investment along the New York Thruway route already has been laid out or earmarked.

Shoes Do Not Mean Culture

(Greensboro, N.C., Daily News)

You can kid southerners about almost anything, but not about shoes. We are senstive about our feet.

The citizenry of Hickory is described as "miffed" at some remarks made by Mrs. Hilda Widner Yoder to a Broadway columnist. Mrs. Yoder is a native of Catawba county but is now a resident of New York city and the originator of the Yoder Reading Improvement center in that city's fasionable east side.

She is quoted as telling a columnist that she is "a barefoot hillbilly from Hickory, N.C.," and remarking to him on the occasion of a visit home, "When I went to the Catawba celebration, I didn't know whether to show up with my shoes on or off."

The people of Hickory and Catawba want the world to know that they are not "hill-billies" and that they wear shoes when they leave their home grounds.

But why should it rile us?

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us,
Footprints on the sands of time.
Footprints on the sands of time.

Our idea — and we think we can prove it — is that the men who made the best footprints on those sands didn't wear shoes. A shoe is hardly the criterion of a civilized man. Take David, Solomon, Pericles, Plato, Socrates, Aristotle, Cesaar, Asoka, Gautama, Buddha, Mohammed, St. Francis of Assisi, Gandhi, and so on. They didn't wear shoes — sandals maybe that they could scuff off at a moment's notice. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin were confirmed shoe wearers, but you would hardly call them civilized.

We wear shoes down south because pavements are hot in summer and cold in winter. But there's no sense in our equating shoes with culture or bare fet with barbarians.

Injection Treatment of Bursitis

Medical merchants ignorant of pathology affect great concern and keep their gullible customers worried about "calcium deposits" —in joints, in arteries, in any part of the body that may be of interest at the moment.

In the piece about calcium deposits, I pointed out, in my modest way, that calcification of tissue or deposit of calcium anywhere in the body is the consequence of injury, inflammation, infection or degeneration and not the cause of it.

If I am right about this, it follows, does it not, that a doctor who tells a patient the patient's trouble is due to calcification or a deposit of calcium in joint bursa artery or whatever is ignorant or untrustworthy. On the other hand, if I'm wrong about it—well, let any physician or pathologist who knows better warn the public against my teaching.

Aside from the objective knowledge gained from the study of pathology, which is my assurance, I learned something more about it when I had subacromial bursitis. After complete recovery of shoulder function I sustained a fracture of the opposite shoulder. Comparing X-ray films of the normal with films of the injured shoulder, the doctor noticed a calcium deposit in the subacromial bursa. For all I know the deposit may still be there. It never gave me the slightest trouble nor did it impair the function of the shoulder.

When I had bursitis (for months) the best relief I obtained, for the pain, was diathermy, applied for half an hour, more or less, nearly every day, followed by gentle but gradually increasing and not so gentle passive movements of the shoulder, by the physical therapist, and later by active exercise.

Of course it was long after my bursitis that I learned about needle treatment. I don't mean morphine, but the infiltration of the affected area with novocain and insertion of aspirating needle into the bursa to withdraw fluid, or perhaps two needles to irrigate the bursa. I'd go for the needle treatment by all means if I had bursitis today. I wouldn't mess around with a doctor who coasts along on the do-nothing principle and the dogmatic assertion that needle treatment is "dangerous" or "has been tried and discarded."

A good many readers have reported in recent years that supplementing the everyday diet with an optimal ration of calcium and vitamin D, has brought great relief to bursitis. All I know about this is (1) most Americans do not get sufficient calcium and vitamin D (essential for calcium metabolism) from their everyday diet (2) one of the functions of calcium is to regulate nerve excitability, and (3) the amount of calcium and in the optimal ration I recommend is no more than one would get from three glasses of milk and three spoonfuls of cod liver oil. I believe that even if it does no good it can do no harm to take optimal ration of Ca and D daily in the fall, winter and spring.

TODAY'S TALK

PERSONAL INTERESTS

That which makes people interesting to themselves makes them interesting to us. Interesting people are bold and unafraid; they are first of all creative and so, there fore, in a sense, unique. One Rodin dominates all France—and a good part of the world. A Washington is but the enactment of a dream among liberty seeking peoples. What makes such a figure akin to us is that he is interesting to himself.

We only ask of our heroes that they perform honestly and sincerely—we want them as patterns. That's why we look to them, making there interests an inspiration to us. What borrowers we are! The interests of Plato, Shakespeare, Dickens, Whitman and a host of others, whose writings have added lustre to literature, have become our own, according to our ability to absorb what they had to give.

Every great master, be he writer, painter or poet, had to formulate a plan of life and action suited to his own personal interests; he had to have faith in himself and depend upon it, regardless of all outer influences. It always takes great courage to stand alone, against odds and all opposition.

The more we learn of new things the better we become acquainted with people, and the more absorbed we become in affairs of the world, the closer we get to ourselves and the more fascinating all our interests become. We like people of many interests and who keep bubbling over with enthusiasm.

One reason why so many retired men live only a few years is that they have no compelling interests to keep them occupied. One or more enjoyable hobbies work wonders after a man has retired; long before this he can prepare for those days which may have little to offer him in the way of change and a happy occupation.

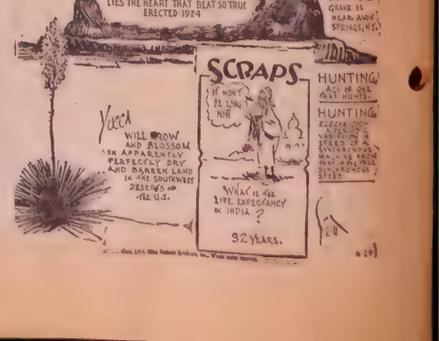
SEARCHING FOR SECURITY

The word security is probably in use now more than it ever has been before. Psychiatrists tell us that the need for security is one of man's most essential needs, and that the feeling of insecurity lies behind many mental disturbances.

Not only the psychiatrists reveal this. Today's economy reflects on all sides the quest for security. Never before have insurance companies done so much business. Never before have pension plans and sick benefits been such a vital issue in management-labor relations. Even the federal government is now heavily involved with the vast social security program.



Yet the world we live in is not, in most respects, a secure world. It is a world of the passing of all things. Human life is a cycle of change: youth and beauty fade; we grow old and die. Family and friends pass on. Property deteriorates, fortunes are wiped out, governments topple. Nothing can be guaranteed to last.

Nothing, that is, except God's love It is the only permanent, stable bulwark in a shifting and chaotic world, stretching back into history and forward into eternity: "Our help in ages past, our hope in years to come." Only by finding God can man find the security he seeks and needs; and the joy of finding that security is written on the faces of those who have found Him.

Look around and see.

Students whose names appear in the Honors groups have obtained an average of at least 75% on the aggregate and not less than 50% in any subject.

Where a subject is listed in brackets following a student's name it indicates that the student has failed in this subject. In the case of Ancient History, Algebra or Physics in Grade XI he will be required to repeat the subject. In other cases he will be allowed to proceed to the work of the next Grade and will be expected to exert extra effort in the subject.

Pupils who have completed satisfactorily the work of Grades VII, VIII, IX and X will be awarded an Intermediate Certificate. Requirements for this certificate in the General course include completion of Grade X courses in English, Social Studies, Health and Physical Education, and at least four of the optional subjects: Mathematics, Science, French, Latin, Art or Music, Shop Work or Home Economics, or Commercial Work.

Students who have failed to obtain clear promotion are invited to discuss their program of studies for next year with the Principal or Director of Guidance during the first week in July or last week in August.

Four Doctors File Suit Against Staff

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—This city has moved to protect itself against legal involvement in a suit filed by four doctors against the medical staff of Victoria Hospital and the hospital trust.

City solicitor Huron R. Davidson was asked Monday night to clarify the city's position after Mayor George Beedle, who is a member of the trust, asked what protective steps should be taken.

The names of Dr. Harold Henderson, Dr. J. H. Spence, Dr. Donald Ferguson and Dr. F. R. Southcott appear on the writ.

The writ contends that the Public Hospital Act defines the Victoria Hospital medical staff as all doctors with patients in the hospital.

They claim the by-laws go far beyond this authority and ask they be set aside.

British Report Hits Price-Fixing

LONDON (Reuters)—A government commission today condemned price-fixing methods by British big business and called for new laws to protect the public.

The 10-member commission spent two years in probing price-fixing methods of monopolies and giant trade associations. Seven men, headed by Sir David Scott Cairns, 53, called for legislation to end all restrictive trading practices.

In a minority report, the three other commission members said a total ban on such practices would hurt business. They came out instead for compulsory registration of all trade groups and publication of the agreements involved.

Weddings

BLACKBURN—GRAHAM

Tall white standards, filled with stalks of blue and white delphinium, formed the setting in Jubilee Presbyterian church, Stayner, at three o'clock, Saturday afternoon, June 25, for the marriage of Jessie Donella, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander Graham, Stayner, and Murray Albert, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Blackburn, Collingwood. Their wedding vows were heard by the Rev. J. D. C. Jack.

The traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Leslie Walker. The soloist, Mrs. Douglas Walker, sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Because". Guest pews were marked with bows of white ribbon and sprays of blue delphinium.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown was a lovely model of white lace and net over taffeta. The full net skirt featured insets of lace edged with ruching and an inset peplum of lace. The strapless bodice was topped with a jacket of lace, buttoned to the neckline which was finished with a mandarin collar. The long sleeves tapered to lily-points. She wore a tiny crown of seed pearls and sequins which held her illusion veil, this falling in graceful folds in pointed effect, and carried a white Bible with a cluster of gardenias and white streamers.

Miss Janet Tait, Reg. N., Stayner, wearing shrimp tone, was maid of honor and Miss Joyce Welsh, Reg. N., Toronto, and Miss Thelma Blackburn, Collingwood, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids, wearing powder blue. Their gowns were of crystalette over taffeta. The skirts were fashioned with graceful fullness and the tailored, strapless long bodices were accented by bolero jackets of blue lace. They wore net bandeaux to match their gowns. Miss Tait carried cream roses and blue 'mums and the bridesmaids had pink roses and blue 'mums.

Little Miss Sharon Hoskin of Collingwood, was a winsome flower girl and was in a long frock of blue crystalette with shrimp trim. She too wore a tiny lace jacket and net head band. Her flowers were roses and corn flowers which she carried in a little white basket.

Mr. Gordon Blackburn of Meaford, was best man for his brother, and ushers were Mr. Bert Freethy of Collingwood, and Mr. Leslie Anderson, cousin of the bride, of Toronto.

At the reception held in the Sunday school auditorium, the bride's mother received, wearing dusty rose lace and net, the skirt featuring a side panel of pleated net. The crossed bodice and skirt panel were edged with appliqued flowers of softly toned sequins. She wore a matching hat and corsage of cream roses. Assisting her, the bridegroom's mother chose a tailored dress of rose crepe with navy and white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of cream roses.

Leaving on their wedding trip to Lake Placid and Eastern Ontario, the bride changed to a dusty rose cashmere suit with navy and white accessories and a gardenia corsage. They will reside in Collingwood.

BURLEY—HUDON

On Saturday, June 25th, at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, the Rev. Peter Murphy officiating the marriage was solemnized of Helen Florence daughter of Mrs. Hudon and the late Joseph Alfred George Hudon to Edward Joseph Burley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Elwood Burley.

During the Nuptial Mass, at which Dale Burley, brother of the bridegroom, and Michael Cowan, acted as servers, Mr. Edward Brown, uncle of the bridegroom, rendered two solos, Schubert's "Ave Maria", and "O Lord I Am not Worthy", and at the signing of the register "On This Day O Beautiful Mother". Miss Dorothy Grant played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. George Hudon Newlands, made a charming picture in her floor-length gown of tiered imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over slipper satin. Her bodice of lace had a mandarin neckline and long, lace sleeves with a cut-out sequin embroidered motif and insert of nylon tulle. A coronet of seed pearls and iridescents was attached to a fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she carried a small crescent bouquet of white Amabilia orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Mary Jean Hudon, acting as her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Betty McBride, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in floor-length dresses of coral crystalette over nylon taffeta with overskirt of tulle. Their headpieces were braided bandeaux in matching shade, edged with tiny pearls. They carried curved cascades of delphinium petals and cornflowers shaded from mauve to blue.

Mr. Ray Burley was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were, Mr. Robert Kitchen and Mr. John Garvin.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hotel Quinte. The bride's mother received the guests in a gown of Riviera blue French Guipure lace with small hat in matching shade, and corsage of Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom, who was attired in beige striped nylon taffeta with matching hat and accessories of olive green and purse corsage of Talisman roses.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Burley will reside in Campbellford.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was guest of honor at a kitchen shower given by Miss Betty McBride; a miscellaneous shower by Miss Cletus Trudeau, and a shower and presentation by the staff of H. Corby Distillery.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HERE'S A GIRL WHO SHOULD SHAKE HERSELF AWAKE

A great many people—and chiefly women, I'm afraid—pride themselves on being the "emotional type." Somehow they seem to believe that the more hysterical they get over the things that happen to them, the more they'll be admired for the depth of their feelings.

As a matter of fact, this is, of course, a strictly adolescent conception, and the reverse is actually the truth. Instead of "letting themselves go" under the various strains and stresses, the emotional crises, whether happy or unhappy, that present themselves in the course of a normal lifetime, the mature person disciplines his emotions. It is only the immature who are able to persuade themselves that the amount of noise they make over a thing, or the amount of time they spend brooding over it, or the degree to which they permit themselves to be incapacitated by it, are measures of its emotional impact upon them.

All such people, whether 16 or 60 are merely dramatizing themselves to try and make themselves appear more important as persons, and their experiences more impressive. Also, obviously, they get a great deal of enjoyment out of such dramatization of themselves. What, however, they actually succeed in doing is to give a convincing demonstration of the fact that they are still in their emotional childhood.

Such a demonstration appears in a letter from a 16-year-old girl who tries to impress me with the fact that she believes herself in love with a married man 12 years her senior. There is nothing in the letter to indicate that this man has paid her any particular attention, and of course any young man of 28, whther married or single, who took the crush of a teen-age girl seriously, or even pretended to, would have to be either so childish himself as to be practically feeble-minded, or else sexually abnormal.

Our teen-ager, however, is getting the thrill of her life out of building up a romantic dream of herself in relation to this man.

"Even though he is so many years older than I am," she writes, "I love him as I am sure I will rever love anyone else. He knows how I feel about him, but, much as I hate to admit it, even to myself, I know he doesn't love me nearly so much as I love him. I have only known him for about four months, but with me it was love at first sight."

And then she ends on a particularly dramatic note:

"I have always been very emotional, and my inability to forget this man really frightens me."

Well, my guess is that this teenager has no interest whatever in trying to forget this man or, perhaps we should say, in dispelling the melodrama she has put together, with herself in the starring role. Here she is, revelling in the picture of herself as a woman with a grand and hopeless passion for someone unobtainable. Because he is married, it is all the more epicy.

Somehow I have a strong suspicion that the man in the case not only doesn't love her as much as she imagines she loves him, but doesn't know anything whatever about her emotional fantasies. He may not, indeed, even know she exists. Or he himself may not even exist in the flesh. In other words, she may have spun her one-sided romance entirely out of movie-struck fluff.

In any event, I strongly advise her to shake herself awake and transfer her interest and her energies to some good healthy sports. There's nothing like hearty exercise to get the mental processes functioning right.

Whether she takes this advice or not, however, one of these days when she has grown up a little, she'll get a good hearty laugh out of this letter of hers. Or she may, on the other hand, blush a little when she remembers it.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am confused about the propriety of having both a maid of honor and a matron of honor. In several etiquette books and special books about weddings, I have read that it is not considered correct to have both a maid of honor and a matron of honor. And still I have been to two 'handsome' weddings in the past year and have read in the paper the account of several other weddings in which there were two honor attendants. Please tell me the correct procedure. I so very much want to have my two sisters, one married and one not, as my honor attendants. — Bride-to-be

This detail of wedding procedure has indeed completely changed in the past few years. It was such a short time ago when it was considered in not very good taste to have two honor attendants, either two maids of honor, two matrons of honor, or a maid of honor and a matron of honor. Today, that is changed. Now, as you say, one very often sees both a matron of honor and a maid of honor in the wedding procession. And the number of weddings in which this is very rapidly increasing. So do have your two sisters as honor attendants. I do think it is more impressive to have the honor witness (usually the matron of honor) to walk directly before you and your father.

WHICH RING TO WEAR?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am engaged. My fiancee's mother passed away, and one of the things she left her is her engagement ring, a very nice ring but quite old-fashioned in design. Occasionally my fiancee will wear her mother's ring and leave the engagement ring I gave her at home. I feel that it is very nice to have a remembrance from her mother, but I just don't like the idea of her leaving the ring I gave her at home and wearing someone else's ring. I feel that the ring or diamond her mother left can be used another way. Am I right in feeling as I do? — W.T.

Certainly you are right in feeling as you do. Now that your engagement has been announced, your fiancee should wear the engagement ring you gave her, and this ring only, on "the" finger. She should always wear your engagement ring, and where it should be worn. I agree with you that the ring her mother left her might "be used in another way" . . . for example, sometime in the future she could have it redesigned to be worn on the little finger on her right hand.

WHO PROVIDES CHURCH FLOWERS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Whose responsibility is it to provide the flowers to decorate the church and the reception? My sister, who is to be married soon, says it is the best man who pays for these flowers. I maintain that this is the bridegroom's responsibility. Who is right about this—Bride's sister

Neither you nor your sister is right about this. Providing the flowers for the church and the reception is the responsibility of the bride's family. (The best man should not be expected to pay any of the wedding expenses. He has only two financial responsibilities: (1) to give a wedding present to the bride-to-be; and (2) to provide the wedding attire he is to wear at the wedding.)

Cooking School Review

By Mary Moore

One little suggestion that Marion tossed off as an afterthought has stuck in my mind.

She had made up the supper sandwich casserole (see below) and was showing it to the audience through her overhead mirror. She said, "This is a good way to use up any leftover sandwiches from a party too."

I'll bet we all have sandwiches leftover from parties at one time or another so I would advise you to put this recipe in your leftover file and remember to get it out when you have sandwiches to use up. This way you can make it into a main supper dish.

SUPPER SANDWICH CASSEROLE

Four eggs, 4 cups of milk, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. dry mustard, 12 slices white bread, 6 sausage patties, browned, 6 cheese slices or 1-4 pound grated cheese, 2 tomatoes sliced. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, mustard, salt. Make sandwiches of browned sausage patties, or bologna or salami or cheese. Cut sandwiches in half diagonally. Arrange in 8 by 12 baking dish, cut sides down. Place sliced tomatoes between sandiches. Pour egg-milk over. Bake at 325 until set, about 1 1-2 hours. Serves six.

Now the quick mix sponge cake below is sensational. I believe you will change your way of making sponge cakes after you try it once. Be sure there is no fat on your bowl or beater or cooking pan.

QUICK MIX SPONGE CAKE

One and one-quarter cups sifted cake flour, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon double acting baking powder, 3-4 cup egg whites, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup egg yolks (eggs should be at room temperature) 1-4 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon lemon extract.

(1) Sift into small mixer bowl sifted flour, baking powder, sugar.

(2) Into large mixing bowl place egg whites (room temperature), salt, cream of tartar. Beat with electric mixer until soft mounds form. Gradually beat in 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until stiff peaks form.

(3) To dry ingredients add egg yolks, water, vanilla and lemon. Beat at medium speed for 1 minute, until light and fluffy.

(4) By hand fold egg mixture into stiffly beaten whites, 1-4 at a time, blending gently. Do not stir.

Pour into ungreased tube pan Cut through batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes. Invert pan and cool for one hour.

NOTE:

This cake is at its best when baked in a tube pan, but it may be baked in a long shallow pan for a jelly roll sponge, if desired.

HONEY COCONUT COOKIES

One-half cup shortening, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup honey, 1 egg, 1 cup sifted all purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup quick oats, 1 cup shredded cocoanut, 1-2 cup chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream together shortening, sugar, honey, and egg, mix well Sift flour, salt, soda. Add to creamed mixture. Blend in oats, coconut, nuts, and vanilla. Drop by teaspoons on greased cookie sheet. Flatten with a fork. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Decoration Day Observed At Elmwood

On Sunday afternoon at the beautiful, well-shaded and well-kept Elmwood cemetery, near the Moira River, north of Corbyville (formerly known as Reed's cemetery) friends and relatives of loved ones buried there, gathered for the annual Decoration Day service, conducted by the captain of the Salvation Army of Belleville, accompanied by the Army band.

The address by Capt. Fisher, the duets by Mr. Chumbley and daughter of Plainfield, and the hymns sung by the audience accompanied by the S.A. Band were much enjoyed.

A great deal of honor and thanks are due Mr. and Mrs. George Hicks especially for the great interest they have taken in the maintenance of this lovely cemetery over a period of years and for their efforts in establishing a Cemetery Board in accordance with the Provincial Cemetery Act.

Thanks are due the Cemetery Board for their help and kind interest in this worthy cause.

Appreciation and thanks are also due Mr. and Mrs. Hicks for the beautiful wrought iron gates and pillars at the entrance of the cemetery driveway, which will prove to be a real monument to them for many years to come.

It may be of interest to many to learn that this pioneer cemetery has passed the century mark.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — A charge of drunk driving has been laid against David Cook, 23, of Hastings, following an accident on Bridge St. West, on Saturday night, at a curve at the western edge of town. Cook, travelling west, failed to negotiate the curve, and plowed into a car driven by Elton Thompson, also of Hastings. Although Thompson and his son, John, were shaken up, they were not injured.

Cook received slight head injuries. Police said Arnold Lemoire, 23, also of Hastings, was a passenger in the Cook car, but was not injured.

Thompson, travelling east, tried to swerve his car into a service station driveway, but the westbound auto driven by Cook struck him at the south edge of the roadway.

Chief Constable George Rose investigated.

CAR ROLLS OVER

He told police that as he rounded a curve about one mile south of Hastings, two wheels of the car dropped off the soft shoulder. When he tried to bring it back, it careened across the highway and rolled over in the east ditch.

Following the accident he was removed to the Peterborough hospital for treatment of head and internal injuries. The hospital reports that his condition now is slightly improved.

OPP George Louth investigated.

WRESTLER BREAKS LEG

Tommy Tucker, a 100-pound, 55-inch tall midget wrestler, suffered a broken leg in a match here in the community arena on Saturday night. Tucker, wrestling with Big Inch, another midget, dived between the legs of the referee to get at his opponent. His legs became tangled in the ropes and broke his right leg.

Al Orlando took a decision from Stoney Brooks of Campbellford, who is Canadian amateur champion, in the main event.

The Russian lion, Ivan Klimenko, took a decision from Jack Dennis of Timmins, and in the final event, Bennedetto Lima, of Milan, Italy, defeated Cal Cosmurn of Liverpool, England.

A benefit match is scheduled for July 9 in the arena to help defray the hospital and doctor bills for Tommy Tucker.

Churchill Takes Things Easily For First Time

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Winston Churchill, for the first time in his life, is "taking things easily," friends close to the veteran statesman said today.

In the peaceful and relaxed atmosphere of his private country mansion, Chartwell, in Kent, he is spending the days writing a book, "The History of the English Speaking Peoples."

Between spells of dictation, he roams the Chartwell grounds in his famous blue overall-like suit, enjoying the sunshine, feeding the fish in his ponds, sitting on a bench offering bread crumbs to the birds.

Since he stepped down from the premiership April 5, he has shown no anxiety to plunge into the rough and tumble of the House of Commons.

Meanwhile both Conservatives and Labor members of Parliament comment wistfully that the chamber lacks its old-time sparkle without Churchill. They are looking forward to the day when some big debate will tempt him to open up with his first post-war speech from the back benches.

COMMONS SPLIT

the Commons since Confederation and that it recalled the absolute powers granted King Henry VIII.

"This is another gem: 'It will lead our people into slavery,'" he said, reading from Mr. Drew's speech.

"That's the nature of the exaggeration."

He challenged the opposition to show where the act affects individual freedom. It did affect property rights. Critical supplies needed for defence could be controlled and certain materials and factories could be taken over for defence purposes under certain conditions. But it provided for proper compensation, decided if necessary by the courts.

The Opposition's "purity" on the issue was worth debunking.

He said Opposition Leader Drew, as premier of Ontario, sponsored a law under which the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission could force its rulings on a contract-holder without allowing him recourse to the courts.

"That is the rule of law introduced by the leader of the Opposition, who sobbed so loudly for three hours and 40 minutes," Mr. Howe said, referring to the length of Mr. Drew's speech earlier in the debate.

He said that a later radio speech by Mr. Drew appealing for public support on the issue reminded him of "Joan of Arc supplicating the peasants of France to come to the rescue."

The minister said fantastically large sums" are put into development work on defence projects. Unless they were successful the money was a dead loss to taxpayers.

He cited two recent development projects—the $122,000,000 spent to produce the present CF-100 jet and $20,000,000 to make a complex naval anti-aircraft gun. Both developments had been touch-and-go and outside experts and management skills had to be called in.

"The purpose of the act is to make sure, when we get a situation of that kind where great sums of the taxpayers' money are at stake, that we can direct the strength of the Canadian industry into the problem and save the expenditure."

Referring to the new airplane project, he added:

"Some of you do not know how it feels . . . to be out on a limb for $20,000,000 of other people's money and have a serious doubt cast on its outcome. I can tell you that you do not sleep very well until you get the thing straightened out."

WORKED WELL

Industry worked well under government rules, even without them being applied. It would be happy to continue under them indefinitely.

John H. Hamilton (PC — York West) said defence manufacturers do not criticize Mr. Howe's department because the "big stick" is still around and can be used.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said Mr. Howe's claim that defence production powers protect the taxpayers' money is a tragic joke. No man in Parliament had shown more indifference to tax money than Mr. Howe.

J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec West) said the government is using its "servile majority" to betray those who elected Liberals to power. Liberal members should vote against the bill's dictatorial powers.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) said Prime Minister St. Laurent should speak on the bill, which stands in his name.

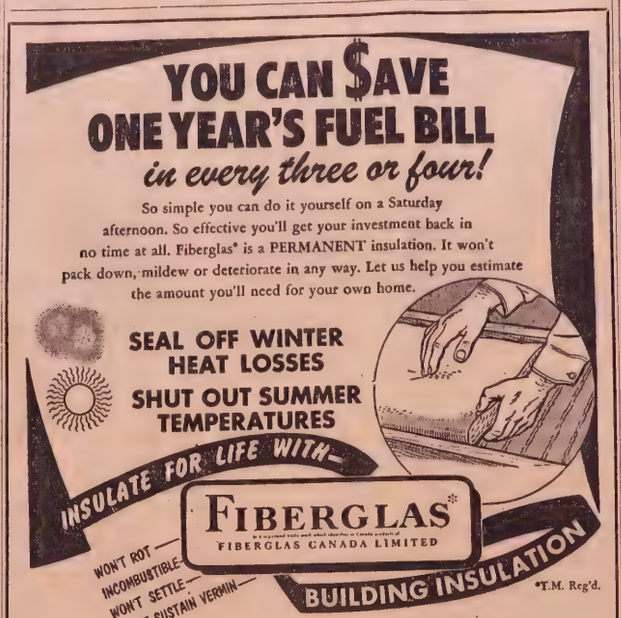
John Pallett (PC — Peel) described the legislation as a serious threat to the basic fundamentals of democracy and challenged Mr. St. Laurent to permit a free vote. Mr. St. Laurent was not in the house.

Mr. Pallett's speech provoked a noisy Commons scene and at times he could hardly be heard. Mr. Rowe asked Speaker Rene Beaudoin to keep order.

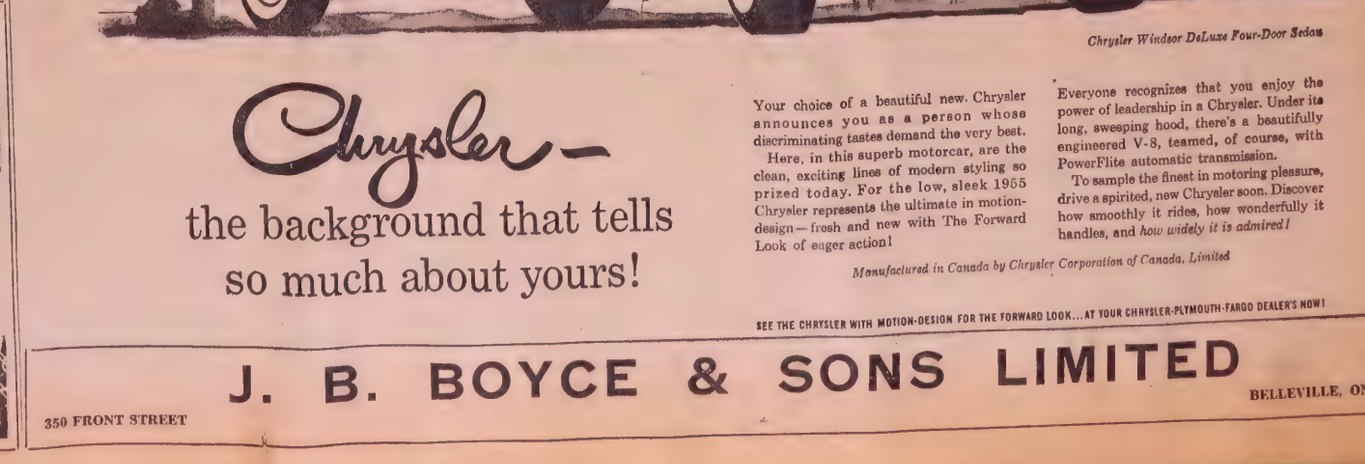
Mr. Beaudoin said the interjections apparently were being made in the belief Mr. Pallett was reading his speech. He added there was some cause for this suspicion.

Mr. Pallett said he was expressing his own opinion, which was a lot more than members of the government side had done.



MIGHT INTIMIDATE

Hayden Stanton (PC — Leeds) said he fears that if too much power is given to any department of government it may use it to intimidate industrialists and workers into falling in line.



He said Mr. Howe's demand for indefinite defence production powers, instead of a time limit, indicates his fear that government supporters would not renew the powers at the expiry date.

J. A. McBain (PC—Elgin) said there is no urgency for the powers. They did not expire until July next year. The government itself had admitted that the threat of war had diminished.

Crop Prospects In Province About Average

TORONTO (CP)—Despite damage by last week's hail storm in some areas Ontario's crop prospects seem about "average" for the rest of the summer.

All sections report haying retarded by recent rains but fall and spring grains seem promising.

In western Ontario, hail has done considerable damage in some areas. Corn and soybean crops seem in good shape, however. Huron county reports white beans and sugar beets progressing well.

Southern Ontario reports a good deal of haying done despite rains. Fall wheat is generally very good and peas, raspberries and cherries appear to be bumper crops.

APHIDS BUSY

Aphids are harming spring grains in some parts of central Ontario while hail has harmed fruit crops considerably in some areas. In general clover, potato and grain crops seem spotty.

Eastern Ontario reports grass silage continuing well, to counteract delays in haying. Grain and corn are progressing well and livestock are drawing good prices.

Northern Ontario's strawberry crop, usually yielding at this time of year, is reported poor in many districts. Potato crops are well-developed.

CONSERVATION Ketchi's Korner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

You know, perhaps it's just about time you and this Korner had a little chat. About this business of fishing. This is particularly for those of you whose so-called "luck" hasn't been of the best. Because the only true indicator of luck or good management) is fish in the creel! Let's confine our talk to the real and undisputed champion of the Ontario waters — the bass. This fellow takes on a great deal of the angling pressure in this province, we think mainly because of the fact that the open season for bass coincides with the time during which most people take their annual vacations.

We doubt very much if any reader, given of course the opportunity, would without considerable urging move out of the shade — except to eat. Well, the same goes for our friend the bass, who has no other obligation than his own appetite to bring him out into the sunshine. Some of us tend to forget that the sunshine in the bass' element is just as warm to him as it is to us in the air. So while we may sit and simmer in an open boat for protracted periods, our under-water quarry uses a bit more discretion. He usually stays in the shade — a situation far more to his liking.

We anglers should be extremely thankful for one of nature's processes pertaining to fish — the bass in particular. He has a good, lusty appetite and an excellent digestion, and as a result doesn't get far from the dining table at any time. When his hunger sends him foraging, his prowling can frequently send him home in a creel. That is, if we anglers realize his habits and make the most of our knowledge.

You have often observed (as we have) those patient types who either sit anchored in a boat for eternities or troll up and down, up and down, hoping for a strike. It's true that there is a mathematical chance of this happening—but the odds are stacked high against you. For the very simple reason that our friend the bass, most times, isn't there. The way we figure it — and our estimate may even be optimistic — about 90 per cent of the water in a lake is barren of fish. It takes many an acre of water to support a fish population.

On the other hand, when the bass is on the prowl for lunch, where does he go? Don't underset his intelligence — he's smart, and has most of the angles figured long before you or this Korner arrives on the scene. So let's figure it out from the point of view of the fish. He likes minnows, crabs or crayfish, insects of many types. Where is he most likely to find them? Right where the minnows and crayfish go for their own meals. Over to Joe's — right up close to the shore where Mother Nature has provided a regular drive - in restaurant for fish. Beaches of fine gravel or rock make ideally secluded parking spots in which to await the next course, usually provided by insect life dropping from trees or hatching when the shallower water warms up. The minnows like this place too, so in they go for their next meal. It may very well be their last, for it is only logical to assume that old man bass will be just around the corner.

As the sun begins to drop behind the hills, you'll find the hungry bass moving with the crowd along to the lakeside dining room, and he'll usually stay there until well after sunrise the next day. He's very alert. A splash in his vicinity will bring him right over to investigate, even though the water may not be deep enough to cover his dorsal fin. And if it so happens that the splash was occasioned by your lure, and if it so happens that you are not too quick on the retrieve, he'll have it — or scare you out of a year's growth. Or both.

Federal Grain Men Estimate Canada's Wheat Exports Will Be No Higher Than Year Ago

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The current crop year has another month to run, but federal grain men now estimate Canada's wheat exports for the full 12-month period will be no higher than they were a year ago—the lowest since the 1950-51 crop year.

And what's more, they say, when all the figures are in they will undoubtedly show that the United States has firmly grasped the spot held by Canada in 1953-54 as the world's No. 1 wheat exporter.

On the basis of these latest estimates, it now appears Canada's wheat carryover when the new crop year begins Aug. 1 will be about the fourth highest in history—probably about 475,000,000 bushels.

This would be down 108,000,000 bushels from the near-record 583,000,000 a year ago, but will be higher than in any previous year since August, 1943, when Canada held a record 595,000,000. The third highest was 480,000,000 in 1941.

The current outlook on exports is not so rosy as it appeared in earlier months when various government spokesmen predicted exports would rise well above the 256,000,000 bushels shipped last year.

The U.S. has been selling wheat for local currencies, giving some of its surpluses away and bartering others in a big drive to get rid of a huge stockpile. Canada has persistently demanded payment in dollars. Last month, Trade Minister Howe said the U.S. giveaway program was having a disturbing effect on Canadian markets.

But months ago, the U.S. agriculture department predicted the situation that now appears to be taking place. It forecast that U.S. sales would increase while those of Canada would remain virtually unchanged. Canadian officials were optimistic; they didn't agree.

Canada's exports, vital to prairie prosperity, dropped to a post-war low of 195,000,000 bushels in the 1947-48 crop year. By 1950-51, they had increased to 241,000,000. Then came the big jump: to 356,000,000 in 1951-52 and to a post-war high of 386,000,000 in 1952-53, one of the biggest years since the record 408,000,000 shipped in 1928-29.

Four Students Play Sir Walter To Modern Queen

It was raining as the sovereign inspected a guard of honor of Queen's College officers' training corps, after returning aboard the royal yacht Britannia from a visit to Norway. She carried an open umbrella.

It was still wet as she and the Duke of Edinburgh moved from the university door to her waiting car.

Then stepped forth four twentieth century gallants in scarlet robes of learning.

They spread their voluminous gowns on the wet asphalt for the Queen to tread upon as she moved to the royal car.

Billy Graham Closes Tour Of Germany

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)—Billy Graham closed his tour of Germany Tuesday night before a crowd of 25,000 in this industrial Ruhr city.

Speaking at an indoor meeting, the American evangelist said he was gratified that tens of thousands of persons had made "decisions for Christ" in his week-long crusade in Germany.

Graham preached to predominantly German audiences in Frankfurt, Mannheim, Stuttgart and Nuernberg and to large gatherings of American servicemen at Wiesbaden and Kaiserslautern.

He goes next to The Netherlands for an appearance in Rotterdam Thursday. He has a meeting scheduled for Oslo, Norway, July 3 and will wind up his European tour in Goteborg, Sweden, July 5.

Drama Festival Presents Second Classic Tragedy

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD (CP)—For the second successive night the Shakespearian festival featured a classic tragedy.

But where critics were lukewarm about "Julius Caesar," which opened the festival third season Monday night, they were writing praises about "Oedipus Rex," which filled the tent with magnificently ritualistic theatre Tuesday night.

Walter O'Hearn of the Montreal Star said Douglas Campbell, British actor in the title role, is a "fine, classic actor and potentially a very great one."

He said Campbell is "revelling in a role worthy of his stature."

Herbert Whittaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail said Campbell, "working within the ritualistic framework set forth by director Tyrone Guthrie, has expanded the conception of Oedipus to proportions sometimes enormous and at the same time intensified the humanity which binds us to the great one . . . he is an actor of extraordinary resource."

DARING AND MASTERY

J. Dorsey Callaghan of the Detroit Free Press called the production, "A study in magnificence, both in staging and in the triumph of a man's spirit over terror and the external unknown."

The 2,500-year-old tragedy, translated by W. B. Yeats, is being repeated this season, festival officials said, because its success of last year brought many requests for its performance a second season. It is the only production during the three festival years to be repeated.

Tonight, the last of the three first-nights, brings "The Merchant of Venice," to the apron stage designed by Tanya Moiseiwitsch, who also created costumes and decor for all festival productions.

The season runs until Aug. 27.

OTHER PERFORMERS

Eleanor Stuart of Montreal, a veteran actress of compelling powers, again played Jocasta, wife-mother to Oedipus, as she did last year opposite Hollywood star James Mason. Robert Goodier, also of Montreal, also repeated his role of Creon, brother-in-law to Oedipus.

The actors all wore masks which covered the heads. Those of the principals were larger than life-size. Oedipus had a golden head. Jocasta's was silver and Creon's bronze.

A startling skull mask with eyeless sockets gave a grotesque appearance to Tiresias, the blind peer who foretells the awesome fate awaiting Oedipus. Tiresias was played by Donald Davis, Toronto.

Eric House, Toronto, back for his third season, played a double role. He was venerable priest and an ancient sheperd, both important roles in the tragedy.

THEBAN CHORUS

A large contingent of newspaper critics from Canada and the United States and radio and television representatives are here for the three openings. The ceremonial, inaugurated the first season of trumpets sounding the warning to the audience, the giant firecracker which explodes with a great bang and the bell which clangs in the darkness before the lights go up on stage, again stirs the audiences which have been drawn from several continents to this city.

A visitor announced "It promises to be a distinguished season."

To Arbitrate Contract

TIMMINS (CP) — The Timmins Police Association will ask for arbitration on its 1955 wage contract after negotiations with the Timmins board of police commissioners broke down here Tuesday night.

The police are seeking a $10-a-month across the board increase with an additional two statutory holidays and a merit pay schedule for long service. A $5-a-month increase across the board was turned down by police.

Propose Seaway Extension Through Lake Champlain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Now that which would lessen the water distance from Great Lakes and northeast points to New York City by as much as 1,500 miles, had no chance of justifying its construction economically.

There is no certainty, pending investigation, that it can be so justified even today.

The idea behind the latest agitation for the Champlain "shipway" is that the St. Lawrence seaway will generate enough new traffic to make the extension practicable.

The cost of such a project would be very great. A 1937 study that resulted in an adverse report on the shipway, estimated a 27-foot canal (the channel depth of the seaway) would cost "approximately" $342,205,000. Today's estimates, if any were available, would necessarily be much higher.

Ships of small draft at present can travel between New York City and the St. Lawrence. The Hudson is connected to Lake Champlain by a 12-foot canal between Waterford and Whitehall, N. Y., and to the north, where Champlain flows into the Richelieu river and thence into the St. Lawrence, a six-foot canal exists.

After the races were over a ball game was played by the older children while the small ones played games under the direction of Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Watson.

Promptly at 5 p.m. the whistle was blown and all converged on the tables to enjoy the basket supper, with a treat being supplied to each person.

Almost as soon as supper was over the buses arrived to take the weary but happy youngsters home again.

MARMORA.—Glen Allan Park, Crowe Lake, was the rendezvous on Saturday for two Sunday school picnics that were scarcely affected by intermittent showers in the middle of the afternoon. First to arrive was the Sunday school of St. Paul's Anglican church, Marmora.

Under the supervision of the rector, Canon J. M. Brownlie, the children enjoyed themselves at baseball with two picked teams, foot and aquatic races and swimming. Between 60 and 70 were present.

Also attending about 150 strong was the Sunday school of Macdonnel Gospel Hall, Peterborough. Superintendent Arthur Todd was assisted in his duties by teachers and parents. Also accompanying the party was Howard Hunt, Toronto, who was in charge of the services at the Gospel Hall next day.

The sports' program of this Sunday school included a relay race as well as contests. It was their first visit to the park and speaking for the promoters, Mr. Todd said they were highly pleased with the facilities provided.

Vern Caverly of Oshawa, the proprietor, mentioned that other Sunday school picnics have been booked for the next few days to end just as the fishing season starts.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a Satturday walk with pop, and one of the bewty looking twins went passed a n d waved hello at me, and po said, Who's that, somebody new?

Pritty new, I said, and pop said, Let's say she's pritty and new. What's her name? he said.

I think it's Flora, I said, and pop said. You only think so? Dont you know her very well? he said.

Pritty well, I said. I took her to the movies Satturday. I meen I think I did, I said, and pop said, Yee gods, have you been walking in your sleep lately?

No sir, I said, and he said. Then why all the indecision about whom you know and where you've been?

Oh, I know I went to the movies all right, I said, and pop said, Can it be possible that you remember what picture you saw?

Sure, I remember exactly, I saw 4 cartoons and a Western called the Fantom Brand, I said, and pop said, Oh, you're just not quite sure whether you took this pritty gerl or not, is that it?

Well, I think I did, I said, and pop said, For Peet sake, when I was your age, or any other age, if I took a pritty gerl to the movies I'd know if her name was Flora or not.

Maybe that's because you never knew a gerl named Flora that had a twin sister named Dora, I said. I took one of them and Glasses Magee took the other one, and neither one of us can tell them apart, because they delibritly mix themselfs up just to fool us, I said.

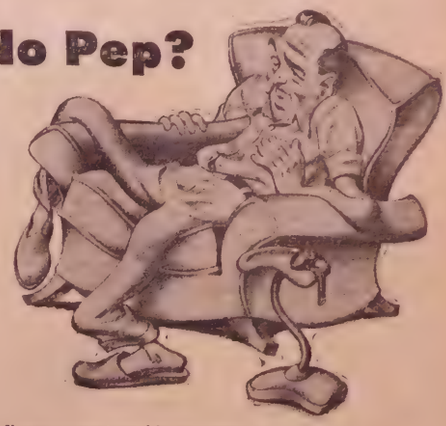
Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.



And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.10 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember — if not entirely satisfied — your money will be refunded promptly. *Trade Mark Reg.

"For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung and later "God Save The Queen".

STRAWBERRY GLAZE PIE

Why not show him he's tops by baking him the kind of pie he dreams of—a lush, lovely Strawberry Glaze Pie just dripping with berries—and with pastry so crumbly-rich, so out-of-this-world good—the kind of pastry you get only with Jewel. Here's how:

PASTRY

Yield: one 8" shell.

½ cup QUICK-MIX JEWEL SHORTENING
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 to 3 tablespoons cold water

Sift flour with salt into bowl. Cut in Jewel, until mixture is like coarse corn meal. There's a reason for using Jewel, rather than just any shortening. Jewel has the super shortening power it takes to give your pastry that extra tender flakiness you're so proud of. There's absolute proof of this. Jewel has been tested against all other shortenings in hundreds of different recipes, and every time the Jewel pastry was the most flaky and tender. Next, sprinkle cold water, a little at a time, over different parts of flour mixture. Toss lightly. Place dough in waxed paper; knead 3 times; press gently into ball. Let stand 15 minutes. Roll dough into circle ⅛ inch thick. Fit dough into pan. Flute edge with fingertips. Prick pastry with fork. Bake.

Baking Temp. 450°F.
Baking Time: 10 to 12 mins.

FILLING

1 quart fresh strawberries*
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1¼ cups water
Few drops red food colouring

Wash and cut larger berries in half. Place sugar and ½ cup of water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Dissolve cornstarch in remaining ¾ cup of water. Add gradually to syrup mixture. Cook over low heat stirring until thick and clear. Add salt, lemon juice and enough colour to make a bright red shade similar to the berries. Pour hot mixture over the berries, mix gently and cool. Place in baked Jewel shell. Garnish if desired with a border of sweetened whipped cream.

*Canned peaches or apricots may be used. Add orange food colouring instead of the red.

It's QUICK-MIX JEWEL for quick easy baking!

New Magic Telephone Brain Speeds Your Long Distance Calls

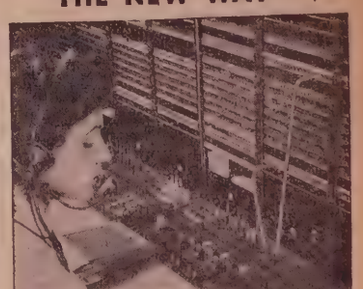
Machine that "thinks" helps operators complete cross-country calls in a matter of seconds

CANADA's newest automatic switching centre for Long Distance calls is now in operation, bringing you faster, clearer Long Distance service.

This huge electronic robot masterminds in split seconds the orderly routing of Long Distance calls to centres all over the continent. It enables your operator to connect you directly to any of fifty million telephones just about as quickly as you dial local calls. Located in Toronto, it serves many communities in Ontario and Quebec.

Already we're planning the next big step in improving your Long Distance service when you'll be able to dial your own Long Distance calls right from your home or office.

These latest developments are in line with our continuing policy of bringing you the best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.



LONG DISTANCE CALLING

THE OLD WAY

When you ask for an out-of-town number your operator, often with the assistance of other operators along the way, finds a free line to the place you're calling. There the distant operator rings the telephone.

THE NEW WAY

The operator just taps out the number you're calling. Electronically-controlled switches go into action instantly, search out the fastest, most direct route and ring the telephone in less time than it takes to read this explanation. It's almost like magic!

SAVE TIME...CALL BY NUMBER

With "operator distance dialing", it's more important than ever to keep a list of out-of-town numbers you're likely to call. If you can give the operator the number you want, she won't have to call Information in the distant city. Your call will go through in about half the time.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GOOD LUCK!

On Friday Tommy will embark on his annual Bay of Quinte swim from the Trenton bridge to the Bay of Quinte bridge here. His present record is six hours and twenty minutes for the thirteen-mile waterhaul and Tommy hopes to crack that mark come Friday.

On August 1st Tommy will take part in the 26-mile water marathon off Atlantic City. He has been training faithfully for the long grind and hopes to be among the first to touch the winning post. He will be handled by Eddie Roach, of Toronto, who has been training him.

And Thomas has his eyes on the treacherous Juan de Fuca Strait. But as Tommy says: "It may be out of our reach financially, but perhaps something along that line will turn up before September."

Tommy will find tide-streaked waters of De Fuca vastly different to the placid stream that is the Bay of Quinte and far harder to negotiate than the foaming Atlantic off Atlantic City.

Ole De Fuca has thumbed its nose at three swimmers in the past few weeks and its waters splash derisively at the human upstarts who think they can triumph over its treacherous tidal waters.

Four times veteran Bert Thomas, a former United States Marine frogman, has plunged into the cold waters of the strait. And four times it has hurled him back after swimming varying distances.

Thomas was in the water five hours during his latest attempt but had swam only six miles against the bucking tides.

Rev. John Donelon, a Roman Catholic priest, who carefully plotted his own course in his home in Toronto, was pulled out of the strait waters but two hours after he made the plunge. He was stiff with cold after swimming but two hours and was only two miles on the twenty-mile jaunt when he was taken from the water. He had swam four miles to cover a distance of two, if you know what we mean. He will not make a second attempt this year, at least.

Ole Fuca is no respecter of persons or swimmers. Saturday 36-year-old Bill Muir of Saanich, B.C., made the best time yet before saying uncle to Juan. He covered almost fifteen miles in three hours before a leg cramp stopped him.

Janice White, 18-year-old Toronto schoolgirl, has felt the icy grip of the strait. She has failed once but yesterday she took off at 5.45 Pacific time in her second attempt. This is being written before any report of her attempt was received.

So Tommy faces a rather difficult task in bucking the now famous strait. However, he may be the one to negotiate the treacherous stretch of water. Who knows? First of all, though, he has to get there. That is his primary problem.

Juan De Fuca is an ocean passage running between Seattle, Washington, and Vancouver. It connects the Pacific Ocean with the Strait of Georgia on the north and Puget Sound on the south. It is 100 miles in length and varies in width from 15 to 20 miles. It contains several islands which at one time were in dispute between the United States and Great Britain.

MEET ROCCA

His name is Antonino Rocca, better known as plain Argentine. You may not recognize the guy when he's upright because he happens to be in the air most of the time, propelled by the most educated feet in the wrestling business.

Rocca, the handsome Latin-American, has drawn gates upwards of $50,000 four times at Madison Square Garden by virtue of incredible flying tactics. He'll send a man out of the ring with those feet, or head-scissors him to insensibility or just spar around, tapping an opponent on the nose with his annoying bare feet. These are Rocca's patented methods which have taken three sections of the country by storm. From New York's Garden, he has swung out to the Middle West, with Chicago as a focal point, and then Los Angeles, loading up arenas with highly-enthralled spectators along the way.

The know him as the acrobat of the wrestling game. A fellow who once might have been a world famous ballet artist or even circus performer but for the fact that he could pick up $100,000 or more yearly in grappling.

Ask Primo Carnera about him. Or Lou Thez. Or any of the other big-time musclemen. They'll say in unison, "The guy's not normal. He's always flying, clear across the rings."

Rocca was born in Treviso, near Venice, Italy, but drifted to the Argentines when he was 16, and played a fine game of rugby football while cultivating the mat trade. His dad, Antonio, had been fencing champion of Europe for 12 years. The offspring, however, who grew a tremendous body of 226 pounds on a six-foot stature, needed more exciting ventures. There was rhythm in the frame. He often wrestled to music. Also wrote music. He dieted like a fanatic. And now at 29, he's an amazing product. He has written four hit ballads for Argentine music lovers. He has given his diet to New York Yankee players Vic Raschi and Yogi Berra for conditioning. He is studying jet propulsion after graduating with an electrical engineering degree and having 800 hours of solo flight.

BOOST PRIZE MONEY

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba open golf championship at the Niakwa Golf and Country Club, St. Boniface, Sept. 9-10 has boosted its prize money to -3,000 and expects to attract leading Canadian professionals to the event. Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, 1954 Canadian Open champion, already has told officials he will participate.

MEYER OUT

BROOKLYN (AP)—Russ Meyer, Brooklyn's hard luck pitcher, has been placed on the disabled list with a shoulder fracture, the Dodgers announced Tuesday. The 31-year-old righthander was injured in a collision with teammate Gil Hodges and outfielder Bill Bruton of Milwaukee during a game with the Braves last Sunday.

Sophomore Sullivan Sizzles Hurling Second Straight 0; 'Bums' Nip Giants; Tribe Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Sullivan looks like one gent who's making a bum out of the sophomore jinx, developing into the ace of the Boston Red Sox mound staff almost overnight.

He's one of only three American League pitchers to have won 10 games this year and has a string of 23 scoreless innings working while holding the No. 1 spot of the Bosox. Sullivan, 25, wound up his first full major league season with a 15-12 record. This year he's been beaten six times.

He kept the still hot Red Sox sizzling Tuesday night with his second straight shutout, a three-hit job on Washington for a 4-0 victory in the first game of a twinnighter.

Sullivan got the runs he needed Tuesday night on homers by Jack Jensen and Faye Throneberry, still subbing for the ailing Ted Williams.

FOR EIGHT RUNS

In the nightcap, the Sox were held scoreless by Bob Porterfield for eight innings, then broke out for eight runs—touched off by Norb Zauchin's two-run homer—to sweep the Senators 8-2.

The two victories moved Boston within a half game of the fourth-place Detroit Tigers who whacked the Chicago White Sox '- in 10 innings. Cleveland, meanwhile, moved to within two games of Chicago by defeating Kansas City 7-5.

The American League - leading New York Yankees were idle, as was Baltimore.

In the National, first-place Brooklyn pushed the New York Giants into fifth place 6-5 while the second-place Chicago Cubs beat the threatening Milwaukee Braves 7-3. Cincinnati replaced the Giants in fourth place by rapping St. Louis 9-1. And Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 7-5 in 10 innings after the Phils nalled the wrapup of a suspended April 24 game, 3-0.

SINGLE WINS IN 10TH

The White Sox, now 3½ behind the Yanks, battled back from a 4-0 deficit against the Tigers only to lose it as Frank House singled the winning run across with two out in the 10th.

Cleveland smacked the A's for six runs in the second inning, three of them coming on a homer by Larry Doby, as Mike Garcia won his fourth.

Brooklyn got back into the swing of things in cracker-box Ebbets Field, belting home runs No. 98, 99 and 100 for the season after hitting just one homer in the last five games on the road. Duke Snider whacked the 100th, good for the deciding run in the eighth and giving him the major league lead with 24.

Sal Maglie, who had won eight straight, was the loser while Karl Spooner won his second with relief help from Ed Roebuck.

HIT TWO HOMERS

The Cubs went on a homer binge as Ernie Banks and Jim King each hit a pair behind Sam Jones' seven-hit pitching. Banks, who now has 18 for the season, hit his first with two on in the opening frame off loser Warren Spahn. Sad Sam took it from there, fanning 12—including three pinch-hitters—as the Cubs went 1½ games up on the Braves.

Johnny Temple and Joe Nuxhall carried the Redlegs. Temple drove in five runs with four hits and Nuxhall extended his scoreless inning string to 24 before giving up the Card run in the seventh.

Trabert Meets Budge Patty In Semi-Finals

"I think Trabert will defeat Patty," said Mulloy. "But it probably will be a tough match and a hard one could tire Trabert for the final."

"I fancy Rosewall to win the title," Mulloy added. "He is sharp and as quick as a cat. He should not have much trouble defeating Nielsen. Patty may give Trabert a lot of trouble. Patty will press Trabert and may tire him before the final."

Tuesday, Doris Hart, Louise Brough, Beverly Baker Fleitz and Darlene Hard, all Americans, won straight-set victories in singles quarter-final matches to assure the United States of providing a 12th straight woman champion when the title is decided Saturday.

Top-seeded Miss Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., also won.

??? THE 5 MOST ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT... DOGS

Is it true that mongrels are generally smarter than purebreds?

All the evidence points the other way. The kennel dog has all the advantages of breeding and training and more often than not is 'smarter' than the mongrel. You'll notice that sheepdogs, hunting dogs and other highly trained canines are almost always purebreds. And seeing-eye dogs are always pedigreed.

Do dogs thrive better in the country than in the city?

Strangely enough they don't. The reason is easy enough to understand. In the city the dog is a pet. He gets better care, more intelligent feeding and is more likely to be taken to a 'vet' if he falls sick. There are few statistics on the subject but such figures as are available indicate that the town dog outlives the country dog by some two or three years on the average.

Should a dog have bones to gnaw?

Unless you can give your dog a big beef bone that he cannot crack or splinter into dangerous fragments, don't give him a bone at all. Many dogs are killed every year by people who give them bones from chops or poultry. Such bones break into sharp slivers that injure the dog internally and often those injuries lead to death.

Should a dog be given potatoes?

There are many old beliefs about starches being indigestible by dogs. But although these beliefs are untrue it is a fact that potatoes and bread are not a good diet for a dog. Dogs can digest starches but they cannot maintain good health and vigour without meat . . . raw or cooked. For convenience most people feed their dogs one of the better dog foods containing the essential meat.

The time to cure this habit is the first time he puts his feet up on you. As soon as he does it, tread very gently on one of his hind paws. After a few experiences of this he will associate the discomfort with the jumping-up and never develop the habit.

Giants, Durocher Lack Desire Says Dodger Jackie Robinson

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson, long regarded as one of baseball's fiercest competitors thinks he knows what ails the New York Giants. It's lack of desire.

The Brooklyn third baseman, still a top flight player despite his 36 years, emphasized he was basing his opinion strictly on what he observed in Tuesday night's 6-5 Dodger victory over the Giants which showed the fading defending champions into the second division.

"It seems to me the club as a whole from the players right down to the manager, is showing no desire," Robinson said. "All the hustle and fighting spirit that typified the Giants last year, is gone. The difference is so glaring, a blind man could see it.

"Leo Durocher also seems to have lost all desire. He doesn't act like the same manager.

"What amazed me tonight was the way he sat in a corner of the dugout hardly opening his mouth. That's not the Durocher I know. A year ago, at a time like this, he'd be pacing up and down the length of the dugout like a tiger, encouraging his men and urging them on to knock our brains out. At the same time, he'd be hurling insults at us, hoping to get us mad enough to commit some sort of mistake."

Robinson's opinions were no spur-of-the-moment outburst. He had been asked before Tuesday night's game to watch the Giants closely and make a frank appraisal of the team.

"In my opinion, the Giants are the best team in the league, next to us," Jackie said. "Yet, they're down in the second division. Something has got to be wrong. Take this game tonight. Last year's Giants would have won this one easy.

"Every time you made a mistake against them they'd beat you. Like tonight, when I threw the ball away in the ninth inning. The next guy would surely have gotten the hit to beat us. Tonight, the next guy bit into a double play. A year ago, in a spot like tonight's Dusty Rhodes would have delivered with the tying and leading run on the bases. Tonight he struck out."

Russian Oarsmen Withdraw From Henley Royal Regatta

Their spokesman issued the following statement:

"We, the Soviet oarsmen, having discussed the situation which is the result of the fact that the secretariat of the Henley Royal regatta has failed in getting our boats off the ship and have decided to withdraw from all events and not to participate in the Henley Royal regatta."

The Russians entered the regatta for the first time last year and stunned racing circles by winning three major trophies. They entered a strong contingent again this year in defence of their championships.

HIT BY STRIKE

But when they arrived here last week aboard the Soviet vessel Strelna at Gravesend they found Britain's docks paralyzed by a strike of stevedores, who refused to unload the crated racing shells.

The Red athletes have been practising on the Thames in boats loaned by English clubs but their spokesman claimed they were too small and cramped the husky Russian oarsmen.

Tuesday night, the University of Pennsylvania crew offered the Russian eight a set of sliding seats to fit into their borrowed boats to give them more room. The Reds accepted.

The Russian withdrawal came only a few minutes after the regatta, the world's most glamorous rowing spectacle, got under way.

He was beaten in the finals of the Diamond Sculls last year by a Yugoslav in a borrowed shell.

Last year the Russians won the Stewards Challenge Cup for fours; the Henley Grand Challenge Cup for eights—the most cherished trophy of them all—and the Silver Goblets Cup for pair oars.

The 17 Russian oarsmen, big and brawny, had entered in nearly all the regatta events.

SIGNS WITH 'PEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fred Shero, veteran defenceman last year with Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, has signed to play for the still-unnamed Winnipeg entry in the Western Hockey League in 1955-56, it was announced Tuesday night.

Leafs Win, Retain Margin Over Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs refuse to be toppled from first place in the International League.

The Leafs squeezed past the Richmond Virginians Tuesday night, 3-2, and retained their one-game margin over the second-place Montreal Royals, who downed Syracuse Chiefs 6-3.

In other games, Buffalo Bisons stopped Columbus Jets' winning streak at 10 games 6-2 and Rochester Red Wings dropped the third-place Havana Sugar Kings four games off the pace by bouncing them 6-3.

The Leafs got some hitting from catcher Lou Berberet and first baseman Mike Goliat to edge Richmond. Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the first on two singles an error and Berberet's sacrifice fly. The Virginians tied the count in the second on Ken Wood's double and Ed Kasko's single. Goliat put the Leafs back on top with his ninth homer of the season. Berberet knocked in the winning run in the sixth with a single after Archie Wilson had tripled. Eddie Blake went the route for the Leafs for his 10th victory in 16 decisions.

NINTH WIN FOR CRAIG

The Royals stayed on the heels of the Leafs as Roger Craig limited the Chiefs to eight hits in gaining his ninth victory against two losses. The Royals tagged three Syracuse pitchers for 10 hits, including Bobby Wilson's bases-empty home run in the first inning and Jim Williams' two-run drive in the third. The Chiefs scored single runs in the first, second and seventh frames. Southpaw Seth Morehead lasted four innings for the Chiefs to take the defeat.

Steve Demeter paced the 13-hit Buffalo attack with four straight hits and a perfect night. Rookie Jim Stump, who hadn't won a game in weeks, gave up 12 hits but managed to gain his third victory of the season. Wayne Belardi smacked his eighth homer and Mel Hoderlien hit two solid doubles to give him 10 hits in four games.

Duke Markell, who was beaten in the series opener with Havana, came back to pitch 4 1-3 scoreless innings of relief, to gain his seventh triumph against seven setbacks. The Buffalo defence backed up the veteran righthander with five double plays. Allie Clark raised his league-leading batting average to .393 with a perfect three for three. Jose Brancho, the first of three Cuban hurlers, suffered the loss.

Bobcats Defeat Madoc 11-1

The air-tight, three-hit pitching of Jack Holmes and 13 safe blows off the Belleville Bobcat bats combined to give the city squad a 11-1 triumph over Madoc under the lights in the northern village last night. The win vaulted the Bobcats into fourth place with a three and six record in the Belleville and District Softball League.

Jack Holmes, in winning his first game of the season, threw excellent ball for Bob Temple's crew, not allowing a Madoc hit until the seventh frame when the home team plated their lone run. He surrendered a single and double in the seventh and a single in the ninth while nipping seven on third strikes and issuing only one base on balls. He received near-perfect support from his mates.

Bob Schofield started on the mound for the losers and lasted until the third, giving up eight runs on six safe blows to take the defeat. Wayne Shaw toiled the remainder of the game, allowing another eight hits, fanning three and walking a pair.

The Bobcats had a field day in the first two innings, scoring eight runs. Duesbury opened the game with a walk, the next two men went down but Dave Lockyer slammed a double to score the lead runner and Creeggan also walked. Doug Bone followed with a single and Ross Empy cleared the sacks with a three-run homer to right field for a 5-0 score. They capitalized on two more hits in the second frame for another trio of tallies, a pair of Madoc errors aiding the cause. Stan Creeggan's double and a single by Carl Woods plus Lockyer's long fly sent the runners home.

A lead-off single by Wardhaugh in the sixth led to another Bobcat tally, advancing on Nickle's error, a fielder's choice and coming home on Creeggan's outfield holist. Singles by Wardhaugh, Woods and Creeggan accounted for another in the eighth and hits by Duesbury and Temple plated one in the ninth.

Doug Devolin got Madoc's first hit, a single, in the seventh, took second on an error and came home on Wayne Brown's double to centre field. Pinch-hitter Tom Burnside singled in the ninth but the next three went down in order.

Left-fielder Stan Creeggan spearheaded the victor's power-hitting with a double and two singles while Ross Empy blasted a home run and double. Harry Wardhaugh and Carl Woods each poked a brace of singles, Lockyer claiming a double while Duesbury, Bone and Temple had one-base blows. Holmes aided his own cause with two walks and a sacrifice.

Line-ups:

Madoc — Hagerman, Devolin, H. Brown, W. Brown, Nickle, Hatch, Shaw, Drummond, Burnside, B. Brown, Rogers, Schofield.

Umpires — Whalen and Townsend. Scorer — Bob Vaughan.

Laprade, Former Kingpin of Rangers Back in Hockey Amateur Ranks

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Edgar Laprade, a crafty centre and one of the most gentlemanly players in big-league hockey during an era in which he said the game put brawn before brains, is back in the amateurs.

The 35-year-old former star with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League said Tuesday night he has received his amateur card from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and will be eligible to play this winter with Lakehead teams.

That means the big time has seen the last of the Old Smoothie as a player. The move ends his 10-year-old career in the NHL—all of it with Rangers.

Although Laprade, a five-foot-eight, 157-pounder, figured hockey as played in the pro leagues was rough and "terrible," he made a success of it. One of the country's greatest amateurs, he was an outstanding professional and a kingpin in the Ranger organization.

A PLAY-MAKER

Only once did he score more than 20 goals in one season but he was a smooth play-maker. Rangers lured him out of retirement three years ago to bolster the team. In his other nine years in the NHL Laprade scored anywhere from one to 18 goals a season.

Laprade may go back to Port Arthur Bearcats, the club he left to join the Rangers in 1945. He said he will play for Bearcats if they ice a team. Otherwise, he will turn out with Fort William Beavers, also a senior team.

He has also been approached to coach a junior club comprising last year's West Ends and North Stars, both of Port Arthur. He said he is considering the offer.

There are also reports that Laprade may coach Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League. Coley Hall, Canuck owner, said Monday night that Laprade operates a hotel in Port Arthur. "He'll definitely coming here if he takes any hockey job next year," Hall said.

It was in 1949 that Laprade said modern-day NHL hockey was terrible.

SMALL MAN HIT

"The small fellow with some ability is smashed by the guy with muscle. The game puts brawn before brains. It's just a case of throwing the puck in and then scrambling for it."

During his NHL stint, Old Smoothie won the rookie award—the Calder Cup—in 1945 and the Lady Byng Trophy—which goes to the most gentlemanly player—in the 1949-50 campaign.

There is a word of advice for Laprade.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, once said pros should never revert back to amateur standing.

"It is my personal opinion that former professional players who starred in the big leagues should not return to hockey once their pro days are over, as they would be unable to show their former greatness, even in amateur ranks, and thus give fans a false impression of their true ability."

Backor Back As Coach

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Glen Smart, manager of the Sault Indians in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association announced Tuesday that Pete Backor will be retained as coach for the 1955-56 season.

Backor, a native of Fort William, played professionally as a defenceman in 1944-45 with Toronto in the National Hockey League and the following nine seasons with Pittsburgh Hornets in the American League. He joined the Indians as a playing coach last season.

Salary terms were not released.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Only a few years ago, Desi Arnaz was a featured player at MGM, acting small roles in films.

Today he is a full-fledged partner with MGM as the producer of a movie, "Forever, Darling," starring himself and his wife, Lucille Ball.

Desi and Lucy are shooting not in the MGM lot, but at motion picture center. That's where they film their TV show, which is called "I Love Lucy." They own the studio.

Lucille was playing hostess on the set, introducing fellow cast members James Mason and Louis Calhern. They play her guardian angel and father, respectively, in the film.

"It's much the same, except that I don't have a headache," she said. "On the day of the TV show, I always have a pain right here (pointing to her left temple). It's because of all those words I have to remember.

"There's much less pressure making a film. I have time to sit down and read the paper. I can never do that when we're on the TV kick. I can't read the trade papers or the daily papers or anything. I just don't feel that I can spare the time."

About future plans for "I Love Lucy," she was pretty vague. "I just work here," she said. "Ask the boss."

The boss is Desi, no doubt about it. And he had the answers, too.

"Lucy" will resume in September, he reported, but they will have to make only 26 next season, compared to the usual 39. Re-runs of old films will take up the slack.

What comes after next year? Will the series end, as has been reported?

"I don't know what we'll do," Desi said. "The sponsors want us to make more, but that may be enough. At any rate, we'll have to make another picture for MGM next summer."

He was asked about a recent interview with a CBS bigwig who declared that situation comedies are on the decline.

"That fellow never believed 'Lucy' would be a hit anyway," Desi said. "There will always be room for situation comedies that are good. When they are good, they sell. When they are mediocre, they stink."

Summer Schedules Bringing Back Many Old Faces To TV

By WAYNS OLIVER 8

NEW YORK (AP)—It's old home week in television.

Summer replacement schedules are bringing back people and programs missing from the air for weeks and, in some cases, months.

Tuesday night, for example, there was the old reliable combination of Bill Cullen and Place the Face on NBC. And Monday night it was Julius LaRosa, seen mostly on a guest basis since his firing by Arthur Godfrey late in 1953, starting as a regular on CBS' early evening musical show.

The perennial Arthur Murray Party came back on NBC last night to add to the air of nostalgia.

There are more to come. The half-hour dramatic show entitled Cameo, introduced in 1950 and acclaimed by critics for its innovations and excellence, returns to NBC Sunday night for an eight-week season.

One of the real pioneer programs of TV, Mike Stokey's Pantomime Quiz, adds another chapter to its hectic career with a return to CBS July 8 as summer replacement for Mama.

Familiar but not so welcome to many viewers are the reruns that are getting into full swing. Ralph Edwards' This Is Your Life goes on a rerun basis tonight and Groucho Marx tomorrow night, while the Bob Cummings show begins repeats Sunday night. On Tuesday night Summer Theatre begins rerunning the past season's Fireside Theatre films.

When a high priced star suddenly starts appearing on a series of TV shows, it could be and usually is that he has a movie or book to plug. Bob Hope, who asked and got $100,000 for touting the Motorama last fall, has been all over the dial lately in connection with his new motion picture.

FRANKFORD

Merchants Hand Orfuns First Loss of Season

FRANKFORD (Special) — The Frankford Merchants, capitalizing on eight walks in the first two innings, handed the Belleville Orfuns their initial setback of the season under the lights here last night by a 6-4 score. The Orfuns still top the league with an 8-1 record while the Merchants hopped into third place with three wins in eight decisions.

Bruno McCurdy went wild in the first frame to take the loss. He walked Dafoe to open the game and with one out pulled a two-base error on Cooke's ball with one run scoring, followed up by walking Rankin and Wickson, wild pitched Cooke home and gave Moran another free pass before fanning Wannamaker for the third out. The homesters led 2-0.

His failure to find the plate continued in the second frame as Radner led off with a walk and Dafoe cracked a single, the first hit of the game. Cosgrove was also passed to fill the sacks and Cooke singled for a 3-2 score. Rankin popped out but Wickson and Moran drew walks to force in two more runs and leave the home forces with a 3-2 margin. Bob Hunter took over for McCurdy and threw one-hit ball for the remainder of the game but the damage had been done.

Doug Radner sweated the route for Frankford to gain his third victory, stopping the Orfuns on six hits. He had a two-hitter going until the eighth when Belleville rallied hard in a last ditch stand, banging out four hits for two runs in the last two frames. Radner whiffed three, all in the sixth inning, while walking seven and hitting one batter.

Bill Spafford's nine rallied in the second to pull up on even ground for the only time in the game. John Batchelor met Radner's first pitch of the inning for a triple and scored on Young's fly to left. Jones walked and took third when Bromley was safe on an error, coming home with the tying run on Belnap's fielder's choice play.

Dave Jones' double and Barclay's single plated one in the eighth for the losers while back-to-back singles by Hull and Batchelor and an infield out registered their final marker. The Merchants got one insurance tally in the 4th on a hit batter, stolen base, fielder's choice and an infield out but Hunter no-hit them over the last four frames.

The winners gathered only three hits, one each for Ross Dafoe, Roy Cooke and Gib Gilmour. John Batchelor collected half of the loser's six hits including a triple and two singles. Jones, Hull and Barclay picked up one hit each, Jones' a double.

Percy Regains Title From Allen McFater

MONTREAL (CP)—Tony Percy, the young scrapper from Drummondville, Que., Tuesday night regained his Canadian welterweight title from Toronto's Alan McFater and is already lining up his next bout.

Percy, at 147—the welterweight limit—took a unanimous 12-round decision from the 25-year-old McFater who had taken the title from the Quebec fighter two months ago.

A crowd of 1,700 gathered in Montreal's Stade Exchange to see McFater, who gave away 1¾ pounds to Percy, open up in the middle rounds but wilt from the seventh on.

Percy pushed a wild onslaught in the first three rounds, but began to give way to McFater's relentless body attack in the fourth round and was getting groggy in the fifth.

COMEBACK IN SEVENTH

He started his comeback in the seventh, hurting McFater with hefty rights and lefts to the head. He had the Toronto fighter in trouble in the 10th when he started a nose bleed.

From then on, it was all McFater could do to keep in the match. His blows weren't connecting and Percy had it pretty much his own way.

In spite of the unanimous decision Jack Allen, McFater's manager, told reporters he will protest the match to the Canadian Boxing Association.

Carter, Smith Fight Tonight

The scheduled 15-rounder is the 11th title fight for Carter—the only man in history to hold the same crown three times.

Carter, who carries a wallop himself and can be very elusive, is a 4 to 1 favorite. The bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (ABS) with New England blacked out on the video. It's slated to start at 10 p.m. EDT.

Ringside observers, conceding Smith is a sound fighter, generally agree he'll be after an early knockout if possible. He's got a particularly sharp left hook. But Smith, getting a title shot at Carter after losing a 10-round decision to the lightweight king in his home-town of Cincinnati five years ago, knows how strong the durable Carter can be in the late rounds.

West's Richest Racing Classic, Canadian Derby, Run on Friday

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP) — Outstanding Canadian thoroughbreds from east and west are expected to start at Polo Park Friday for the 26th running of the west's richest racing classic—the $10,000 added Canadian Derby.

The derby, brainchild of R. James Speers of Winnipeg, general manager of the prairie circuit, is considered by many horse owners as the only true test in Canada's stake races.

As one owner summed it up: "No stake race should be run under one mile and a quarter. Anything less is not a fair test." The Queen's Plate in Toronto is raced over 1¼ miles).

The derby is open to three-year-olds foaled anywhere in Canada and is run at 1¼ miles. It is the richest event in the west and the third in Canada. It i sheaded only by the $40,000 added Canadian championship to be run off this year at Long Branch racetrack, Oct. 15, and the historic $20,000 added Queen's Plate, run annually at Toronto Woodbine.

Besides picking up the rich purse, the winner's owner also will receive the Commonwealth bowl, a large loving cup marked with the royal coat of arms, the Queen's cipher, the words of the Queen's dedication of service, and symbols representing the principal Commonwealth countries.

The bowl was one of 50 made two years ago in England to commemoraje Coronation year, and was the successor to a $1,500 trophy which had been salvaged from a trash can in a Winnipeg alley.

The trophy had been won, years ago, by Dr. W. J. Hinman, prominent figure in western racing in its infancy. When he died and his office was cleaned out, the trophy went cut in the garbage. Speers had it renovated and restored as the west's leading prize.

Talent-Loaded Field of 100 Golfers Start 1st Round of BC Open in Mud

By PETER MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The odds were on the mudders today as a select field of 100 golfers started off in the first round of the $15,000 B.C. Open over the rain-drenched Shaughnessy course.

From Sam Snead down, the talent-loaded field of 88 professionals and 12 amateurs is one of the finest to appear in a western Canada tournament.

Only the rain can stop them from setting scoring records over Shaughnessy's 6,596-yards of well-tailored, wide open fairways.

WAY UNDER PAR

He is bull-shouldered Mike Souchak, the ex-football star from Durham, N.C., who barged through a driving rainstorm with a record-equalling 62, 10 strokes under par.

Souchak, one of golf's newest stars and the leading money winner on the gold train circuit this season, was never over regulation figures as he fired 10 birdies and eight pars. He rimmed the cup on at least three other birdie bids.

He had a 65 Monday and if his booming drives keep on course for the rest of the week Souchak will be the man to beat for the $2,400 first prize. He was second to Dr. Cary Middlecoff in the western Open at Portland last weekend.

London Beats Brantford 8-3

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London Majors kept their hold on second place in the Intercounty League with an 8-3 victory over Brantford Red Sox here Tuesday night.

Bob Simpson, the Majors' reliable righthander, held Red Sox to nine scattered hits in going the distance. The Majors teed off on Brant righthander Don Robertson for 10 safeties. The Majors got their runs in pairs, scoring two in the first, two in the second, two in the seventh and a like number in the eighth.

London's playing-manager-owner Frank Colman, Gerry Wilson and pitcher Simpson paced the London attack with two hits apiece. Colman batted in three runs with his two singles.

The Red Sox were shaky in the field, committing seven bobbles, which kept Roberts in hot water most of the time. Robertson fanned five and walked one, while Simpson had four strikeout victims and issued three walks. About 1,500 saw the game.

AT THE BELLE — Grace Kelly and Stewart Granger enact the lovers of "Green Fire," an exciting romantic adventure, MGM's picture of the month, filmed in CinemaScope and color. An action-filled story of the discovery of a fabulous emerald mine, the new film also stars Paul Douglas and John Ericson. A Tom & Jerry CinemaScope cartoon is an added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL — Delightful delinquent is Debbie Reynolds in "Susan Slept Here," RKO Radio's Technicolor production. Dick Powell and Anne Francis also co-star. The comedy opens Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program and having its first city showing "Rage At Dawn", in Technicolor, starring Randolph Scott.

Ring Ratings Get Shuffle From Knockouts

NEW YORK (AP)—A flurry of knockouts in important fights during the past month brought in a new champion, three fresh top contenders, and resulted in a reshuffling of several divisions by Ring magazine today.

Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore's third round kayo of middleweight king Carl (Bobo) Olson earned the 38-year-old veteran "the fighter of the month" award and solidified his already strong position as the No. 1 heavyweight contender.

France's Ray Famechon became the No. 1 contender among the featherweights because of Percy Bassett's retirement and Italy's Mario d'Agata moved into the top contending position among the bantamweights.

In the heavyweight division, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson of New York, with six straight victories, moved into the fourth berth, dropping Cuba's Nino Valdes to fifth. Moore is first, followed by Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and England's Don Cockell.

AT THE CAPITOL — Randolph Scott retains his rating among screen's Top Ten Stars with rugged portrayal as undercover outlaw chaser in "Rage at Dawn". Nat Holt's RKO Technicolor production opening Thursday at the Capitol for its first city showing and co-starring J. Carrol Naish, Forrest Tucker and Mala Powers. On the same program "Susan Slept Here" starring Debbie Reynolds and Dick Powell.

"Campy" Due For X-Ray

BROOKLYN (AP) — Roy Campanella, who last season fell down as the big gun of the Brooklyn Dodgers because of a broken bone in his left hand, was scheduled for x-rays today to determine whether he has a fracture in his left knee.

The burly Dodger catcher said he was struck by a foul tip during a series at St. Louis 10 days ago, and that the knee has given him trouble since.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, June 30, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Adhere to your highest principles and you can prosper handsomely — with intelligent management. Do not waste time on non-essentials. Avoid misunderstandings.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This can be a productive day if you use extra effort and keen judgment. Neither very stimulating nor discouraging rays. If at pence with yourself, all the better.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Attend to personal duties, home requirements early and don't brush aside those who are sincerely interested in you. Make some time for recreation, activities shared with loved ones, family.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may find cause for irritation and restlessness in unexpected situations, places. Exercise greater patience and kindliness with all concerned. You will be rewarded.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This is the sort of a day which you can especially enjoy if, after having done your duties — and creditably — you consider the wishes of loved ones. Make time for your favorite recreation, and promote harmony.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — A good day in which to concentrate on your talents and on personal interests. Moderation in all things will insure smoother going — especially in business, contacts with others.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Be brief, to the point. Don't waste time repeating yourself or others may lose interest. Be your capable, intelligent self.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You will profit today if you act smartly and don't procrastinate. Be consistent, moderate in demands, and shun rashness. Stars favor calm, smart effort.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Mixed vibrations most of the day. Some caution urged in financial activities, so stay on the conservative side. Do not be drawn into irritating discussions. Attend quietly to your affairs.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Avoid rushing or making hasty decisions. Consider the matters on your agenda carefully and put forth your best efforts and you will achieve.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Some uncertain situations may arise unexpectedly. Don't become worried or confused. Think quietly and you can solve them — and win.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Try glamorizing your efforts, digressing from the routine. Influences favor the unusual now. Try — regardless of the immediate outlook or the gloomy predictions of others.

You born today are natives of the interesting Sign, Cancer. You have real love for home and family, but may travel much nevertheless. You enjoy the artistic and adhere to sound practices; are innately cheery, unselfish, sympathetic but are often too sensitive for your own good. You have great capability and talent; make splendid sales people, lawyers, teachers, actors and managers of hospitals or business organizations. You are at your best when busy, doing a job you like. Avoid arguments.

Consumers' Gas Being Sued By 64 Persons

TORONTO (CP) — The Consumers' Gas Co. of Toronto is being sued by 64 persons as a result of an explosion Feb. 21 which dtmolished a restaurant and injured eight persons.
Edson L. Haines, counsel for Antonio Pylypiw, owner of the restaurant and hardest hit of the victims, said the total damage will probably amount to $300,000.
The plaintiffs Tuesday filed four separate writs claiming the damages were caused from an accumulation of natural gas which escaped from the company's mains.
The writs claim out of 35 business establishments, and threw debris over a block-long area in suburban Long Branch.

Mayor Whitton Locks Horns With Senators

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Tom Reid (L—British Columbia) Tuesday challenged Mayor Charlotte Whitton to hold a plebiscite on the question of turning the city of Ottawa into a federal district.
"If she thinks the people of Ottawa are against a federal district" he said in an interview, "let her call a vote and I say the result would surprise her."
"The proposal merits serious study and it simply cannot be laughed off by vituperation on the mayor's part."
Miss Whitton snapped back by challenging Senator Lambert to leave the "safe sanctuary" of the Senate and his home in suburban Rockcliffe village and fight her on the issue in the next federal election battle in Ottawa West riding.
Tuesday, Senator Reid said the municipal "fighting" in Ottawa had become a joke as far away as his home province of B.C.
However, Mayor Whitton found a supporter in Senator Ralph Horner (PC—Saskatchewan) who said in an interview he regretted Senator Reid's attack.
"With all her faults, she is heading a good, efficient administration," he said.
As for Senator Lambert, he declined to comment on the election challenge.
"She is the chief magistrate but that doesn't mean she should run the whole city by herself," he said. "The mayor should listen to city council—its members were elected by the people."

Thomasburg Grade VIII pupils registered at Tweed High school on Friday morning for next year.

At present there are 14 fully developed flowers and at least nine more buds are visible. Two flowers have faded to date, but seems to be an unusual number of blooms for one plant.

The plant was given Mrs. Thompson on Mother's Day, 1954, by Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Thompson and John, Brighton, Ontario. It did not die down to a oulb as is usual for this species of plant but grew all year with the resulting number of flowers.

Social Credit Govt. Returned In Alta.; Liberals Gain

Special Summer Session Of Legislature to Be Called

The party which has governed Alberta for 20 years was returned for its sixth consecutive term in Wednesday's general election with a mandate which will carry it through the next four or five years with a firm majority.

But the Liberals who formed the official Opposition in the last House gained strength and increased their popular vote at the expense of the Social Credit forces.

The Social Credit popular vote decreased to 49 per cent from 56 per cent while the Liberal popular increased to 29 from 22 per cent.

It was Social Credit's fourth election victory under the leadership of Premier E. C. Manning, who combines religious work with politics. He took over after the death in 1945 of William Aberhart, who founded the Social Credit party in Alberta and led it in the 1935 sweep.

LEADERS BACK

Mr. Manning and Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse were re-elected. It was Mr. Prowse's third election since he took over the party leadership in 1947. Liberals have been out of power since 1921.

Eight cabinet ministers were returned, but Lands and Forests Minister Ivan Casey was defeated in Okotoks-High River by Ross Ellis, a Liberal - Progressive Conservative.

Social Crediters John Landeryou and Roy Lee recovered the seats they resigned in the last session after the legislature was told they are part-owners of an Edmonton office building being leased to the government.

Mr. Lee, first elected in Taber in 1940, and Mr. Landeryou, elected in 1944, were told on the eve of the election by Premier Manning that they did not have his backing or support from the Social Credit League.

Results in several single-member constituencies were close enough to merit second counts under the alternative-vote system, the second choices on the trailing candidate's ballots being distributed to the others.

BITTER CAMPAIGN

The proportional representation system of voting also delayed results from the multi-seat Edmonton and Calgary ridings.

Only Mr. Manning and Mr. Prowse were elected before night counting ended in Edmonton, where 30 candidates contested seven seats. CCF leader Elmer Roper and J. Percy Page, Progressive Conservative leader in the last House, also ran in Edmonton.

Standing in the House at dissolution: Social Credit 49, Liberal 4, Progressive Conservative 3, CCF 2, Independent Social Credit 1, vacant 2

The vote brought to an end what political observers regarded as the most bitter election campaign in the 50-year history of the oil-rich province.

Mr. Manning, who said in the campaign he would call a special summer session of the legislature to clean up business left over by last month's sudden dissolution, told his supporters that Social Credit won "despite the efforts to undermine the confidence of the people in the government."

Mr. Prowse, a former newspaper man who got his law degree the same week he raised a legal point which led to dissolution of the legislature, said: "The premier called this election to have people tell me I couldn't ask questions. Well, now it is clear I should ask questions . . . and I'm going to keep on asking questions."

Party Standing

When counting ended Wednesday night this was the party standing in the Alberta general election, with the result of the 1952 election:

	1955	1952
SC	30	52
Lib	5	4
PC	1	2
Lib-PC	1	—

Today's Chuckle

"It's an outrage," shouted the husband. "The gall of that garage man charging $15 to tow the car half a mile to the filling station."

"Don't take on so, dear," his wife soothed. "He earned every cent of it—I had the brakes on tight all the way!"

Young Cyclists Complete Trip Around Lake

PORT CREDIT (CP) — Two young cyclists conquered Lake Ontario Wednesday—or at least its circumference.

Canada, Russia Meet Today In Row Semi-Finals

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (CP)—Canada and Russia will meet Thursday in the semi-finals of the Grand Challenge Cup, the top prize of the Royal Henley Regatta.

The husky Soviet eight of the Krasnoe Znamia Rowing Club won their first heat today, beating the lighter crew of Jesus College, Cambridge, by half a length. The time for the one mile, 550-yard course was seven minutes, one second.

The Russians next take on the University of British Columbia eight which drew a bye in the first heat earlier this week.

In the other semi-final the University of Pennsylvania clashes with the Thames Rowing Club.

In the second heat the University of Pennsylvania eight had a comparatively easy 1 1-3-length victory over the London Rowing Club "A" crew, covering the course in 7 minutes, 11 seconds.

Put Union Jack Above Papal Flag, Ask Quebec Town's Mayor Resign

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LACHUTE, Que. (CP) — Dr. Frederick W. FitzGerald, mayor of Lachute, has been asked to resign for ordering a papal flag to be placed below the Union Jack on the flag pole at Memorial Park here, following a Roman Catholic congress.

A letter requesting the resignation of the English-speaking Protestant mayor was approved Wednesday at a meeting here.

The few residents who stood up to speak almost unanimously preceded their remarks with words to the effect that "we are all friends in Lachute."

Nevertheless, the group heartily applauded the letter accusing the mayor of an act "which could have deplorable results, maybe even tragic."

By ordering two city constables to replace the papal flag at the top of the flagpole by a Union Jack, the mayor had "brought shame to the city of Lachute," the letter said.

"Your rule, which is only beginning, is and will remain dishonored by the religious intolerance of which you have given proof to the Catholics of the city."

The controversy began after members of the Canadian Legion are reported to have requested that the Union Jack take precedence on the pole's top. The papal ensign—yellow emblems on a gold field—had flown throughout a five-day eucharistic congress that ended last weekend.

Mayor FitzGerald ordered two constables to do this Sunday but, he said, they "failed or neglected to carry out" these instructions.

"There were lots of papal flags in the park and I thought the Union Jack should be on top of the pole," the mayor said Monday.

A number of those at Wednesday night's meeting said privately there would have been no objection had the Red Ensign, recognized as Canada's official emblem, been run up over the papal banner.

CRUCIAL STAGE REACHED IN STEEL TALKS

Producers Start Banking Furnaces

By NORMAN WALKER

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The U. S. steel industry today began grinding toward a halt with labor negotiators striving to avert a complete strike shutdown at midnight tonight.

There still were substantial hopes that an 11th-hour settlement could keep steel mills humming in their near capacity production, but the whole situation depended on what happens in today's crucial bargaining sessions.

The U.S. Steel Corp. and other major producers already had started banking furnaces and stilling the fires that produce the ribbons of molten metal which are the lifeblood of industrial output.

John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel's principal negotiator, hinted at a new management wage offer exceeding the average 10-cent-an-hour wage increase proposal rejected by the United Steelworkers Union (CIO).

USW president David J. McDonald, in pointing out that the rejected 10-cent offer was only half of the recent auto industry settlement, seemed to be shooting to equal or better the 20-cent-an-hour settlement claimed by president Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers (CIO).

Stephens said U. S. Steel's offer would put steelworkers well ahead of auto workers in straight time earnings. However, Stephens Wednesday night said any steel settlement would require concessions from both the industry and the union, indicating that U. S. Steel was ready to make an improved offer.

The steel firms, like the auto producers, apparently were willing to make considerable concessions to avoid costly shutdowns.

There was some speculation that a steel settlement may include some form of guaranteed layoff pay, supplementing state unemployment compensation benefits, such as was negotiated recently in major auto contracts.

Howeverl the steel bargaining is confined to wages only, and any guaranteed wage plan could be negotiated only with the consent of the steel companies.

McDonald had hinted that his union may vary from its past practice of striking all basic steel producers at once and invoke a "selective" strike of only some of the half-dozen major firms. A union source said, however, that none of the six firms have been notified in advance which of them may be affected. Apparently all were banking furnaces and preparing for a strike.

No Blow Struck

WINDSOR (CP) —Magistrate A. W. McMillan said Wednesday he is satisfied an 18-year-old youth who had claimed he was beaten by police when arrested on a loitering charge was not struck by the arresting constables.

In sentencing Howard Berry to 10 days in county jail on the charge, the magistrate said the officers were "doing their duty in an orderly way. I am satisfied no blow was struck."

88th Birthday of Canada As Nation Is on Friday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traditional religious observances will be followed by outdoor celebrations and sports events all across the land. Speakers here and there will trace the progress of Canada since that historic day in 1867 when the provinces of Upper and Lower Canada (which became Ontario and Quebec) joined with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Manitoba came into Confederation as a new province in 1870, British Columbia entered in 1871, Prince Edward Island in 1873. Two more provinces—Alberta and Saskatchewan—this year are celebrating the 50th anniversary of their establishment as provinces and entry to Confederation in 1905.

Radio and television—things the fathers of Confederation never dreamed of in those earlier days —now help link the country in national observances of the historic union. The television network of the CBC on Friday night will give a scenic tour of the country, of the villages and big cities, of the fishermen, farmers and industrial workers.

Through this medium Canadians will see within half an hour places it would have taken many days to visit when Confederation was born —the Prairie wheatfields, the tall forests of New Brunswick, the great Rockies, the surf on Newfoundland's coast, dockworkers on the Toronto waterfront, weavers in a tiny Quebec community, the beautiful gardens of Victoria and the Confederation chamber at old Charlottetown.

A great naktion stretching from sea to sea was the dream of the early statesmen and 1867 was the first step. It was not until the 1931 Statute of Westminster that the strides culminated in Canada being defined as an autonomous community, equal in status, one of the group of the British Commonwealth united by a common allegiance to the Crown.

30 Watch Man Beat Blonde, Now Hunt Him as Abductor

WHITBY (CP)—A province-wide alarm was sent out early today for a man wanted for questioning in connection with the abduction and possible slaying of a young, blonde woman here Wednesday night. He is reported to have been driving an Ohio car.

Police were told the rear seat of the man's car was covered with blood after he knocked the woman unconscious in the parking lot of a hotel at closing time Wednesday night. Police said more than 30 persons witnessed the beating.

Baseball players from Paris, Ont., tried to intervene in the fracas and one was knocked down by the assailant, described as a tall, fair-haired man, police said. Witnesses said the man heaved the unconscious woman into his car and drove away.

Fifteen minutes later when the man drove into a service station, the operator, Donald Tinder, said blood was splattered all over the rear seat of the car but the driver was alone.

Tinder said he saw a crossbow in the car along with fishing tackle.

Police ordered all border points watched in case the driver attempts to cross into the United States. They also ordered any officer who stops the car to search the trunk.

Police said no one took the licence number of the late model, two-tone, light-colored Oldsmobile.

Police report they stopped the car on Highway 401 earlier in the evening because it had no tail light. The driver was allowed to proceed since the car was registered to an American tourist.

Senator Tries To Block Bill On Salaries

OTTAWA (CP) —An Opposition senator-farmer made a last-ditch attempt Wednesday to block passage of government legislation giving a $2,500-a-year boost to salaries of federally-appointed judges. But he lost out for want of a seconder to his motion.

Senator Ralph Horner (PC—Saskatchewan) opposed final reading of the bill in the Senate on the ground this is no time to be increasing salaries. The fact is, he said, Canada may have to cut wages to stay in the export market. Farm income was down and would drop more.

The 71-year-old farmer from Blaine Lake, Sask., moved to postpone final reading of the bill for six months—killing it this session. The measure already has been passed by the Commons.

Senator Horner's motion was ruled out of order because there was no seconder. Later, the legislation was given final approval but Senator Horner didn't witness that. He had left the chamber.

His remarks and his motion touched off a debate in which Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) and Senator Thomas Vien (L—Quebec) both members of the legal profession, defended judges and the necessity of providing them with a dignified salary.

Five Families Driven to Street By Night Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—Police and fire department inspectors are searching for two firecracker-wielding boys about 10 years old who are believed responsible for a pair of fires and three attempted-fires Wednesday night resulting in total damage of some $6,000.

The first fire started in a pile of lumber on a vacant lot and spread to an adjoining apartment house. Five families were driven to the street. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

A barking dog is credited with drawing attention to flames spreading from crates at the rear of an electrical company's warehouse to the building, which contained upwards of $50,000 worth of equipment. Firemen arrived in time to hold damage to about $1,000.

Firemen and police checked the vicinity and found evidence of attempts to fire a garage, an apartment building and an apartment-business block. Several burned out cases of large torch-like firecracker were found in the area and residents reported spotting two boys playing with firecrackers at about the time of the fires.

A check also is being made to determine where the boys may have bought the firecrackers, since it is against the law in Ottawa to sell them to children under 16.

CNR Switchman Killed by Train While Off Duty

FORT ERIE (CP) — Joseph Speck, 35, Canadian National Railways switchman, died in Douglas Hospital today after being run over by a train at the Gilmour road level crossing.

Sergeant Thomas Warry of the Fort Erie police said Speck lost both legs and his right arm when struck by a westbound Fort Erie-Sarnia freight.

Speck lost his left arm in a railway yards accident a year ago.

Mr. Speck was off duty at the time of the accident. His wife Margaret, night superintendent at the hospital, was on duty when her husband was admitted. The couple had two children.

Autopsy will be held today. An inquest is probable.

MINISTER TURNS DOWN PLEAS FOR CAR TAX REBATE

Harris Says Dealers Must Take Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris says auto dealers, like other merchants, must take any loss on goods in stock resulting from a federal budget reduction in excise tax.

That was his final reply in the Commons Wednesday to repeated demands that car dealers get a rebate of the April 5 budget's tax cut for new cars in stock on which they had paid the higher tax.

Mr. Harris said the auto excise tax reduction, to 10 per cent from 15, was an estimated $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 on cars in dealers' hands at budget time.

There is no doubt dealers suffered some loss, he said. But it did not follow that they lost the exact amount of the tax cut and he could not depart from the general rule against rebates.

BUDGET ISSUE

Mr. Harris gave his verdict on an issue that arose over the budget announcement that no requests for rebates on any tax reductions would be allowed.

Commons members from both sides of the House had subsequently added their appeals to those of car dealer associations for an adjustment. The demand arose again Wednesday as the House considered bills giving effect to the budget's tax changes.

Bills amending the income and excise tax laws were passed. Another measure dealing with various tariff changes was approved, all but the final reading.

The main budget tax change is a cut in personal income tax averaging 10 per cent, effective Friday, and a corporation tax reduction to 45 per cent from 47 retroactive to Jan 1. Corporations also pay a two-per-cent tax to the old age pension fund.

Besides the tax change on cars, the 10-per-cent excise tax on tires and tubes is eliminated and minor exemptions are made from the general sales tax.

OPPOSITION REQUEST

CCF Leader Coldwell and J. M. Macdonnell (PC — Toronto Greenwood) were among several members requesting that charitable organizations be exempted from the 10-per-cent sales tax on their purchases

Mr. Harris replied it would involve too much administrative work in handling their claims for tax refunds. Charities were helped effectively by the income tax provisions for deduction of donations from taxable incomes.

Mr. Fleming criticized the fact that the reduction in corporation income tax did not apply to companies earning less than $20,000, on which the rate remains 20 per cent.

Mr. Harris replied it would have cost the government about $6,000,000 to extend the same reduction to those small firms.

PROTESTS TARIFF

Mr. Coldwell protested one tariff proposal to enable the government to increase tariffs on imported goods subsidized in the exporting country. He said it threatens Canada's trading policy and gives the government too wide powers.

Mr. Harris replied it is designed to prevent undersselling of Canadian goods in Canada by subsidized imports. It was within the terms of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade which permitted action against dumping.

Peterborough Man Says Two Bandits Kidnapped Him

Police Stage Wide Search For Marmora Bank Robbers

Provincial police from two districts, headed by Inspector J. L. McDermott of the C.I.B. continued a widespread search today for two daring bandits who Wednesday morning entered the Dominion Bank at Marmora, 30 miles north of here, and made off with $5,400.

Police Wednesday night questioned Thomas Cullon, 25, of Peterborough who, Wednesday afternoon told police at Peterborough, that he had been kidnapped by the two bandits Tuesday night as he left a beverage room in that city and was forced to drive towards Marmora.

Cullon told police that he was forced to spend the night in a farm house and when the two men drove to the bank at Marmora he was tied and bundled in the car trunk.

He said the two men had approached him outside the beverage room with the request that he give their car a shove.

At Marmora the two men, wearing overalls and carrying a tool chest, drove up to the bank and, presenting themselves at the employees' side entrance, gained admission to the bank by representing themselves as furnace repairmen.

Inside they tied up Roy Moss, bank accountant, and lined up five other employees, including two women, as they arrived, forcing them to wait until the time lock on the vault opened.

A bank official at headquarters in Toronto later said the bandits had become panicky and left before the vault opened. With them they took $5,400 and two guns from the tellers' cages.

J.P. MOVED CAR

Ken Snider, Marmora justice of the peace, and fire department chief, almost unwittingly foiled the bandits' getaway when he moved their car from in front of the bank.

Preparing for a street dance Wednesday night, Snider moved the car to allow flushing of the street. He drove the car around the corner and parked it across the corner from the bank.

As the bandits left the bank they nonchalantly crossed the street to their car, passed the time of day with the village postmaster as they crossed the street, entered their car and drove away.

Within a half hour of the holdup all roads leading out of Marmora were blocked off by police with every available officer between Perth and Peterborough taking part in the manhunt.

Police are working on the theory that the getaway car used by the bandits was abandoned at a pre-arranged point where another car had been left in readiness.

Shortly after noon the bandits' getaway car was found abandoned in Peterborough, and later Thomas Cullon, General Electric employee in that city, came to police with the story that he had been kidnapped.

BROUGHT TO MARMORA

Last night Inspector McDermott of the CIB, with Inspector A. Stringer from Peterborough, and Sgt. C. E. Parmenter from Belleville provincial police headquarters, brought Cullon to Marmora, where an interview was had with Chief of Police Charles Lockwood. The party then returned to Peterborough, expecting to return to Marmora today for interviews with the bank staff.

Meanwhile Carl McKay, bank manager, and his six staff members, refused to comment regarding the holdup.

Last night at the street dance sponsored by the Marmora Agricultural Society, the bank holdup was the No. 1 conversation topic.

But one native refused to get excited about the whole thing. Seated on the post office steps he was asked what all the excitement was about.

Says Diplomats Should Not Throw Pianos at Voters

LONDON (AP) — When a grand piano hurtled from a London hotel window on the car of one of his constituents, that gentleman was more than annoyed, Laborite Charles Hobson told the House of Commons Wednesday night.

But the unlucky autoist really burned when he learned he could collect no damages. The piano had been pushed by a foreign diplomat — country unnamed—who has immunity from such penalties.

Hobson said far too many people in Britain have diplomatic immunity, and the government should be less generous in granting it.

Kidnapped Man Tells of Events Leading Up to Marmora Holdup

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A Peterborough factory worker today told how he was kidnapped Tuesday night and locked in the trunk of his car while bandits used it to carry out a daring daylight bank robbery at Marmora.

After prolonged questioning of Tom Cullon, 25, police issued warrants for the arrest of two men on charges of kidnapping and armed robbery.

Cullon's story, as told to a Peterborough Examiner reporter:

"It was about midnight Tuesday when I left the Silver Moon cafe to pick up my car in the McGinnis Hotel parking lot. When I got to the lot two men—I didn't know them—asked me if I'd give their car a push.

"I said 'okay' and the men jumped into my car. We drove west along King street to a point just west of Bethune. Then they both pulled guns on me. 'We want your car for the evening,' they said I didn't argue—not with two guns poked into my ribs.

"They drove out Highway 28 and stopped near the Kawartha Club, first stopping to put adhesive tape over my eyes. They told me to be quiet and I wouldn't be hurt.

"Sometime during the drive they bought me a hamburger and after another three-quarters of an hour's drive they arrived at a house somewhere. Inside the house they tied one leg to a sofa with a length of rope and we stayed there all night. Early in the morning they started out again. I still had the tape over my eyes.

"I didn't hear them say anything about robbing a bank. They said they just wanted my car. They still had the guns and warned me again to be quiet. Somewhere it must have been close to Marmora—they stopped the car. One man got out and drove along in a second car. I was still in the back seat of my own. After a short time they stopped again and they both got back into my car. They put me in the trunk and locked it.

Herb Stoliker Of CNR Frog Shop Retires

At the close of the working day on Friday, June 24th, the employees of the Frog Shop and the District Rail and Roadway Stores, gathered at the Frog Shop, to bid farewell to Herb Stoliker, who has reached the end of his railway career, after many years of faithful service.

Mr. G. C. Vince, foreman of the Frog Shop, gave a brief outline of Herb's railway career and wished him many years of happy retired life. On behalf of all of Herb's fellow employees, Mr. Vince then presented Herb and Mrs. Stoliker with two beautiful Lazy Boy chairs and a purse of money.

Mr. M. B. Button, storekeeper, District Rail and Roadway Stores, in speaking on behalf of the stores employees, recalled the many years of pleasant association with Herb and wished him and Mrs. Stoliker a long peaceful and happy retirement.

Herb first saw the light of day in May 1896 and started his active career in his home town of Belleville in 1909. After several jobs he decided that he would like to see the country before settling down. During the next few years he was employed by the Kingston Locomotive Works, at which time this company was engaged in building locomotives for Russia. Still having the urge to travel, Herb took off again and among other jobs, worked for a short time, for the Algoma Central Railroad at Sault Ste. Marie. In 1917 he returned to his home district and became employed by the Canadian Northern Railway at Trenton, Ont., which later became part of the Canadian National System. While in Trenton, he offered his services to his Majesty and served in Canada and overseas. Shortly after his return from overseas, he was transferred to Leaside, Ont., where he remained until the Frog Shop was opened in Belleville in 1941, when another transfer once more brought him back to his home town. Herb or "Stickeer" as he is familiarly known, has many friends in the Region, for working at Leaside, he travelled between Port Arthur and Quebec doing Thermo welding on locomotive frames.

Herb expressed the thanks and appreciation of Mrs. Stoliker and himself and invited all to visit him on his farm, which is situated a few hundred yards north of the Frog Shop at Belleville. Although he maintains that he is now going to take life easy, all those who know of Herb's driving ability, feel sure that he will just be making a change in employment and will be working the farm and enjoying life to the fullest.

Police Blotter

Six-year-old Nancy Woolman, of Regina Cres., Middleton Park, escaped injury yesterday when she ran out from behind a parked car near her home and was struck by a passing auto. Provincial police from Belleville investigated.

On the local scene police had little more than routine matters to contend with.

A local motorist reported his car stolen but police investigation proved it was merely a case of the man forgetting where his car had been parked.

Three family quarrels came to the attention of police, the principals being advised to settle their differences between themselves.

Story of Belleville Scouts

(By CHRIS F. LEGGAT)

Clarence Morris — Queen's Scout, Rover Scout, Assistant Scoutmaster.

A few years ago he was awarded the Gold Cord, Scouting's highest efficiency award. He got this for passing 18 tests. A.D.C. Don Allan informs us that in Clarence's case the tests were all made as difficult as possible because he was advancing so rapidly the authorities endeavored to slow him up.

Mrs. Lillian Ashley of the St. John Ambulance Cadets, reports that the doctor gave Clarence a first class certificate for First Aid with a high rating. This also was made difficult because the St. John people wanted to avoid any idea of favoritism.

In Scouting circles it is seldom that a Scout is picked out for individual praise, but in this case we feel justified in breaking the rule.

When Clarence was five years old he had an accident which deprived him of his sight and he has been totally blind ever since. He is now 21 and works at McFarlane's Woodenware Co. Ltd., previously he was employed by Deacon Bros.

We don't know of any other blind Scout with a Gold Cord and the examining doctor for St. John Ambulance says it is the first time a first class certificate has been awarded to a blind candidate.

Clarence is a very modest young man and claims that Scouting has helped him in many ways. His present ambition is to visit the Blind Troop of Boy Scouts who are coming to the Jamboree from France. We sincerely hope that in some manner this will be arranged for him.

The St. John Ambulance Cadets are proud of Clarence. His name will be remembered by them for a long time.

Belleville Scouts salute Queen's Scout Clarence Morris as an outstanding example of perseverance and fortitude. We hope you stay with us for many years and in all your endeavors we wish you "Good Scouting."

Second Meeting Of Board Called

It is expected that a publicity committee of the board of directors will be appointed during the meeting to direct a public relations program.

P. C. McGuire, chairman of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, is Belleville's representative on the association's board of directors.

Garry Wins Bet But Office Staff Enjoys 'Sinkers'

A baseball bet was worth its weight in doughnuts today for The Ontario Intelligencer sports reporter, Garry Alexander.

The oversize "sinkers" were the life of the newsroom this morning as reporter Alexander divided his dividend among reporters and editors.

The payoff, by James 'Snipe' Matthews, market clerk, was in the form of two 11-inch doughnuts, and a pot of coffee. A month ago Matthews bet Alexander "doughnuts and coffee" that the Cleveland Indians would be five games in front of the New York Yankees on July 1st.

Alexander, a shy and reticent Yankee fan, whose confidence in his heroes was only mildly disturbed last season as the Indians won the pennant, wagered that the Yanks would be in first place on Dominion Day.

This morning the Yankees were leading the second-place Chicago White Sox by five games and the third place Indians by six-and-a-half games.

Alexander carted his loot into the newsroom this morning on a baker's tray. The doughnuts, slightly smaller than wagon-wheels, bore the legend "New York Yankees" in white icing.

Silent witness to proceedings was city editor Claude Tice, whose innumerable wagers with reporter Alexander about the Yankees and Indians revolve around the pennant and World Series.

Patrolman Hurt For Second Time Within 2 Weeks

TRENTON (Special) — For the second time within two weeks motorcycle patrolman Bruce Westfall had unexpected injuries in the line of duty.

About ten days ago Bruce was standing by on the town bridge, while a veterinary surgeon administered a fatal shot to an injured horse. When the shot entered the animal's body it lunged forward striking the patrolman and spraining his shoulder.

Today, the unlucky Bruce is in Trenton Memorial Hospital with a strained back, sprained ankle and bruises after he was struck on patrol by an automobile.

The incident occurred about 4.30 p.m. yesterday while Bruce was travelling west on Dundas St. East. At the intersection of Dundas and Sidney streets a car, driven by Mrs. W. W. Weaver, 104 Henry St., swung out of Sidney.

According to Sgt. Gordon Steenburg, officer investigating the incident, Mrs. Weaver misjudged the motorcycle's distance from the intersection. She continued on out into Dundas and struck the right side of the police machine, throwing its rider.

Bruce was removed to hospital by ambulance. Damage to the automobile was reported at $76. The incident still is being investigated.

Wounding Charge Laid Against Picton Soldier

Bombardier Gerald Francis Wood, 36, of the Royal Canadian Artillery at Picton, was arrested and charged with wounding Wednesday night following the stabbing of Gordon Sanford, 35, of 20 Water St.

Sanford was treated in Belleville General Hospital for a flesh wound in the shoulder by Dr. R. S. Gibson. The wound, about one inch in length, was not considered serious.

Wood, a veteran of 17 years service in the Canadian army, told police he cornered Sanford in an outhouse at 6.00 p.m. and stabbed him with a kitchen paring knife, when Sanford tried to flee from him. The blade struck Sanford's shoulder blade and was deflected away from his lung.

Wood said he threw the knife in the Moira river before his arrest by Belleville police.

Wood was to have transferred to Gageltown, N.B., yesterday.

Wood appeared in magistrate's court this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills and was remanded until July 8th.

Belleville Man Bitten by Lion In Quebec City

QUEBEC (CP)—Clarence Young, 29, of Belleville, suffered severe bites Wednesday when he put his arm through the bars of a lion's cage at a circus here.

Young, an employee of the T. Green Circus of Toronto, had told other workers he was not afraid of the lion. The animal's trainer said Young sneaked into the tent and put his hand in the cage. The lion grabbed it and refused to let go.

Authors Pay Tribute To Walt Whitman

KINGSTON (CP) — Canadian authors assembling here paid tribute Wednesday to the American literary giant, Walt Whitman, saying his 19th century humanism is much needed today.

Members of the Canadian Authors Association gathered at nearby Bon-Echo, a scenic tract newly dedicated to the memory of Whitman, whose poetry classic "Leaves of Grass" appeared 100 years ago.

The writers were guests of Merrill Denison, who has given Bon-Echo on Mazinaw lake north of Napance to the people of Canada for cultural purposes. It will be administered in trust as a national and international conference centre.

Butter Will Not Be Cut in Price To Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Wednesday virtually acknowledged that surplus Canadian butter is being sold below cost to Communist Czechoslovakia, but Prime Minister St. Laurent intimated there will be no similar price cut for the average Canadian consumer.

The reason, he indicated in the Commons, is that the government, while channelling some surplus butter into hospitals and similar institutions at below cost, did not want to disturb the dairy industry's "ordinary market."

"And that is what we are going to continue to do," he added in reply to Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) who asked whether charitable institutions would be able to get butter as cheaply as the exporter who has sold to an Iron Curtain country.

Outside the Commons it was learned that the Czechs will be getting the butter at 37 cents a pound, 21 cents below the government's support price and that the government will lose an estimated $75,000 on the deal. The government's normal selling price is 62 cents a pound wholesale which includes storage and handling costs. It has been selling stocks of last year's butter at 56 cents a pound wholesale and offering butter to hospitals at about 40 cents. As of June 25, the government held 59,289,899 pounds of surplus butter including 41,977,000 carried over from last year.

Bees Swarm In School Yard

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Seymour Hamilton, the local bee keeper, received a phone call from a woman last week, saying she wanted some bees removed from the school grounds.

A swarm of honey bees had settled on a tree in the school yard and she wanted them taken away before the children were excused for recess.

Mr. Hamilton successfully removed the bees to his apiary where they made themselves at home immediately and went about their usual business.

Already many of the $100,000,000 span's footings are above water and form a dotted five-mile line across the straits from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace.

Tourists passing between Michigan's two peninsulas can see the bridge taking shape, with tugs and seagoing cranes huffing and puffing amid the rising piers.

Secret Hearing Into Fake Wedding Ends in Judge Dismissing Charge

HULL, Que. (CP)—Judge Jacques Boucher today dismissed a rape charge against 17-year-old Jean-Guy Lacroix, ruling that there was insufficient evidence to commit him for trial.

He gave the ruling following a secret preliminary hearing Wednesday at which public were barred from the court and newspaper men ordered not to report the evidence.

Lacroix was arrested and charged after legal authorities told the story of a 17-year-old Ottawa girl who, they said, was tricked into going through part of a marriage ceremony in a Roman Catholic church in a nearby community. The ceremony was performed before phony cameras, the participants believing they were taking part in a film for television.

Police said that following the ceremony the young man who acted as "groom" attempted to make the young girl fulfill her "vows."

Wellington on the Lake

THE DOMINION OF CANADA

O Canada, our native land,
The soil we hold so dear
How bountiful on every hand
Thy golden gifts appear!
Thy prairie lands and mountain peaks,
Thy lakes and rivers free,
With farms and homes and fruitful plains—
A chain from sea to sea.

O dear Northland, our love, our pride,
We hear the spirit call
Of those who for thy dear sake died,
Who gave their life, their all.
That every race beneath the sky
Be free from tyranny,
And 'neath the folds of freedom's flag
Might dwell in unity.

The thistle, shamrock and the rose,
The fleur-de-lis of France,
United on our life bestow
The spirit of romance.
As long as dear old Britain's flag
Waves over land and sea,
Canada will stand, a loyal land,
For truth and liberty.

—Helen B. Anderson

DOMINION DAY, 1955

WELLINGTON — With the yearly arrival of July 1st, Dominion Day, our thoughts naturally turn to our country's history — its early settlement by the U. E. Loyalist pioneers and of its gradual development as a nation of the world. Today as we look upon the natural beauty of field and wood and stream, and consider Canada's growth in both rural and urban districts, and of its status among the nations of the world with its democratic form of government, our hearts are filled with patriotic pride and we are thankful that the lines have fallen to us in such pleasant places and that we still are a part of the vast British Commonwealth. Truly we can join with the late Pauline Johnson when she wrote as follows:

"We first saw light in Canada,
the land beloved of God;
We are the pulse of Canada, its marrow and its blood;
And we, the men of Canada, can face the world and brag
That we were born in Canada,
beneath the British flag.

No title and no coronet is half so proudly worn
As that which we inherited as men Canadian born.
We count no man so noble as the one who makes the brag
That he was born in Canada beneath the British flag."

School is closed for summer holidays. We miss the boys and girls playing on the campus, but Wellington Park provides a playground for the juniors.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Rendell, of Deseronto, with Mrs. Loyst of Clarmont, Ontario, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater.

Richard McArthur, of Welland, is spending holidays here, with his aunt, Mrs. Edna Platt.

Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys were guests of Mrs. Wright and family, Plainfield, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warden Sanders and son, Toronto, were guests this week of Miss Grace Sanders and Mrs. Alice Good Murphy.

Miss Beverley Tait, teacher of North Lakeside School, Consecon, is home for the holidays.

Mrs. Cora Leavens is recovering from a recent severe illness. Mrs. Nellie Russell is the attending nurse.

Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson and Mrs. Farnsworth, Belleville, are expecting to spend several weeks' holidays in Wellington.

W.A. OF ST. ANDREW'S

The members of the W.A. of St. Andrew's Anglican Church were guests of Mrs. Edna Platt at her pleasant home on Maple Avenue, Tuesday evening. It was the June meeting and was conducted by the president, Miss Ruby Nash. The study book on India was completed by Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Gray had charge of the devotional. An interesting reading on land holdings in India was given by Mrs. W. A. Davern. Miss Nash closed the meeting with prayer, after which a pleasant social hour was enjoyed. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Godfrey Upton and Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth, served delicious refreshments.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

The June meeting of W.A. of United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the church school room with a fine attendance. The president, Mrs. B. Alyea, was in the chair and Mrs. H. Nash read the report of the last meeting. In the absence of Mrs. E. Maybee, the pianist, Mrs. C. Burr was accompanist. The devotional was given by Mrs. Cora Tice and a program in charge of Group 2 was presented, including reports of the W.A. rally at Madoc by Mrs. Harold Nash and Mrs. Clifford Cleave; two poems by Mrs. Clifford McFaul, and an interesting local reading by Mrs. J. Watt. At the close refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

HOLIDAY TIME

Summertime is here again,
Let us haste away
To the quiet countryside
For a holiday;
There we'll find sweet peace and calm
By a lake or stream,
Gaining strength from mother earth
As we rest and dream.

Vanish every frown and fret;
Leaving care behind,
All life's worry to forget
Gain a tranquil mind;
Brawn and spirit strengthened, too
Can we ask for more?
Turning to our daily task
When vacation's o'er.

Traffic Experts Predict Heaviest Travel on Record

TORONTO (CP)—Problem spots in Ontario as Canada celebrates her 88th birthday Friday will be Toronto and Windsor, traffic-experts predict.

With tropical weather from the Gulf of Mexico moving rapidly northwards to aid the celebrations, police expect the general exodus from Toronto to be the heaviest on record. Traffic, including extra traines, planes and buses, will be headed straight out of the humid city.

Windsor's problem will be more complicated and less predictable, police say. With Canada celebrating Dominion Day Friday, and the United States whooping it up for the Fourth of July, traffic round the border city will be heading "every which way", they say.

Canadians headed for a weekend in the U. S. and Americans bound for Canadian forests and lakes will meet on Windsor's highways. Police say it may be one of the toughest traffic knots they have ever been called on to untie.

Traffic officers fear the resulting confusion as holiday-makers spill out of Toronto and pour across the unguarded frontier may lead to a record toll of traffic deaths. The Ontario Safety League and Highways Minister Allen of Ontario have appealed to all travellers to try to prevent the toll from exceeding last year's 31 deaths over the same weekend.

Office Workers Need Not Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Office workers at de Havilland aircraft production plant here will not be compelled to follow suit if assembly workers walk out, an official of the United Automobile Workers (CIO - CCL) said Wednesday night.

Ralph McBride, UAW international representative, said the company's 1,200 office employees would not be affected by the threatened strike of 1,700 assembly line workers. The office workers are UAW members and recently signed a new coatract with de Havilland.

Boy Drowns Near Meaford

MEAFORD (CP)—Mervin Laycock, 11, drowned in the Big Head river near here Wednesday night, before the eyes of his uncle.

The boy fell in the fast running river and his uncle, Maurice Laycock of Waterdown, a non-swimmer, jumped in fully clothed in a vain attempt to rescue him.

Two other persons, Austin Boyle and Mrs. Joyce Munro, also dived in fully clothed, but were unable to reach the body.

Minor Baseball

Behind the three-hit pitching of Gordie Vaughan, the Vaughan's bantam baseball club downed the Knights of Columbus 14-6 at Pine Street school grounds last night.

Vaughan fanned ten while walking eight as his mates gathered nine safe blows off Larry Soden and Follwell, Soden taking the loss. Jim Sheridan had a bases-empty homer for the winners while Don Moore paced the losers with two hits.

600,000 Tons Canadian Wheat Sold to Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — Usually well-informed shipping circles here said today Russia has purchased 600,000 tons of Canadian wheat on deferred terms for satellite countries.

It was understood that 250,000 tons are intended for Poland and the balance for Hungary.

First shipments are expected to be made late in October this year.

It is known that inquiries have been circulating on London's Baltic freight market for grain-carrying ships trading between Canadian and East European ports.

The purchases are understood to have been made against bankers' guarantee of payment within 12 months.

The Canadian government is said to be financing the deal, while the Soviet Union will pay a qualifying deposit of 15 per cent before shipments are made.

KIDNAPPED

"I didn't argue. They had the guns.

"I guess I was in that trunk for two hours. It's hard to know how long exactly. I had no difficulty breathing but it was awfully hot and stuffy.

"It must have been outside the bank in Marmora that they stopped next. I thought of kicking the trunk door but I didn't know if one of the men was standing outside. When I thought of those guns I lay still.

"Somebody got into the car after a few minutes and backed it up a short distance."

Presumably this was fire chief Ken Snider, who moved the vehicle because they were cleaning the streets for a street dance in Marmora late Wednesday night. Snider had no idea it was a bandit car, parked for a getaway. He moved it without any trouble because the keys were left in the ignition. A few minutes later the men got into the car and pulled away at a high speed.

"We drove back to the other car parked on a sideroad, five miles from Marmora. They opened the trunk three or four inches—by that time I had torn the tape off my eyes—and threw me fifty bucks.

"'Thanks for the use of your car,' they said, and drove off in the other vehicle.

"They warned me to stay there half an hour. I waited a few minutes and then climbed out. I got back into Peterborough about 10:20 a. m. Later I went to the OPP."

Striking Dockers Consider Union Plea They Work

LONDON (Reuters) — Leaders of more than 18,000 striking dock workers met here today to decide whether to end their 39-day-long "union war" stoppage as demanded Wednesday by chiefs of the Trades Union Congress.

The TUC called on the dockers to lift the strike, which is in support of a claim for recognition in wage negotiations through the country.

As the dock strike leaders met, the cabinet was considering the effect on trade of the strike, now holding up work on nearly 300 vessels in six ports.

NO NEED TO CODDLE CODLINGS

"News of Norway," issued by the Norwegian Information Service in Washington, is all excited about prospects for a good cod fishing season off Greenland.

Cod being to Norway something like cattle to Texas and wheat to Saskatchewan, this interest is understandable.

The average Canadian, however, would find it somewhat difficult to share in the excitement were it not for one sentence.

"Cod was rarely found in Greenland waters around the turn of the century," "News of Norway" reports.

Now what made the cod change their habits?

This fish is something of a nomad, like many other members of the finny tribes, as a short discourse on the life wanderings of the Arctic cod will prove.

"News of Norway" says that the codlings are spawned on the Lofoten banks off North Norway, that they then journey to the Barents Sea, northeast of Norway, where they spend five or six years feeding. They are then lured to the Finnmark coast of Norway by large shoals of caplins, a smelt-like fish, and here large numbers of cod have been caught this season, off-setting poor hauls on the Lofoten banks, where the survivors of this year's trip to the Finnmark coast are due three years from now. The cod, after spawning on the Lofoten banks, return to the Barents Sea.

All this, of course, tells us nothing about the reason why, in the past half century, cod have taken up residence in Greenland waters. The cod stock there is now considered amongst the largest in the world. Oceanographers believe this development is linked with the steady increase in the temperature of the North Atlantic. They have established that the cod are now spawning in the Greenland fjords and on the banks of the Davies Strait, instead of spawning along the Iceland coast as in former years.

In other words, cod once frequented Iceland's waters because they considered them warm.

Brrr . . . the poor fish!

THERE WERE GIANTS IN THE WORLD IN THOSE DAYS

An item on the sports page loosed the floodgates of memory the other day.

Jean Borotra, a Frenchman, gave two Canadians, Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto, a tennis lesson in the famous Wimbledon doubles tournament.

To most tennis-playing Canadians, his name will mean nothing.

But to hundreds more whose tennis days are over his name will induce a nostalgic mood.

Was he, then, unique in his day? By no means, just one of a trio of great French stars, not quite the equal of the dynamic Henri Cochet nor the smooth machine that was Rene Lacoste. And though they ruled the tennis world in their day, with the aid of Brugnon as a doubles player, they did not outclass the opposition. In fact, it was not until the U.S. Bills, Big Bill Tilden and Little Bill Johnston, started to decline that the French captured the Davis Cup.

Is it just advancing age, or were there really giants in the sports world in those days?

Is even Ben Hogan the equal of Bobby Jones on the golf course? Where are today's Babe Ruths and Lou Gehrigs? Could Rocky Marciano hold his own with Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, or that Wild Bull from the Argentine pampas, Luis Firpo?

Perhaps, just perhaps, Rocket Richard could outscore Howie Morenz but you will never convince anybody over 45 of that.

THE SANDS OF TIME

Waste not, want not, is an old motto often held in contempt in this busy twentieth-century world.

It is encouraging to discover that this contempt has not spread to the city's works department.

Much of the sand that was deposited on the sidewalks on the hills of the city last winter is still right there.

Some of it, of course, has been swept up by the owners of abutting property, who seem to have taken seriously suggestions that the city should look neat and clean.

In many cases, though, walls separate lawns from sidewalks and where this is true the owners of the lawns have, in many cases, let the sidewalks remain unswept.

The city has not disturbed the situation. Besides being in keeping with the litter along boulevards, the sand makes an excellent beach for the youngsters during these hot summer months.

And, in another six months from now, when snow starts to fall again, that sand will be right where it is wanted, on time.

All that needs to be done now is to devise a method of lifting it to the top of the snow. If it is left lying on the sidewalk and a new layer of sand added, dunes will start to form in another few seasons.

But perhaps that is the idea. With a little patience, Belleville might be able to rival Prince Edward County's famous Sand Banks.

BRAINWASHED

I've been brainwashed down the years.
I've confessed what I've denied:
That an old dress old appears
Long before it's put aside.
I've been taught man's point of view
Leads to very bad advice:
That a bonnet isn't new
If she's worn it once or twice.

I have often changed my mind
When the pressure she applied.
I've said "yes" although inclined
To think whims should be denied.
I have gone when I would stay,
I have stayed when I'd have gone.
I have never had my way
Since the parson made us one.

Once opinions wise I held
And my faith in them was strong,
But I shortly felt compelled
To admit that I was wrong.
I've been brainwashed just to live
In contentment while I'm here.
Now the answer that I give
Is the safe one: "Yes, my dear."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It may be a small world. But cities are awfully big. I have a cousin who has lived twenty years in the same city as I live in, and we have never laid eyes on each other in all that time. We telephone each other frequently, and he has left books at my house and I have left fish or venison at his. But I am out when he calls, and he's out when I do. But it just so happens our interests in life are far apart and neither of us has any particular need or desire to spend time together. So we just keep up a kindly warm but entirely impersonal family relationship, unmarred by any compulsion to waste time on each other.

The miracle is that in this very small world, we have never actually met face to face anywhere. He works in a downtown office and goes out to lunch every noon, walks the main streets, looks in the store windows that I look in, wanders the same department stores. It is true he lives in the east end of the city, I in the west. But he goes to hockey games, downtown movies, the odd symphony concert. So do I. He belongs to a service club that meets in the city's biggest hotel, every week. I'm often in that hotel, but have never encountered him. An old aunt died and the evening I visited the parlors, he had just left not five minutes ahead of me. I was sure I would see him at last at the funeral. But he was unable to attend, having to go out of town. I saw his wife and daughter, though and they said I must, I simply must come and spend an evening some time. I made the thing mutual by insisting that they come over some evening and have a good old family talk with us. Some night soon.

And we parted with genuine warmth, the sort of warmth that is generated at funerals, where we are obliged to think of the long, long, long cold ahead.

But that was three years ago, and still I march the streets and attend gatherings and mix with the world and never see my cousin.

Tunic Is Not Flattering

(Halifax Chronicle Herald)

A women's fashion expert has predicted that in as little as two and a half centuries all forms of women's clothing, except for the irreducible minimum of a slight tunic, will be passe. By that time, she avers, women will have achieved "perfection of body," and will be reluctant to hide that perfection beneath a mass of garments. Coats, furs, dresses and shoes will be things of the past, and even jewelry will have lost its attraction on the ground that ornamentation will no longer be required.

Perish the thought! And that without the least suspicion of any lack of gallantry towards the sex who have the enviable gift of enhancing the charm of a picture by placing it in a suitable frame. The reason for the "expert's" suggestions may be partially contained in the fact that her dispatch is date-lined Hollywood — and what Hollywood thinks (if such a term be permissible) today is what the rest of the world has thought centuries ago, and generally discarded.

Women have been in existence now for quite some few centuries, and ever since the first cave-woman discovered that a fox-tail did something for her beaver-skin raiment, or that a passion-flower lent added interest to her raven tresses, they have been fully conscious of the improvement that art can make on nature. And the passage of the centuries has not noticeably led the fair sex towards the assumption of a simple tunic and a pair of rudimentary sandals as a permanent garb (except possibly on the beach, and even there brevity is becoming less and less de rigeur; in fact, brevity is regarded as less and less becoming).

We cannot foresee any rapturous reception for a future which will produce only a race of bare-footed, tunic-clad Amazons, even if they are physically perfect specimens. The vagaries of fashion are always strange, and sometimes incomprehensible, even to those who indulge them, but at least they provide some variety which would be denied by a relentless custom for bare feet and tunics. We cannot see the ladies submitting to such a monotonous tyranny, and even the husbands whose traditional grumble has been drawn from their equally traditional right of providing the sartorial wardrobe would be deprived of the very proper pride which consorts with a well-dressed woman.

To replace those comically elaborate hats with a fillet, those exclusively simple dresses with a smock, those trimly high-heeled shoes with rope sandals, to do away, ermine and fox, with diamonds and other precious stones, all less beautiful than the figure which unites them — that would surely be a backward step. And to the general loss it would make final nonsense of woman's most famous complaint — "I haven't got a rag to wear."

TODAY'S TALK

WINDOW SHOPPING

Why do great stores pay out large sums of money in displaying and decorating their windows? The reason is illustrated in the large number of people who pass before these windows but who hesitate and stop to do a little dreaming; especially is this true as to women, but we men do a sly look at these windows, too.

Often have I stopped and studied the displays in shop windows. I have wondered what each onlooker was thinking about? How interesting if the mind, right there, could translate its thoughts, so that anyone could read them. Many a dream is formulated as in silence each spectator dreams his own—and some of them are sure to come true!

I believe that a love of beauty was born in us all. People are interested in anything unusual and attractive. We often see ourselves with the garments displayed in the shop windows—that's their purpose. Creators of styles and ideas are always busy, hoping to keep out in front with their presentations—and they do. That's why people keep stopping before these attractive windows.

In a larger sense all the world's a shopping center with windows on all sides; you can't look in any direction without a display of nature before your very eyes. Window decorators time and again borrow from nature for their window designs; even the clothes we wear are akin to nature—nature furnished them!

People travel the earth so they can take a peek into the windows of foreign lands; we have learned something useful, and highly educational, when we see how other people think in the things they create. Isn't it interesting to note some form of beauty dominates the designs created all over the world?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FULL REQUIREMENT

"No justice in the world?" cries Thomas Carlyle in one of his essays. "There is nothing but justice."

Carlyle was an extremist. He was fond of scolding his contemporaries and boxing their ears on all occasions. It is not true that there is love. But Carlyle was right in emphasizing the inevitability of reward or of retribution.

We live in a world where we reap as we sow. Or, to change the figure, the scales of justice come into balance finally; and if we have erred we must pay the price. Christian faith tempers the hurt of all this with love, but it seldom changes the process. If we do wrong, we have to pay.

The time to remember this is not after we have done wrong but before we have done wrong. If we would stop, look, and listen in the evil hour of temptation, half the misery of the world would be cleared up speedily. Most people would not ric the desperate headstrong, and wicked things they do if for just an instant they would stop and consider consequences.

And what we should all remember is that there will be consequences as the result of evil acts. We live in a spiritual universe and such a sequence is inevitable. We cannot beat the rap or get away with any evil, and for the simple reason that the universe in which we dwell is essentially spiritual in nature, and therefore the full requirements of spiritual laws must be met.

Freedom of the Press

What precisely is meant by that familiar phrase, 'freedom of the press'?

Fundamentally it is not a special privilege reserved for newspaper publishers. It is rather a phase of a much larger freedom—the freedom of all men to speak their minds openly and without fear. The press claims no right which should not belong to every citizen in a democracy. But freedom of the press is an all-important part of this larger freedom because, under modern conditions, the press is the principal agency by which the ordinary man receives the information he needs to judge the actions of his rulers and make up his mind on public affairs. Without newspapers, or with only gagged and blindfolded ones, he is in the dark, and helpless. An unfettered press is therefore one of the essential bulwarks of a democratic nation.

Of any proof be needed, it is supplied by the record of the totalitarian dictatorships which have darkened the twentieth century. Rigid control of all sources of public information, and especially of newspapers, was the cornerstone on which all these regimes—Nazi, Fascist and Communist alike—were founded. Without it, they could hardly have lasted for more than a few months. With it, they could keep their peoples in blinkers and drive them on any course they chose. The calamities of our age, its fear and insecurity, stem in no small measure from the simple fact that, at critical periods, great sections of the earth's population have been prevented by their rulers from learning the real news of the world.

These examples should provide a warning against any attempt, by governments or by private interests, to restrict the essential freedom of the press. A free people must stand on guard not only against direct censorship, but also against more insidious encroachments. Nominal freedom is not enough. The only truly free press is one which can record the news faithfully and comment on it frankly, without fear of direct or indirect punishment. Neither the press nor the public is safe with anything less than this.

Full liberty, of course, involves obligations. That of a free newspaper is to be truly free. It must strive to be thorough, accurate and unbiassed in its reporting, sincere and thoughtful in its editorials, and resistant to all outside pressure. It must be both cautious and bold—cautious until it knows all the facts, bold when it is sure of its ground. It must, above all, be inspired by devotion to the public welfare as its staff understand it.

Such a newspaper is worthy of the privileges which the free peoples of the world have traditionally granted to their press. Such a newspaper is also the best guardian of the liberties of the people.

Missed Guess

(Charlottetown Guardian)

To say that the Fathers of Confederation "builded better than they knew" is perhaps to do them an injustice. Insofar as population is concerned their descendants have failed to build up to their specifications. Mr. John Diefenbaker recently informed the House of Commons that he had been reading "the Year Book for 1868 in which the Fathers of Confederation estimated that by 1940, under normal circumstances, the population of Canada would be in excess of 41,000,000." Canada's 1940 population was, in fact, 11,250,000.

Chamomile Tea For Varicose Ulcer

A reader says he has Ben Told Hungarian chamomile tea is good for varicose ulcer. He tried it, and it healed an ulcer on his ankle which his doctor had treated with various salves without success. Now the man's wife is drinking chamomile tea — Hungarian, probably—which she says the old-timers used for babies' upset stomach when grandma was a filly. It seems to do her good too!

A simple home treatment that gives much relief and speeds the healing of varicose ulcer is salted chamomile tea.

Steep a handful of dried chamomile flowers (called variously Hungarian, German, English, Roman) in a quart of water in which two level teaspoonfuls of salt is dissolved. Keep the raw surface constantly covered with gauze (washed cheesecloth) compresses or folds wet with the tea, for 48 hours or longer. At night cover the wet dressing with waxed paper or other water proof material, to keep clothing dry. This chamomile tea dressing is especially soothing when ulcer is painful.

There's no harm in the habit of indulging in a dish of tea — green, black, oolong, cambric or chamomile—when one of the neighbors drops in with a spicy bit of gossip, but I do not recommend it.

A wet dressing of green or black tea is excellent for burns, as an emergency dressing or as a regular daily treatment. A handy preparation for first aid application to burns is a salve containing 10% tannic acid (the astringent in tea) and 0.5% chorbutanol, a local anesthetic and antiseptic.

Negro Barber Makes History

(Sault, Mich., News)

Barbers, proverbially talkative, often talk to good purpose. One such was the late George A. Myers of Cleveland, a Negro whose thoughtful ideas and range of information appealed to a customer, an ironmaster named James Ford Rhodes. When Rhodes left business to write a history of the United States from 1850 to 1909, he often consulted Myers to verify a point or tell him the true history of Ohio political events. Acknowledgment of Rhodes' indebtedness is contained in more than one volume of his history.

Now their correspondence has been published in the Ohio Historical Quarterly. It tells much of the crosscurrents of political opinion in Ohio, and of the Negro opinion of Taft, Theodore Roosevelt and Wilson.

As a sidelight on history and as a commentary on the worth of a well-informed barber, such an article points up the often overlooked fact that history is not simply a collection of events that happened yesterday but it is a record of man, kept sometimes in a barber's head.

Frankford Bows To Madoc 6-3

Behind the five-hit hurling of Bob Schofield, E. G. Moore's Madoc crew racked up a 6-3 victory over the Frankford Merchants under the lights at Madoc last night. The Madoc victory brought about a three way tie for third place in the Belleville and District softball league standing between Bobcats, Frankford and Madoc, all with three and six records.

The winners grabbed a 2-0 lead in the initial stanza last night and went on to add two more in each of the fifth and seventh while Frankford fought back with singletons in the second, seventh and ninth. Herb Rankin, Merchant manager, was ejected from the game in the sixth frame by umpire Lum Carson for using profane language.

Bob Schofield went all the way on the hill to gain the triumph, letting Frankford down on five scattered hits, never more than one per inning. He claimed two on strikes but walked seven while his mates made three errors.

Doug Radner threw his second complete game in two nights for the Rankin aggregation, surrendering seven safe blows to Madoc. Doug claimed five on third strikes while issuing free passes to only two. He received fair support with two errors charged to his team.

Nickle's hit, a walk, long fly by W. Brown and an error brought home the first frame runs for the winners while three hits in the fifth plated another and Schofield's circuit blast to centre field plus a four-base error completed their scoring.

Frankford tallied one in the second on two walks and Ackerman's base knock, another registered on two walks, an error and Ackerman's second hit in the seventh while a base on balls to Radner and Dafoe's safe blow scored the final run in a potential last inning rally.

Schofield paced the winners with the wood, slashing a homer and single while Wayne Brown had a brace of doubles. Nickle, H. Brown and Hagerman added one hit each. Ackerman with a double and single led Frankford, Dafoe had a pair of singles while Cooke also hit safely.

Line ups —

Madoc: Hatch, Nickle, H. Brown, W. Brown, Drummond, Shaw, Devolin, Hagerman, Schofield.

Line score	R	H	E
Frankford	010 000 101—	3	5 2
Madoc	200 020 20x—	6	7 3

Minor Softball

Roger Ling toiled on the hill for Mott's, giving up 15 hits, fanning four and passing 10 while Williams caught Lupenette and Burns shared the pitching chore for the losers, between them allowing 14 hits, whiffing five and walking eight. Boyle was their receiver.

Williams spearheaded the victor's attack with a home run and two doubles. Davis followed with a triple and a brace of singles while Vance picked up a double and two singles. Sager punched out a trio of singles in defeat. Lupenette and Boyle claimed a double and single as Burns and Ross had a brace of singles each.

Art of Collective Bargaining Is Art of Timing Manoeuvring

By SAUL PETT

DETROIT (AP)—How do you get a major economic concession, such as guaranteed layoff pay, from industry?

"The art of collective bargaining," said Walter Reuther, "is truly the art of timing and manoeuvring.

"You have to know when to move. By manoeuvre, I don't mean compromise. I mean the ability always to leave yourself elbow room. At the point that you're rigidly locked, everyone is in trouble. In a sense, that's the problem of the cold war—too many rigid positions. . . ."

From global strategy, the red-haired leader of the auto workers union returned to the recent monumental poker game in the automobile industry.

NO ROOM TO CHANGE

"General Motors," he said, "had no manoeuvrability. They were so certain they wouldn't have to yield on the guaranteed annual wage thing in any form they hadn't done their homework. So, after Ford gave us the principle of GAW, General Motors had to grab the Ford package in a hurry. They had no time to make any changes.

"Now, go back to Ford. Ford offered us a stock purchase plan. We immediately saw it was the same as the one GM had offered, and we rejected it. Yet, Ford thought they had us in a box. But within 30 minutes, I had already figured how we'd get out of that position.

"Ford's strategy was this. Their 'partnership in prosperity' package was so attractive, they thought, it would divide the union membership from its leadership and everyone would forget about GAW. They took big ads in the papers to tell how wonderful their plan was. They intimated that if the union leaders told the members all the facts, the members would want it.

FORD MISTAKE

"Now, here is where young Henry Ford made his first mistake. He refused my invitation to address a union meeting and tell about his plan. His second mistake was to write me a letter suggesting that the Ford proposal be put to a secret vote.'

At this point, Reuther said, Ford was trying to get a vote between a positive and a negative—between its plan or a strike.

"They thought they had us in this box," the union leader continued "But here is where we had to manoeuvre. We had to change the situation so that it would be a choice between two plans—theirs and ours—and not a choice between theirs and a strike.

"So I said to John Bugas (chief Ford negotiator), 'We're both interested in greater security for Ford workers, aren't we?' He said, 'yes.' I said, 'you're convinced the Ford workers prefer your plan, right?' he said, 'yes.' I said, 'all right, let's put it to a vote, your plan or ours, in a secret vote conducted by the Honest Ballot Association or some other independent outfit'"

Reuther's smile broadened.

"Well," he said, "that paralyzed them for 30 hours. Not a word for 30 hours. Then they forgot about the vote. Then we got them back on the track and got our GAW principle."

Now Four Men Lost in Pacific, Hunt Continues

TOKYO (AP)—The search for four U. S. airmen down in the Pacific off southern Japan neared the end of its fourth day as dense fog began closing in again tonight.

Darkness once again turned the search into a blind game of dropping flares and hoping for another radio signal such as one reported heard early this morning from one of the men believed to be drifting in spray-drenched life rafts.

The missing airmen are: CApt. Hodgin Montague, Jackson, Miss., pilot of a Marine Sky Knight jet which ran out of gas while lost in fog Sunday; 2nd Lieut. David Bell, of Wayzata, Minn., his ordnance officer; Lieut. Alan McAneny Jr. of Yonkers, N. Y., whose Marine Fury jet vanished Tuesday night in the search; and a still unidentified airman of a Marine helicopter which crashed at sea in the search Wednesday. Three others were rescued.

The radio signals reported heard after several hours of silence are believed to have been sent from Bell's raft.

Deal Completed For Airport

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Wednesday agreed to trade 1,280 acres of nearby Malton airport land in return for a $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 federally sponsored expansion program at the Toronto Island airport.

The agreement, reached at a conference between Mayor Nathan Phillips and his board and Deputy Transport Minister J. R. Baldwin must still be ratified by the federal cabinet and city council.

Ratification of the agreement will clear the way for a start this summer on improvements to Malton airport as the first step in a long-range $22,000,000 program for expanding the airport and its facilities.

Bowling News

Six rinks from the local bowling club will take part in the Limestone tournament to be held in Kingston on the holiday. The rinks will be skipped by Percy Graham, Fred Harper, Austin Watkin, Gerald Hyde, A. E. Wonnacott and J. W. "Davey" Davidson. The personnel of the several rinks is not known but no doubt all the rinks will give a good account of themselves at this important tournament. Percy Graham is drawn against Dick Edney of Kingston in the first draw; Harper will meet W. Cable of Kingston, and Austin Watkin will hook up with Lloyd Smith of Kingston. In the second draw of the first round Wonnacott will meet Ralph Hinton of Kingston, Gerald Hyde will take on Archie Myers of Campbellford, while Davison will tackle Horace Ormshaw of Trenton, winner of the tourney last year. There are over $1,400 in prizes to be distributed and thirty-four rinks will be in attendance.

On Saturday last a number of mixed doubles rinks journey to Brighton and not one of them came home with any of the loot. It has been often reported that the greens were lightning fast but the greens on Saturday were away faster than that. All one had to do was drop the ball and blow on it and most of the time that much would put it in the ditch. Every bowler had a hard time getting the proper weight but it was good fun and a real enjoyable day was spent among the Brighton and district bowlers. William Duncan and his wife of Kingston were the top score with Lloyd Smith and his wife, also from Kingston, being second and another Kingston rink, Mr. and Mrs. Morley Galt, third, while Fred Thorne and Mrs. J. Wiley of Brighton were fourth. The two-game high winner was Art McConnell and Mrs. Fred Thorne of Brighton, while Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Gage of Kingston won the one-game high.

THEY CAN MARRY

CHESTERFIELD, England (Reuters)—A 17-year-old youth who ran away with the pretty 34-year-old biology teacher from his school has announced Wednesday that they have received parental consent to marry. Norman Bircumshaw and Celia Timmins hit the headlines two weeks go by their dash to Scotland, where they intended to marry under Scotland's more lenient youth marriage laws.

Father and Two Children Drown In Small Pond

HESPELER (CP)—A father and the two children he took for a swim on the first day of their summer holidays were drowned in an irrigation pond Wednesday night while their mother watched helplessly from the shore.

Arthur Weber, a 40-year-old contractor from nearby Bresiau, his 12-year-old daughter and a nine-year-old son died in the pond near this western Ontario town.

The father's body and those of Shirley and Richard Weber were pulled from the water by Hespeler firemen. A third child, six-year-old Linda, was rescued near the edge of the pond by her mother, who was powerless to aid the other three.

The tragedy happened on the farm of Jack Bechtel, three miles north of here. Mr. Weber, a friend of Mr. Bechtel, built the irrigation pond to water a potato field.

DIES IN RESCUE BID

Mr. Weber took his wife and four children to the pond for an evening swim. Shortly before dusk, he noticed that Shirley and Richard were nowhere in sight. He dived to their rescue but got into difficulties.

Mrs. Weber, Linda and another daughter, Barbara, were on the shore at the time.

Firemen, who were playing baseball near the pond, rushed to the scene. They applied artificial respiration without success.

SIDON CATCHES FIRE

PORTLAND, Eng. (Reuters)—The refloated submarine Sidon, which sank here two weeks ago with the loss of 13 lives, including one Canadian, caught fire Wednesday in a dockyard. A faulty electric cable running into the interior caused the blaze, later extinguished.

8,200,000 Cubic Yards Already Removed From St. Lawrence River Bottom to Make Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — Three-legged Giants are wading around the St. Lawrence river these days. They're taking big bites out of the riverbed.

The large fellows, which move around on a kind of submarine stilt, are one of several types of dredges being used to deepen and widen the river areas to allow ocean shipping to go up the St. Lawrence and into the Great Lakes.

They are doing some of the $14,000,000 dredging work that has been let out by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority as part of its $191,000,000 undertaking to clear a deep-water channel into the North American heartland, including the building of canals to accommodate ships of 27-foot draught.

HUGE TASK

In this early stage of the seaway's development, the surface of various "lakes"—widenings in the St. Lawrence's course as it flows to the Atlantic—is studded with giant dredges.

All are feeding on the river bottom, either dipping into it with huge scoops or drawing it up by suction.

Some 8,200,000 cubic yards has to be taken up. About 250 men are working on this now and eventually there will be about 400. They are working from 4 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The dredges are picking up better than 6,000 cubic yards a day from the bottom between Montreal and Cornwall island. This is dropped into scows that haul it to dumping spots in the river out of the way of shipping.

UNUSUAL SYSTEM

While most of the dredging is being done by conventional methods, the grasshopper-type system of the big ones is somewhat of a departure from normal operations in Canada.

From the front of one of these dredges, two steel shafts called bow spuds extend down to the river bed like front legs. Another spud is driven down at the stern end.

As the dipper brings up its six cubic yards of mud, silt and boulders, it drops the material into a scow that carries it away.

Material in its path cleared to the required depth, the dredger hoists up its bow spuds and uses the stern leg or its dipper to push itself ahead to take new chunks out of the river bottom.

Senate Approves Several Changes In Election Act

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate, which doesn't have anything to do with elections, Wednesday gave fast approval in principle to changes the elected Commons wants in Canada's federal elections machinery.

Senator William Golding (L—Ontario) explained that the bill raises the chief electoral officer, Nelson Castonguay, to the status of a deputy minister with a salary increase to $13,500 annually from $12,000 and boosts to $2,000 from $1,000 the permissible expenses of candidates in federal election campaigns.

European Actor's Shylock Brings Chorus of Praise

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD (CP) — European actor Frederick Valk and director Tyrone Guthrie shared honors Wednesday night at the Stratford Shakespearian festival in a splendid piece of theatrical delight. "The Merchant of Venice," is driven down at the stern end. Dr. Guthrie, artistic director of the festival since its founding three years ago, searched and found fresh meanings in the familiar lines.

Valk's Shylock was described as a "richly-endowed figure, full of vitality and scorn for amateur bankers who do not ask for interest."

MINOR THEME

A minor theme running through the play has Antonio, played by Montreal's Robert Goodier, bearing a strong love for Bassanio, portrayed by Don Harron of Toronto. Antonio is melancholy when Bassanio leaves him to woo and win Portie, played by Frances Hyland, formerly of Shaunavon, Sask.

Jay Carmody of the Washington Post said: "The production is a delight to me." He was one of many Canadian and United States critics who attended the three openings on successive nights.

"The Merchant of Venice," seemed likely to be the season's biggest box office hit.

RULE SELF-DEFENCE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Superior Court ruled Wednesday that Julian Hammer, 28, son of a New York millionaire manufacturer and art gallery owner, shot a longtime friend, Bruce Whitlock, 28, in self-defence during an argument over a gambling debt May 8. Judge David Coleman dismissed a murder charge.

Weddings

CURTIS—HEARNS

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, June 18, at two o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hearns, R.R. 3, Frankford, under an arbor of evergreen, orange blossoms and roses when Helen Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hearns, was united in marriage to Ernest Arthur Curtis, son of Mrs. Florence Weese, of Trenton. The Rev. J. Minielly of King Street United church, Trenton, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a strapless ballerina-length gown of white lace over satin with lace insertions, and her shoulder-length veil was attached to a white lily-of-the-valley headdress and her bouquet was red roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Jim Howard, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in ballerina-length pink lace over taffeta with matching nosegay of sweetpeas and roses.

Miss Barbara Hearns, sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid, wearing a short length dress of green taffeta with matching mitts and headdress and carried a nosegay of sweetpeas and roses.

Mr. Bob Hearns, brother of the bride, was the groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 45 guests at the Frankford community hall, catered to by the ladies of the Riverside Community club.

Mrs. Hearns, mother of the bride, received in a dress of printed mauve and white silk with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. F. Weese of Trenton, mother of the bridegroom, received in a street-length dress of navy nylon organdy with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

For their wedding trip to the United States, the bride chose a powder blue suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will reside in Trenton.

Montgomery—Charlesworth

On Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 p.m., June 25, a very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Frankford United church. The church was adorned by standards of pink peonies, white hydrangea and fern and the guests pews designated with pink rosebuds and white bows. The pastor, the Rev. E. E. Clarke, officiated at the ceremony when Helen Reta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, was united in marriage to Douglas Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Montgomery, all of Frankford.

The traditional wedding music was played by Miss Barbara Stickle, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. W. Morrow, who rendered "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony, and "O Promise Me", during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked radiant in a full-length cloud white gown, with skirt fashioned in alternate tiers of embroidered and plain tulle. The bodice featured a portrait neckline and tucked midriff. Mrs. C. B. Genik Wins Lazier Golf Cup

Miss Carrie B. Genik, one of the feminine golfing aces of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, is the 1955 winner of the Lazier Cup, emblematic of the ladies' handicap match championship. It is the second time in her four years' stay in Belleville that Miss Genik has annexed the trophy. She won it in 1953.

Miss Genik played beautiful golf to defeat Mrs. G. A. Bradford 4 to 3 in the final match. She displayed outstanding links' form in a smooth stroking performance that carried her through to a well-deserved victory.

Mrs. Bradford paid tribute to her conqueror. "I am glad Carrie won it," she said. "She played a marvellous game and thoroughly deserved her victory and the cup."

In the semi-finals Mrs. J. Grant defaulted to Miss Genik through an injury, while Mrs. Bradford defeated Mrs. G. B. Faulkner.

Miss Genik who up to today has been the nursing supervisor of the Belleville Health Department is leaving the city. Her resignation goes into effect today. She intends taking a lengthy trip through the west.

While she has won several cups in various clubs especially around the Niagara peninsula, Miss Genik has never entered the big tournaments. "I just play golf for the fun of it," she smiled today.

She will be the second top-flight lady golfer to leave the Bay of Quinte Club. Mrs. Stan Goodwin is leaving in the near future.

Ham For Summer Meals

What could be more stimulating to sluggish summer appetites than tender colorful ham with its delightfully different flavor? Hot or cold, alone or in a casserole or whether served at breakfast, dinner, supper, picnics or parties, ham is always in fashion and particularly so at this time of year. To help make summer meal planning easier the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest this versatile and flavorful meat.

Hams are pork legs which have been cured and smoked. Regular hams usually have the skin left on and may be sold whole or as butt and shank halves and the centre is sometimes sliced and sold with the bone in and without the bone. The boneless ones are generally rolled and enclosed in "visking" casing. Canned boneless hams are also available. Hams may be bought uncooked, tenderized and "ready-to-eat". It has been found that the ready-to-eat hams are more tender and have more flavor when given additional cooking of 10 to 15 minutes per pound in a slow oven.

Ham is one meat of which practically every scrap may be used, even the bone which makes a flavorful stock for bean or pea soup. There is a large portion of lean meat in hams — especially those which have been trimmed, boned and rolled.

The Consumer Section recommends a low temperature (325°F) for baking hams. When it is served hot the ham is very often glazed during the last few minutes of baking. Sometimes the fat surface of the ham is first scored and studded with cloves. The glaze is then smoothed on, oven temperature is raised 425 F. and the ham is returned to the oven for 15 minutes. A canned ham may be glazed in the same manner.

HAM FOR SALADS

The Consumer Section suggests that cooked ham may be used in many interesting combination for summer salads. Instead of serving the ham slices flat, they may be folded in half and the folded slices overlapped on the platter or plate. Or the ham slices may be rolled around a cream cheese or other garnish sticking out each end. A slice or stick of cheese or a few asparagus tips which have been marinated in French dressing might be used in the ham rolls. Ham cornucopias are easily made by rolling the slices into cones and fastening each with a toothpick. These are especially nice if filled with a salad mixture and garnished with a sprig of parsley or watercress. For snack trays smaller cornucopias may be made and well-chilled ham rolls may be cut into bite size pieces.

For a hearty main dish salad, cubes or Julienne strips of ham may be added to potato or macaroni salad. Or the ham might be included with greens in a tossed salad. For a more meaty salad you may wish to serve the following one which has been tested in the Consumer Section kitchens.

Ham Salad

2 cups diced, cooked ham
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup cooked peas
¼ cup chopped pickle
¼ cup salad dressing
Salt and pepper to taste

Toss all ingredients together. Serve on lettuce with radishes and green onions. Yield: six servings.

HAM FOR SANDWICHES

Whether to be served at a fancy tea party or as the main part of a meal at home or on a picnic, sandwiches with a ham filling are always welcome. The three most common combinations ham and egg, ham and relish and ham with mustard may be used any time just by suiting the thickness of the bread and the size of the sandwich to the occasion.

Three decker sandwiches such as ham with cheese or tomato plus lettuce make a healthy meal but if a hot lunch is preferred a French toast ham sandwich is hard to beat. To make this, ordinary sliced ham or ham salad sandwiches are made and then dipped into a mixture of egg and milk (½ cup milk to one egg) seasoned with salt and pepper. The coated sandwich is then grilled or fried in a little hot fat.

For picnics and teas it is important to have sandwiches that will hold together well so sliced ham sandwiches dressed up with cheese, mustard or relish are a good choice. Ground ham can be made into excellent sandwich fillings by the addition of salad dressing and one or more of the following: grated carrot and pickle relish; horseradish; apple butter; chopped nuts; grated cheese and a little mustard; finely chopped egg and onions; finely chopped celery, pickle relish and a little mustard.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE DOESN'T NEED TO BE LONELY

Dear Miss Fairfax

I am a widow, and very lonely. I work every day, but the evenings are very lonely indeed.

While I am now 49 years old, and not young any more, I would like to meet some nice man, if you know one about my age. I would be very happy to hear from him. — Mrs. H.W.

Dear Mrs. H.W.:

I am not in favor of making acquaintances by mail and would not be in a position to give you the address of any eligible men with whom you might make friends.

However, I believe that, if you were to make it a point to find some things to do for recreation in the evenings, after your day's work is done, you would soon be able to overcome your loneliness.

For example, I would suggest that you go to see someone in your local young women's Christian Association. They are always glad to help people in a like position with others in their own age group, and to show them how they can widen their social circle. The YWCA has all sorts of activities and clubs, and I am sure that, among them, you would be able to find something you would enjoy doing very much, and a lot of pleasant people to do it with. Also, both the YWs and the YMs today have parties attended by both men and women, and it is not at all impossible that you might make some nice men friends in this way.

Won't you try this as a starter? I feel sure that it would be a much better way to begin solving your problem than to try meeting perfect strangers in unconventional ways.

I also suggest that you ask the YWCA Secretary if there isn't something in town you could do that would be a help to others. In every town, there are groups that work for various community purposes, such as hospitals, day nurseries, Girl Scouts, and others, and, if you could find a place where you could be useful, you would certainly find yourself soon being happy as well.

INSIST ON BEING TREATED AS YOU WANT TO BE TREATED

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I go around with two fellows. My girl friend is very serious about one of them. I like the other, as a friend and nothing more.

When he tries to kiss me, I push him away and try to explain why I don't want to get serious, but he doesn't understand. He says I am mean and spoiled, because I don't want him to kiss me.

Dear R.W.:

You would be very silly to allow a boy to kiss you just because you don't want to break up with him. On the other hand, if he insists of annoying you when you have told him you do not care to indulge in any petting parties, what would you gain by keeping on with your friendship?

My advice to you is to make it quite plain that if he wishes to go around with you, he will have to treat you the way you want to be treated. If he doesn't then send him on his way.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PROBLEM OF UNEXPECTED GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This question of unexpected guests is always a problem, but never such a problem, I think, as when the unexpected guests arrive during a game of bridge or other card game. (a) Don't you think that the guests who "just drop in," seeing that the invited guests are playing cards, should "just drop out" and be on their way, leaving the card players to their game? (2) Also, don't you think that when the unexpected guests are so dumb as not to see what is going on and what they are expected to do, the hostess or host should speak up and explain the situation? My husband insists this should never be done, that it would always be dicourteous. I think it can be done both courteously and graciously. What do you think, Mrs. Beeckman? — A. L.

(a) I completely agree with you . . . that unexpected guests should be aware of the card playing situation, and should be mature enough to realize that card playing enthusiasts are a special breed and that their enthusiasm should not be tampered with, their playing procedure should not be interrupted. "Off with their heads," as the Queen in "Alice in Wonderland" would suggest, I'm sure, for these unexpected guests! (b) Again I completely agree with you. It is polite and fitting for the hostess (the hostess, rather than the host, I think) to explain graciously, "I do wish we could ask you to stay . . . but two weeks ago we invited these friends for an evening of bridge and we're in the midst of a very serious game. I'm sure you will understand, and do please let me telephone you tomorrow and we'll make a definite date for an evening visit together soon."

SHOULD ANNOUNCEMENTS BE ANSWERED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really true, as so many people say and as I have read so many times, that a formal wedding announcement does not require an answer of any kind I can understand that it might not require the sending of a present, but to me it seems rather heartless to simply ignore the announcement, and not to send at least a little note of best wishes. I'd like to know what you think about this. — Alicia T.

Your point of view is the polite and sensitive one about making some gesture of appreciation of this gesture of thoughtfulness. It is, as you say, customarily said that a wedding announcement requires no answer. I think it always should be given some kind of acknowledgment. Certainly if it is the announcement of the marriage of a close friend who had a very small wedding, we naturally would want to send a wedding present, or at least a warm hearted letter of best wishes. For other announcements, we should write appropriate notes, thanking first for the thoughtfulness or being included in the Happy News and then express your good wishes and congratulations.

GOLDEN WEDDING PARTY GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are invited to a Golden Wedding party, which is to be held in a hall. I am wondering whether I should send the anniversary gift to their apartment, or take it with us to the hall. They might wish to display their gifts. — C.

On this important occasion of the Golden Wedding, generally the present giving and the displaying are such a gala feature of the party that I advise you to take your present with you. You can present it to the guests of honor with a few charming words of felicitation.

CHOOSING BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance and I are going to be married in a few months, and he would like to know if it is all right for him to have as his best man a man who is somewhat older than he. He thinks a lot of this man, and would very much like to have him as his best man. But would it be proper? — G.

The fact that your fiance's friend is somewhat older than he makes no difference . . . it would be entirely proper for him to invite him to be his best man. (As a matter of fact, very often a bridegroom has his father as his best man.)

ACKNOWLEDGING AN INTRODUCTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was very interested in your comments the other day about the use of "How do you do." Is "How do you do" correctly used by both persons in an introduction . . . that is, by the person who is being introduced and also by the person to whom he or she is being introduced? — Tom R.

Yes, Sir. And what a vast comfort and reassurance it is to know that we always will be correct if we acknowledge an introduction by saying "How do you do." (And for that extra-added-attraction we graciously add the name: "How do you do, Miss Hall" . . . "How do you do, Mr. Parks.")

TRUMPET LINE

By VERA WINSTON

The trumpet sounds an important note in the fashion symphony. Some of the newest and prettiest of dresses use this line to good account, as does this elegant little dance and theatre dress. Fashioned of gray blue silk taffeta, the sheath with trumpet fullness at the hem is entirely tucked. The cuff at the bust terminates in a long-stemmed bow in back. This is of plain taffeta and makes an interesting detail in both line and fabric interest.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

EYE SHADOW LENDS ENCHANTMENT

Most women are experts in the use of rouge and lipstick, but only when they have become thoroughly adept in the application of eye shadow have they learned all their beauty lessons.

Some women are afraid to attempt this ritual. And well they might, since it calls for a deft touch. Furthermore, lid coloring is not always in character. It take a woman with flair, a well developed dress-sense, a certain air of distinction to get away with this intriguing cosmetic.

Touch the lashes with mascara, film the lids ever so lightly with the captivating and most becoming color of shadow and one assumes a mysterious, come-hither charm.

A delicate blue pigment on the lids of the blonde lovely will accent her golden tresses and give her blue eyes more depth of coloring.

The brunette, if her skin is fair, can also use blue to good effect. Green is the happy choice of the redhead, but it must be the faintest tint, carefully applied.

Mauve is ravishing on the lids of the white-haired woman. It accents the delicate, transparent complexion that usually accompanies silvery tresses.

But it is only in the evening that one should use eye-shadow. In daylight its artificiality is too obvious.

If you are experimenting with shadow effects, apply the coloring in the center of the upper lid, sweep toward the ends in a gradual fade-away. It should stop fairly short of the eyebrow.

Double-Ring Cake

By Mary Moore

Beverley's aunts — namely Peady, Doris and I—gave her a bridal tea and I made a "double-ring cake" that made the tea table look pretty and different and I think the potential bride-entertaining hostesses in this crowd would like to know how it was done.

It was very simple really. You need two Angel Food Cakes, my never-fail egg-white frosting, some silver dragees and an icing tube.

I had to cut corners to save time so I used angel food cake mixes—two of them.

DOUBLE RING CAKE

(For a bridal shower or tea)

When the two cakes are baked and cold, they are joined together on a foil-covered piece of stiff cardboard by slicing a side (about 1 1-2 inches wide at its widest part) from each cake and joining the flat sides together—to give the double-ring effect.

You will need two batches of the frosting (I've given you this recipe before but because it is so fool-proof and durable, I'll outline it again). It was given to me by one of our readers.

FOOLPROOF FLUFFY FROSTING

Into beater bowl put 1 egg white. Add 1 cup white sugar, and 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar. Beat a little to mix them, then add 1-2 cup boiling hot water (this may be other boiling hot liquids such as coffee, orange or pineapple or apple juice but use hot water for this particular cake). Now beat until very stiff—if by hand rotary beater 10 minutes, electric beater takes about 8 minutes.

As I said, make two batches. Add about 1-3 of the second patch to the first batch and leave it white. To the 2-3 of a batch remaining add enough red coloring to make it a delicate pink.

If desired, large paper doilies may be put under the cakes to make their base pretty and the whole thing placed on a twenty-inch silver platter or glass canape plate.

Work carefully when you generously frost the cakes doing the sides first, making sure the base of the cake doesn't show but don't be messy.

NOTE:

Before you frost around the holes, insert a tiny glass tumbler because you are going to put a little bouquet of fresh flowers in there.

Fill the icing tube with the pink frosting and pipe it around the top rim and if you like edge the holes with it too.

Now comes the tricky point—using a small, heart-shaped cookie cutter mark two slightly overlapping heart shapes at one side of the cake in the centre where they are joined and outline these in pink. At 1-2 inch intervals carefully place silver dragees all along the pink-edge trimmings.

When we did this it was lily-of-the-valley time, so we broke the stems off short, put a little water in the glasses in the holes and put about a dozen lily-of-the-valley in each tiny vase.

You could use sweetpeas or baby's breath or any little pale flowers from your garden, or 1 pale rose.

It was very bridal looking and the women and even the men exclaimed over it—so I decided to pass it on.

PENSIONS BILL COVERS ALL

THE HAGUE (AP)—The Dutch government has announced a sweeping program of old age pensions for all at the age of 65. A bill to become effective Jan. 1, 1957, was presented to Parliament by Jacobus Sourhof, minister of social affairs and public health. It would introduce compulsory old age insurance for all residing in the Netherlands, regardless of nationality.

Govt. Admits Shipping 300,000 Pounds of Unsalted Butter To Unnamed European Country

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of selling surplus Canadian butter to Iron Curtain countries boiled up in the Commons Wed. and the government disclosed that about 300,000 pounds of unsalted butter was sold to an unnamed European country.

The butter issue also developed into an exchange between Prime Minister St. Laurent and Opposition Leader Drew as the House discussed a Canadian Press report Tuesday that the government has granted an export permit for the shipment of butter to Communist-controlled Czechoslovakia.

At the outset, Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, tabled a return disclosing that about 300,000 pounds of unsalted butter was sold to an unnamed European country, apparently Czechoslovakia, by a private exporter.

The return said it was done on the understanding that an equivalent quantity of butter from the government's price support storage stocks will be sold to the exporter at the price he receives from his European customer.

LOSS NOT KNOWN

The return also reported that at June 25 the government held 59,269,899 pounds of surplus butter, of which 41,977,000 was carried over from 1954 production.

Mr. McCubbin said in reply to Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) that he does not know what the government's loss will be in the European export deal.

Mr. Drew suggested to Mr. St. Laurent that if it is desirable to sell butter outside Canada at a price below that paid by Canadians it would be better to sell the butter to friendly countries rather than those which are unfriendly.

Mr. St. Laurent said it would be more agreeable to ship to friendly countries. But, in a general way, the government had no personal animosity for persons behind the Iron Curtain, though it sometimes did not like the conduct of the Iron Curtain governments.

When Mr. Drew interjected that the Communist governments would be careful not to let their people know the butter had come from Canada and that it was subsidized, Mr. St. Laurent retorted that there was no plan to subsidize butter for Communist governments, but merely to stabilize the Canadian dairy industry.

FRIENDS INTERESTED

To Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe) who pursued the question of shipping to friendly countries, the prime minister said any arrangement to ship to a friendly country may be considered an unfriendly act by New Zealand, a big butter exporter.

The government's butter stocks have been rising to record heights under the influence of its floor price and high milk production. The government supports the market by offering to buy surplus butter at 58 cents a pound wholesale. Normally, after paying storage and other charges, the government charges 62 cents a pound to cover all costs.

However, because of its large stocks, it has been offering butter to hospitals and other institutions at about 40 cents a pound and selling stocks of last year's butter to the general Canadian market at 56 cents a pound, charging the loss to the federal treasury and the Canadian taxpayer.

WORLD PRICE LOW

However, the Czechoslovakian deal appears to be a new type of government financial venture which undoubtedly will mean further loss to the treasury.

The world price for butter is about 40 cents a pound.

Mr. McCubbin said the sale was experimental and that it had been touched on by Agriculture Minister Gardiner in the House last May 27. At that time Mr. Gardiner said the Canadian Federation of Agriculture proposed that small surpluses be exported.

PC Protests Leaving 22 Seats in Senate Vacant

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is neglecting its moral and legal responsibility in leaving vacant 22 seats in the Senate, a Progressive Conservative charged Wednesday night in the Commons.

"This is a means of sabotaging that chamber," Angus MacLean, Queens, said during renewed debate on his party's proposal for Senate reform.

Mr. MacLean said that when the provinces entered Confederation and were allocated membership in the Senate it was on the understanding that their representation would be maintained. The constitution's provision for filling vacancies implied that it be done in a reasonable time.

He spoke on his party's motion, presented Monday, calling on the government to initiate reform of the Senate so that it can more effectively carry out its original constitutional function. The 102-seat upper chamber now has 73 Liberals and seven Progressive Conservatives. The last appointment to the Senate was in 1953.

Referring to the CCF proposal for Senate abolition, Mr. MacLean said it is true the Senate now is ineffective and mainly a rubber stamp. But that was no argument for abolishing it. It was ineffective because of the method of appointment.

He said the Senate is useful because its members, appointed for life, are in a secure position. They could vote against bad legislation which had been passed by the Commons in response to transient public appeal.

Harry O. White (PC—Middlesex East) said the public's feeling for the Senate apparently is at an all-time low because in the last 10 years the upper house has not tried to protect the rights of provinces, minorities and individuals.

He suggested that at no time should the opposition in the Senate number less than 25 per cent of the total number of seats.

KILL FOUR, SEIZE DRUGS

CAIRO (Reuters)—An Egyptian camel corps force captured $5,000,000 worth of hashish and opium after a four-day gun battle with drug smugglers in the rugged hills of Kena, upper Egypt, a government spokesman has announced. Four drug runners were killed.

Tommy Manville To Pay Estranged Wife $260,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Playboy Tommy Manville agreed Wednesday to settle $260,000 on his estranged ninth wife, Anita Roddy-Eden Manville. The settlement is about par for the 60-year-old asbestos heir.

True, he settled as much as $300,000 on some of the wives he has shed. But Anita isn't being shed. She insists she'll stick around until she's "the widow Manville."

The agreement, yet to be signed, was reached in state Supreme Court. It provides the 32-year-old Anita with $140,000 cash plus $1,000 a month for 10 years.

??? THE 5 MOST ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT . . .

Does the body work the same, asleep or awake?

No. When you sleep, your heart works slower. Internal organs receive less blood, while the skin is gorged with blood. Skin perspires more, giving off twice as much vapour as the lungs. Your reflexes are affected. The knee-jerk reflex virtually disappears.

Is it wise to eat before you go to bed?

Hunger pangs are strong enough to wake you up, so have a snack if you feel like it. Trouble comes only when you eat indigestibles, or give the stomach too much to do by overeating. Remember that you use far fewer calories while you sleep.

Do healthy people "sleep like logs"?

Maybe they think they do, but actually, a healthy person moves and turns quite a bit. He may change his position from twenty to forty-five times a night. This movement helps you wake up feeling refreshed. Certain sick people, and overweights sleep without moving, and feel tired next day.

Some husbands don't tell. However, for every woman snorer there are three men. Men are more given to talking, crying out and grinding their teeth, too. Children hardly ever snore; it's something that comes with age.

Can the colour of your bedroom influence your sleep?

Not once the light's out. Reds and yellows are too cheerful and exciting to relax you enough to sleep. Best colour for a bedroom is pastel blue or green.

Mounted Police Plan Check To See All Motorboats Carry Proper Lifesaving Equipment

OTTAWA (CP)—In a move apparently aimed primarily at protecting motorboat owners from their own folly, the RCMP plans an immediate tightening of checks to see that the thousands of boats in Canada bear proper lifesaving equipment.

Laws concerning use of motorboats have been in existence for years, but generally speaking have not been enforced. The justice department, because of the number of accidental boating deaths, now has decided to crack down on motorboat owners who break the Federal Shipping Act.

The RCMP also aims to see that the boats are properly licensed, that they carry firefighting equipment and proper lights and that users pay attention to rules of the road.

DEATH TOLL HEAVY

In 1953, last year for which figures are available, 254 Canadians perished in motorboat accidents, most by drowning. Another 42 were injured.

"Few boat accidents would result in death if proper equipment were carried," an RCMP spokesman said in announcing the drive Wednesday.

There is no accurate estimate of the number of motorboats in Canada but the RCMP says that in the Georgian bay area of Ontario alone there are some 30,000 such craft.

Fine for not carrying lifesaving equipment is a minimum of $50 and a maximum of $100; for reckless operation of motorboats the maximum is $200.

All power boats of 10 horsepower or more are required by law to be licensed. Licences can be obtained free from the nearest customs collector and the number should be painted on both sides of the bow and on the stern.

ROWBOATS EXEMPT

RCMP headquarters said word has gone out to all detachments in Canada concerning enforcement of motorboat regulations. Because the Shipping Act is federal, it applies in all provinces, whether policed by RCMP or not.

The Mounties intend first to try to educate boat users with existing laws; then warn; then detain vessels and finally to prosecute if warnings go unheeded. The RCMP said, however, that it may start prosecutions immediately on flagrant breaches of regulations.

APPROVAL NEEDED

The RCMP said boat users should buy lifesaving equipment stamped as approved by the board of steamship inspection.

"There are many types of unapproved products on the market purporting to be life jackets, lifesaving waistcoats and lifesaving cushions," the RCMP said. But tests of some unapproved equipment had shown it more of a hazard than an aid in an emergency.

The RCMP said that lifejackets on the bodies of two boys drowned during a Lake Ontario squall in November last year were found to be of inferior low - grade kapok. Any lifesaving equipment blown up with air is not government-approved.

Catholics Dispute Statement Made By Presbyterians

The Catholic theologians said the Presbyterian pronouncement was a "distortion of Catholic devotion" and made assertions that are "not true."

At its annual convention, the Catholic Theological Society of America declared:

"It is not true that in the mind and heart of Catholics Mary takes the place of Christ. It is not true that Catholics think of Mary as a 'semi-divine' being.

"It is not true that the cult of our Lady of Fatima symbolizes any 'new and exalted status of Mary.'"

REPLY TO STATEMENT

The Catholic group said it felt "bound in conscience" to reply to the Presbyterian statement, approved by the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. last May in Los Angeles.

The Presbyterian statement said "the development of the Marian cult has widened the breach between the Roman Catholic Church and all other Christian communions," and added:

"In the figure of the Virgin, the church of Rome has created a semi-divine female being, who has become virtual head of the Church. . . The devotion to Mary now equals, and even exceeds, the devotion to Christ himself."

The society's reply said:

"All Catholic devotion to Mary, now as in the past, is based upon the fact that she is the Mother of the one Christ, who is both God and man, and that therefore she has the same right to be called Mother of God as any mother has to be called the mother of her son."

BLACK CATTLE SET RECORD

HAMILTON, Mo. (AP)—A herd of 504 Aberdeen - Angus cattle owned by J. C. Penney, founder of the department store chain bearing his name, brought a record $1,049,765 at a three-day auction sale concluded Wednesday. Sale manager J. B. McCorkle said the price was a record for the breed.

C-47 CREW LOST

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—An air force C-47 transport with a four-man crew crashed in Sitkinak island in the north Pacific Wednesday and a spokesman here said all aboard were believed lost. A search plane spotted wreckage and saw no sign of life.

Judgment Will Benefit Family Named in Trust

TORONTO (CP) — Judgment handed down Wednesday by the Ontario Court of Appeal will benefit the children and grandchildren of Harry C. Hatch, multi-millionaire racehorse owner who died in 1946 and left an estate of $9,000,000.

Authorities said the case, first in Canada to turn on the date of valuation of a trust, set a new pattern for taxation in large estates involving trusts.

Since the result means a difference of hundreds of thousands of dollars in most of the large estates, it is expected the decision will be appealed.

The practice has been for the succession duty department to value a trust at the time of a man's death. However, by the decision of the Court of Appeal, the trust now can be valued at a time before death when the trust is set up.

FAVORED FOUR CHILDREN

In this case, Mr. Hatch, five years before his death, set up an irrevocable trust in favor of his four children, Carr Hatch, Mildred Doyle, Clifford Hatch and Douglas Hatch.

The trust was valued at $1,107,000 by the succession duty department. The trustees of the estate argued that this figure should be reduced by $258,000, leaving a total value of $849,000 for the trust.

Those interested in the trust include William Douglas Hatch, Irene Frances Hatch, Harry Clifford Hatch and Carr Hatch, all of St. Catharines.

ROCKET TESTERS INJURED

Government to Leave Door Ajar for Railway Competitors

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government plans to leave the door ajar for competitors of railways to protest any agreed charge freight rates negotiated by the rail carriers.

The government decided Wednesday to amend along this line a Commons bill that would have barred competitors — notably the $200,000,000-a-year long-haul trucking industry—from lodging complaints against agreed charges they felt might injure them.

The Commons railway committee assented to Transport Minister Marler's proposed amendment late Wednesday night and the bill with the amendment now goes to the Commons for final approval.

In its original form, the measure called for the transport minister to screen all complaints before they went to the railway-regulating board of transport commissioners. Truckers were barred from entering official complaints.

PROPOSED CHANGE

Mr. Marler's proposed change would continue his power to refer complaints to the transport board but in addition would have the full cabinet refer to the board, on its own initiative, any agreed charge which it feels is not in the public interest.

The board would have the responsibility of determining whether an agreed charge—a contract rate between a railway and an individual shipper in return for a guaranteed part of a shipper's business—places any other form of transportation at an unfair disadvantage.

Mr. Marler said this clause is wide enough to allow the cabinet to take into account representations from truckers and ocean shipping firms that had protested before the committee they were not being allowed direct access to the rate-regulating transport board.

Canadian Trucking Associations, representing 7,000 long-haul truckers, gave qualified approval to the change in a statement today. It said in part that "there now will be recourse for the trucking industry if whole segments of highway transport operations are threatened with extinction by a railway agreed charge onslaught."

Duke Pilots Own 'Copter

EDINBURGH (Reuters) —The Duke of Edinburgh piloted his own helicopter here Wednesday to keep up with a 12-hour day of official engagements which started off a royal round of Scottish court duties.

He took over controls from his instructor after the helicopter left the grounds of Holyrood House for a schoolchildren's camp 10 miles away. The Queen drove to the camp where the royal couple saw children from industrial areas at their lessons in country surroundings.

Carry One Make

TORONTO (CP)—A number of General Motors automobile dealers in Toronto will relinquish sales and service of multiple car lines to concentrate on just one make, it was announced Wednesday.

E. J. Umphrey, vice-president and director of sales for General Motors Corporation, said the changes are to guarantee efficient and specialized service to the public and to speed delivery of cars.

Loretta Young Is Progressing After Surgery

OXNARD, Calif. (AP)—Actress Loretta Young underwent a two-hour operation for abdominal adhesions Wednesday but it won't interrupt her television show.

Her husband, television producer Tom Lewis, said Miss Young came through the surgery in good condition and is resting comfortably in hospital.

Her agent said guest stars will fill in for Miss Young until she is well enough to resume "the Loretta Young Show" on television.

Man Accused Of Kicking Puppy to Death

TORONTO (CP)—Simon Minz, 45, Wednesday was remanded to July 6 on a charge of cruelty after authorities accused him of kicking an eight-week-old puppy to death.

Inspector L. Anderson of the Toronto Humane Society said the dog was kicked off the front step of the Minz home June 13 and landed 10 to 20 feet away. Minz said the pup had been biting and scratching little children on the porch.

In another case, Vincent Graziano, 54, was fined $50 on a charge of causing unnecessary suffering to animals.

Inspector Anderson said the man chained an eight-months-old hound belonging to a friend, who was visiting Italy, to a tree, for nearly three weeks. He said the chain wore through the dog's flesh and laid bare the windpipe.

Construction of Two Radar Warning Lines "Rolling" But Problems Are Enormous

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Construction of the two radar warning lines in Canada's Arctic and sub-Arctic is "really rolling" officials say. But they're quick to add that the problems are enormous.

The airlift of equipment for the $250,000,000 DEW (Distant early warning) line and the $170,000,000 mid-Canada chain, each nearly 3,000 miles long, is the biggest in Canadian aviation history. A huge sealift is also involved.

Last winter, more than 20,000 tons of equipment was airlifted to the DEW line alone. This tonnage represents some 4,000 flights.

More than half the tonnage was lifted by Canadian commercial air carriers, the remainder by military aircraft. With better weather in the North, the number of flights is increasing rapidly.

TWO MORE YEARS

Even at this rate, it is unlikely that the lines will be completed before two years. The mid-Canada line, being paid for entirely by Canada, stretches along the 55th parallel. The DEW line, financed by the United States, runs roughly along the Arctic coast.

Where possible, sites for DEW line stations were selected to be accessible to sea transport.

Unfortunately, Canada as yet knows little about northern ice conditions—some officials estimate this country is at least 10 years behind the Russians in this field—and the planners could not rely on ship transport alone.

This was done by first establishing airstrips on the ice close to places selected for land strips. Tractors were flown in by ski-equipped Dakota planes. The landing fields on ice had to be made big enough to accommodate C-124 Globemasters of the U.S. Air Force.

The Globemasters airlifted 20-ton tractors and heavy earth-moving equipment to build the land strips. Some tractors had to be parachuted into the sites.

Cost of such an operation comes high Commercial air carriers received 80 cents a ton-mile both ways. A 1,000-mile flight to a DEW line site with five tons of cargo cost $8,000.

Construction of buildings has been another big problem, because of perma-frost, or permanently frozen ground.

Some of the larger DEW line stations will require 1,200 to 1,300 tons of diesel fuel a year, an indication of the mammoth job that will be confronted in supplying the stations once they are built.

Water is in short supply at most sites. During the winter, snow is melted and stored in large tanks.

Though purely military, the two lines may serve an important role in the economic development of the North. Access to the North is becoming relatively simple. This will open it up to mining, agricultural, timber, fur and fishing industries.

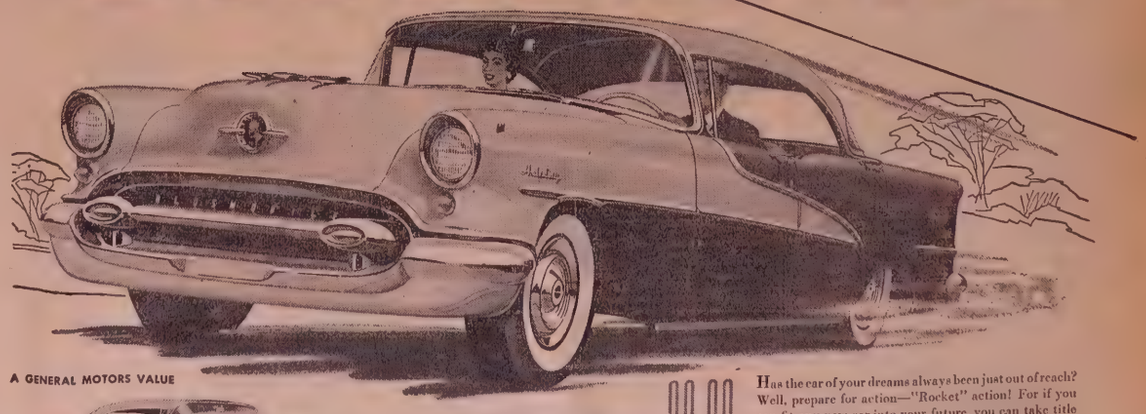
HAY AHOY!



Some farmers in the picturesque, low-lying Suffolk Broads district of England bring in the hay by water. So it was logical for a British boat builder to use lightweight aluminum to produce a 650-pound punt capable of carrying a load of hay more than six times its own weight.

In Canada aluminum is better known among farmers as a non-rusting, heat-reflecting, easily handled material for barns and roofs and silos . . . though of course it has many other farm uses, from milk cans to windmill blades. No hay-boats, though.

ADD STORAGE SPACE

Build closet under stairway, build or install storage wall; build storage units in utility room or garage, window seat storage units, toy storage units in children's rooms.

PAINT BY THE YARD

Coated fabric wall coverings, popular for durability in kitchens, are now available in 21 new solid colors as well as in wall-paper designs. The material is scrubbable.

A Scrap Block Saves the Edge Of Floor Strips

Waste scrap material is used when tapping each strip of hardwood flooring into place. The tongue and groove of scrap and work are fitted together. This prevents marring the wood with the hammer. The same procedure is used for fitting pine paneling or other tongue and groove stock.

WINDOW WISDOM

ATTIC OFFERS ECONOMICAL EXPANSION SPACE

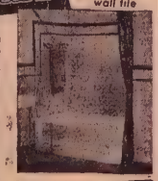
FILL FOUNDATION CRACKS

Cracks in foundation walls can be filled with ready-mixed cement. Cracks should be cut to V-shape with a cold chisel, cleaned thoroughly with a brush, well wetted down before filling.

AID TO COOL COMFORT

To keep a home cooler in summer, get rid of the heat and moisture created by cooking and laundering. An exhaust fan above the kitchen range will take the heat from meal preparation and blow it out-of-doors.



CONCRETE SEPTIC TANKS
STEEL REINFORCED

These tanks are made from a special mixture of cement very similar to the formula that is used in the manufacture of our concrete burial vaults and are fully reinforced with a steel wire mesh. The baffles are cast into the tank and no special or any fittings are needed to connect the tank to the sewer lines. Being a horizontal type of construction the above tank has a much higher rate of digestion than tanks poured into the ground.

All tanks are guaranteed waterproof as this is done in the batching of the cement, it is therefore not necessary to plaster or asphalt as in the case with poured tanks.

Hardwood Can Floor You

Laying a hardwood floor is one of the few phases of home modernization that has not been stressed reason is that expertly laid hardwood floors have been compared with fine furniture in workmanship. Both call for the hand of a master.

But that doesn't mean that the householder who pays the bill should not know what he is paying for by knowing how a quality floor is laid. And when a man is experienced in woodworking, the laying of a hardwood floor is a challenge he will accept.

"A fellow who is adept at working with wood can lay a hardwood strip floor with entirely satisfactory results, provided he studies the approved procedures in advance and follows them carefully. Since the job does require skill, however, it is not recommended for the novice. Nor is even an advanced amateur advised to undertake a large scale installation, such as laying hardwood floors throughout an entire house."

Week-end decorator paints siding of fir plywood. After primecoat, the surface should be given its second and third coats according to directions on paint can.

NEW TREND IN FLOORS

Now that there's a lot of talk about styles changing and that women are talking about polished floors instead of complete carpeting, you might want to know how strip flooring is laid, whether you swing the hammer or pay a man to do it.

Most strip flooring nowadays is tongued and grooved at sides and ends so that the pieces join snugly to form a strong, solid unit. This material, whether it is oak, hard maple, birch, beech or pecan, comes in random lengths and in widths from 1½ to 3¼ inches. The 2¼-inch size is used most extensively. Uniform widths are customarily used, although unusually distinctive results can be achieved by using mixed widths.

The material is available in several thicknesses. Your lumber dealer probably will recommend the 25/32-inch thickness, since that is the size used mostly in new construction. Thinner sizes can be used over old finish floors.

WHAT GRADES MEAN

There is a choice of several grades, both in unfinished stock and in the prefinished variety. Prefinished flooring is completely treated at the mill, even to the waxing and polishing. It is ready for service as soon as it is laid. Unfinished flooring, of course, calls for sanding and finishing after installation.

In unfinished oak, for example, you may select from among three grades of quarter-sawed stock and four grades of plain-sawed. Then there are three grades of prefinished oak. The lower grades cost less and are more than adequate in durability and all-around service, but the higher grades are more uniform in grain pattern and other natural appearances.

Sound subflooring beneath strip hardwood flooring is a must for a top quality job. Conventional joist construction found in attics and throughout most houses calls for a subfloor of a good grade of lumber. The boards should be about an inch thick and not more than 6 inches wide. Wider boards are subject to excessive expansion and contraction. Square-edged rather than tongue and grooved boards are preferred, since snug joining avoided in subflooring.

NAILING A SUBFLOOR

The boards should be spaced about ¼-inch apart and face-nailed solidly at every bearing point with two tenpenny nails. Plenty of nailing is of paramount importance to avoid floor squeaks. For maximum firmness of a subfloor, arrange all boards so that joints always rest on bearing points. No board ends are allowed to hang between joists.

In the best subflooring, boards are laid diagonally. This not only adds bracing strength to the building, but permits laying the strip flooring either lengthwise or crosswise in a room. In a rectangular room, the finish flooring generally presents the most attractive appearance when it runs in the direction of the longest dimension.

The laying of a hardwood floor should be delayed until other construction work is finished. All plumbing, electrical wiring, plastering and painting must first be completed. In this way the floor will be protected from marring. Also the hardwood will be guarded against excessive expansion and contraction because of wet plaster.

An excellent precaution is to have hardwood flooring delivered at least four or five days before it is to be laid. In cold or damp weather maintain a temperature of about 70 degrees in the room and pile the flooring there loosely. This will condition the wood so that its moisture content will be adjusted to that prevailing in the room.

If possible, arrange for delivery of your hardwood on a dry day. If that is not practicable, at least make sure that it is well covered from the time it leaves the warehouse until it is placed in the room.

Fir plywood panels are cut true and square at the mill and are often used as a guide to obtain walls that are true and square.

PEDAL PAYROLL

Glamor gals and chorines can rely on their faces and figures for their fortunes, but young Antonino Rocca, handsome young Argentine Adonis of the wrestling ring, depends on his pedal extremities for a fast-growing bankroll.

He is better known as plain Argentine, and he can cut up more didoes with his pinkies than can an elephant with its trunk.

ANTONINO ROCCO

"Thar's gold in them thar heels, podner." They're a pair of educated feet that are as dangerous to the opposition as the tentacles of an octopus. He can tap you on the nose with a blow like a baby's kiss or he can whomp you in the puss with a bulldozer wallop. His disdains shoes.

He can wrap his tootsies around your neck like a wife's farewell or he can blast you horizontally like a mother-in-law's good-bye.

"Spring-heel Jack," famous London character was a tyro compared to Argentine. He leaves the canvas like a jet and rips through the air in horizontal flight headed straight for the opposition. No use ducking, bub. There "jest ain't time."

Argentine is as versatile as a jack-of-all-trades. They call him the acrobat of the wrestling ring. He's a guy that could have been a star soccer player, a circus performer or a ballet dancer.

Believe it or not Argentine did take a mild fling at the ballet when he was a youngster. "I was just a kid of 11," he said. I was in Traveiso, Italy, when I took up the ballet. I didn't stay at it very long, but it helped my co-ordination and gracefulness."

But when he found he could pick up a hundred grand a year with his educated tootsies, he turned from the ballet's "Swan" to wrestler swan songs.

He soared over the hundred grand mark last year, his flying pinkies hauling in some $137,000. Of this he spent $20,000 for air travel, logging some 175,000 air miles. This year he hopes to top the $175,000 mark.

Included in that figure was a cool $50,000 earned during a three-weeks' visit to Venezuela. In one match an unbelievable crowd of 103,000 shelled out anywhere from five to ten bucks to see the young man perform. He admits his legs have been insured for $200,000 with Lloyds of London.

Rocca is a firm believer in proper dieting. He stays away from foods with too much acid, devours huge quantities of fruits and vegetables and doesn't bother with juices. From this diet and training has emerged a man 227 pounds with a 29½-inch waistline, 19½ neck, 17 inch biceps and a 48¼ inch chest that expands to 52 inches. He sports size 13½ shoes outside the ring. He is studying jet propulsion after graduating with an electrical engineering degree and having 800 hours of solo flight.

Yep, Rocca is quite a lad. Wrestling has been good to him, he says. He hasn't got a complaint in the world. The only "kick" he has is in his feet.

But he'll have to kick high, wide and handsome Friday night when he tangles with the judo-chop expert, Lord Athol Layton. Layton tips the beam at six feet eight inches, and if Argentine wants to wrap his expensive tootsies around the Laytonian Adam's apple he will have to create something of a high jump record. It should be quite a battle.

Is Awarded Split Decision In 15 Blood-Spattered Rounds; 3rd Title Loss For Ex-Champ

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — Wallace (Bud) Smith, master of the short, slashinglett hook, hoped his "gypsy" days were over today as the new lightweight champion of the world.

Smith, the 26-year-old Cincinnati Negro, gave Jimmy Carter the worst beating of his career Wednesday night at Boston Garden but had no easy time in gaining a split decision in 15 bwood - splattered rounds. It marked the third time Carter has lost the lightweight crown.

STOPPED ONCE BEFORE

Smith's manager, Carmen Graziano, who bought the new champion's contract only this April, and Willie Ketchum, Carter's boss, plan to fulfill an agreement for a rematch. However, due to Carter's beating, it is not likely to come about within 90 days as originally planned.

Smith, who proved he could take Carter's ripping body attack as well ashand it out, had sweet revenge for his 10-round loss by decision to Jimmy in his hometown five years ago. Since then Smith has been fighting welters as well as lightweights for small purses waiting for the first title shot which he made the most of Wednesday night.

KEPT OFF BALANCE

"We caught Carter as he started on the downgrade," Graziano said. "His reflexes aren't quite as fast as they once were and we took advantage of the fact. Smith's short punches were to keep Carter off balance—not so much to hurt him as to keep him from hurting us."

"Actually, I was in the ring to fight 15 separate fights—one each round," Smith said in his dressing room. "I planned on fighting each round as it came up. No long range plan. Just plain punch, punch, punch and plenty of determination not to let Carter's plan of battle change my own strategy."

CARTER DEJECTED

Carter was dejected as well as hurt.

Ketchum, speaking for Carter, said:

"He told me after the fight that he thought he won it. Sure it was close, but why do those close ones always go against my man? He loses more close ones than anyone else in the business because the judges always give it to the underdog when it could go either way."

Referee Mel Manning didn't think it was that close. Under the point system which gives 10 points to the winner of a round and nine or less to the loser, Manning called it 147-140 for Smith. Judge Joe Heirty had it 145-144 for Smith while Judge John Glynn dissented, 144-143 for Carter.

Elgins Thump Oshawa 8-4; Terriers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Merchants' grip on the leadership of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League was weakened Wednesday night in a surprise win by the St. Thomas Elgins.

The Elgins, trailing in fourth place, snapped a four-game losing streak in St. Thomas when they defeated Merchants 8-4 in a game that saw the league's top pitcher, Harry Schaeffer, handed his first loss in six starts.

In the only other game of the night Galt Terriers took the Brantford Red Sox for their fifth straight loss with an 11-9 count.

St. Thomas came from behind in the sixth to score four runs, and went on in the seventh and eighth to shatter the Merchants' morale with four more runs. Winning pitcher Al Dumouchelle showed good control as he scattered eight Oshawa hits, gave only two walks and struck out four batters.

Trabert, Dane Meet In Tennis Final

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—Top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and unseeded Kurt Nielsen of Denmark won decisive victories Wednesday to gain the final round of the Wimbledon all-England lawn tennis championships.

Trabert whipped a fellow-American, seventh-seeded Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 8-6, 6-2, 6-2. Nielsen upset highly favored, second-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia 11-9, 6-2, 2-6, 8-4 to repeat his 1953 performance when he lost to Vic Seixas of the United States in the final.

DAZZLING TENNIS

Patty, rated a possible choice for the United States Davis Cup team if he competes in American tournaments this year, played superlative tennis against Trabert in the first set. Trabert, however, dazzled the 17,000 crowd with delicate angle shots, high lobs right off the baseline and some old time slugging to take the second and third sets easily.

After the match, Trabert said he thought Patty must have played with an injured arm since his services were lighter than usual.

Rosewall seemed to wear himself out in dropping a lengthy 11-9 opening set. Netting volleys repeatedly, he played far below the form that made him the favorite to win the title. His forehand was unreliable and his backhand lacked its usual sting as 24-year-old Nielsen gradually gained the upper hand.

Leafs Take Two From Richmond; Increase Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The league - leading Toronto Maple Leafs swept an International League doubleheader from the tail-end Richmond Virginians 4-2 and 7-2 Wednesday night to increase their lead to a game and a half over Montreal Royals.

The second-place Royals kept their collective breath hot on the Leafs' collective neck by walloping Syracuse Chiefs 9-1.

In other games, Havana Sugar Kings defeated Rochester Red Wi 9-8 ad Columbus Jets had to go extra innings to edge Buffalo Bisons 5-4.

The Sugar Kings have come up with an unusual device to stop opposing batsmen. There have been games in which a pitcher played another position while another hurler was brought in to pitch to a given batter, but seldom has the Cubans' method been employed.

IT WORKED

Their method, with pitchers Pat Scantlebury and Jose Bracho alternating between the pitching box and first base the last two innings, worked Wednesday night.

Southpaw Scantlebury pitched to the left handed batters and right-hander Bracho hurled to the right handed batters. Scantlebury, who entered the game in the sixth inning also got credit for the victory.

Lou Limmer, newly acquired Leaf first baseman, sent in the deciding runs in the first game as Jack Crimian went the route for his eighth victory. Limmer knocked in the second and third runs in the first inning with a single. Archie Wilson's two-run triple in the fifth inning of the nightcap brgke a 2-2 tie and put the Leafs in front to stay.

Connie Johnson held the Virginians to five hits and struck out eight in gaining his 12th victory. Ed Kasku of the Virginians hit the only home run of the night to lead off the second game.

ROYALS SWEEP THREE

The Royals sprayad 15 hits to sweep the three-game series from the Chiefs. Clyde Parris opened the onslaught with a three run homer in the first inning. Ken Lehman pitched shutout ball for eight innings when John Blatnik spoiled his bid with a circuit shot in the ninth. Bobby Wilson paced the Montreal batters with three singles in four trips to the plate.

Russ Sullivan, with two home runs, sparked the Columbus drive which has accounted for 11 victories in 12 games. Sullivan's second smash came in the ninth inning to tie the score and send the game into extra innings. A double by Spook Jacobs and Dick Kryhoski's single wrapped up the game for the Jets in the 10th. The Bisons took a 4-2 lead in the fifth on Wayne Belardi's three-run homer.

FURGOL IMPRESSES

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Ed Furgol, 1954 U.S. open golf champion, turned in an impressive practice round Wednesday and joined Australian title defender Peter Thomson as favorites for the British open golf championship.

Furgol went around the 6,883-yard old course in a one-under-par 71. The Open starts next Monday and lasts through Friday.

U.S. DROPS BEHIND

LONDON (CP)—Russia's eight-man chess team took an early lead over the United States Wednesday, winning three matches and drawing one. The four remaining games were adjourned at the close of the first day's play.

World champion Mikhail Botvinnik and U.S. grand master Samuel Reshevsky adjourned their match at the No. 1 board after a terrific struggle.

Indians, White Sox Betwixt 'Devil And Deep Blue Sea' In American Loop

Sandwiched Between Yankees And Tigers, Boston in Rear; Willie Mays Shakes Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way things are going these days, the Chicago White Sox and the Cleveland Indians appear smack dab between the devil and the deep blue sea in the American League race.

Dem Ol' Debil New York Yankees are up there in front, getting more ornery every day. And to the immediate rear are the Detroit Tigehs and Boston Red Sox, just itching to wash Chicago and the Tribe out of their second and third-place berths.

The White Sox looked to be on their way out as they dropped their fourth straight to Detroit 8-2 Wednesday. And Cleveland suffered another jolt in a 12-4 pasting by Kansas City.

YANKS FORGE AHEAD

The Yanks, who have won 10 of their last 11 (only half of them against the second division), now are five games up on the second-place White Sox and seven ahead of the Tribe. Detroit is only three behind the Indians, and the Red Sox, who have won 19 of 23, are just a half-game farther back.

In the National, crippled Brooklyn was shattered by a revived Willie Mays as the New York Giants reclaimed fourth place with a 6-1 victory. Mays, shaking his slump, drove in all six runs against the first-place Dodgers, who have lost power guy Roy Campanella with a knee injury.

Milwaukee drew to within a half game of second-place Chicago by pelting the Cubs 14-1. Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 6-3 and St. Louis rapped Cincinnati 9-5 as Stan Musial reached the 2,500-hit mark.

The Tigers smacked the White Sox quick and hard to win their fifth game in six starts. Five straight hits, including Al Kaline's three-run homer, made for a five-run first inning that chased Harry Byrd and got Billy Hoeft started on his eighth victory.

Cleveland, slumping like the Chicagos, lost its fourth in six games as Gus Zernial and Harry Simpson homered home four runs in the A's 16-hit barrage against loser Bob Feller and three relievers. Bobby Shantz won it with help from Tom Gorman.

The Yanks rolled on as Bob Turley became the fourth AL pitcher to win 10 this season in the opener, and Gil McDougald got a four-run seventh under way in the nightcap with a two-run triple. Turley fanned 11, pulling within three of the pace-setting total rung up by Cleveland's Herb Score.

Tom Morgan won the nightcap to give the Yankees' one-two bullpen punch an 11-0 record. Morgan is 5-0, Konstanty 6-0.

Boston breezed against the Nats, getting 13 hits in support of Ike Delock who went all the way for his sixth victory after being idle almost a month with a sore shoulder. Billy Goodman tripled, doubled and singled in the Bosox attack.

Hank Aaron belted two home runs and Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock one each as Milwaukee and Lew Burdette downed the Cubs. Hank Sauer homered for the lone Chicago run. Howie Pollet suffered his first defeat.

Musial's mile-post hit was one of three Cardinal home runs off loser Rudy Minarcin. Only 36 other hitters have had as many in major league history. A five run 9th inning won it for Frank Smith, sixth Cardinal pitcher.

The Phils defeated the Bucs with a five-run second inning that got a six-drive from Roy Smalley's bases-loaded triple.

Orfuns Defeat Kingston Saints Before 900

KINGSTON (CP) — Some 900 persons, first public audience to attend a sports event in Kingston penitentiary, Wednesday night saw the "Saints," the prison softball team suffer their first loss in seven games this year, when they bowed to Belleville Orphans 6-3.

The Saints opened the scoring when the second pitch of the game was socked over the 30-foot left field wall. But the Orphans bounced back with two runs in each of the second, seventh and ninth innings.

Warden Walter Johnson termed the evening "a success, an insight into prison routine and an indication that the extending of privileges can do much to further the rehabilitation of many of the inmates."

The Saints were started in 1949 but previous audiences consisted of other prisoners and guards. In 1951 and 1952 the team played in the Kingston Amateur Softball Association, winning 20 of their 22 games in 1952.

Herb Rankin Is Suspended

Herb Rankin, manager of the Frankford Merchants softball team in the Belleville District Softball League has been suspended indefinitely by the league executive, it was announced this morning.

Rankin was tossed out of a game in Madoc by Umpire Lum Carson last night for conduct unbecoming a manager.

It was the second such action on the part of Rankin, officials stated. In fact the body held a meeting last night to discuss the circumstances of a former game when Rankin was expelled from th egame by the umpire-in-chief.

When word arrived of the second offence the executive slapped on the suspension pending a full investigation of the circumstances.

South Hastings Baseball League

(Contributed)

Action resumed in the South Hastings baseball league last night with Shannonville whipping Melrose 7-5 while Cannilton edged Foxboro 6-5 and Latta squeezed out a 6-5 decision over Read.

The seven inning game at Melrose was featured by a fisticuffs in the second frame but the officials quickly restored peace and the visitors went on to pound out an 18-hit victory.

Reid, pitching for Shannonville gave up ten hits, struck out two, and walked three. He gave up 4 hits in the first innings for two runs. Dafoe for Melrose slammed the only two-base hit for his team in the second inning, to bring in one run, only to get out at second base on a double play. McMechan getting a walk in the fifth, Milligan and McFarlane each a single to bring in two more and finish the scoring for Melrose.

Dafoe for Melrose, however, gave up 18 hits, one walk and no strikeouts. Reid starting off for Shannonville got the first hit, with Howard and Stewart each getting a 2-base hit, for two runs. Grey Cup Fun Will Be Same As Usual

VANCOUVER (CP)—There will be no festivities except those traditionally associated with the annual spectacle, the Grey Cup festival committee has decided.

The committee announced Wednesday it has rejected the report of Bill Clancey, former head of the press committee, who planned to turn the week prior to Nov. 26 into a carnival.

Clancey, an advertising executive instrumental in securing the 1955 game for Vancouver, has been relegated to the post of chairman of the reception committee. His plans included tying in the game with a Christmas theme and erecting the "world's largest Christmas tree" in downtown Vancouver.

Chairman John Dunsmuir said he is "diametrically opposed" to turning the event into a carnival and that he has taken the chairmanship only on condition the cup celebration will last no longer than three days.

Into the three-day time limit will be crowded the Miss Grey Cup contest and a dance, the Grey Cup dinner and the game.

Shellettes Rack Up 8th Victory

Chalking up their eighth consecutive win, the Osterhout Shellettes defeated the Trenton RCAF girls 11-6 in a Belleville District Ladies' Softball League game last night.

The Shellettes scored a pair in the first and one in the third but the Flyer girls came back with three in the third to knot the count. The winners erupted for five runs in the fourth to tuck the game away, added two in the fifth and one in the seventh. Flyers scored a single in the sixth and a pair in the last frame.

Linda Wagg racked up another mound victory giving up seven hits, one a homer, while whiffing three and walking two. She hit two singles to help her own cause.

King toiled on the mound for the Flyer ladies and was nicked for 15 clouts. She struck out four and strolled eight.

Carolyn Baker led the Shellettes' hit parade with two doubles and a single. Rita Harder had a double and two singles; Helen Reeve a triple and single, and Sandra Slade and Lois Batchelor two singles each.

The score:

Shellettes	201	520	1—	11	15 2
RCAF	003	001	2—	6	7 5

Marciano-Moore Bout Looms As Greatest Betting Event Since Joe Louis-Conn Battle

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Men about Broadway say the title bout between Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore in September will be the greatest betting event since the second Joe Louis-Billy Conn fight in 1946.

The high rollers around the country already are pouring it in at the prevailing odds of 12 to 5 against ancient Archie, even before agreement has been reached either on the date or site of the scrap. Those who like Moore's chances against the Rock are in a hurry, for they are convinced that such a long price will not last.

Just over a week ago, before Archie blasted Bobo Olson back into the middleweight drawer with two terrific blows, it would have been difficult to credit the quantity of steam being generated. If you want to believe everything you hear it also is going to land in the same financial bracket with the second Louis - Conn, no matter which city wins the stage rights.

When the Dark Destroyer and Pittsburgh Billy squared off there were 45,266 paying clients in Yankee Stadium and they had shelled out $1,925,584, starting at $100 ringside. There has been nothing to approach it since. Though 47,585 watched Marciano beat Ezzard Charles in 15 rounds here last June, they paid only $543,092, having got smarter about their money.

The one who must feel most astonished over the sudden furore he has created is Archie, himself.

Less than a year ago, there probably were a dozen large cities which would have paid him to stay away, among them the same ones which are clamoring for the Moore-Marciano "natural" now.

It was only last October that Archie, realizing the years were closing in on him and that he was getting nowhere fast, began laying down a mail and wire barrage on the nation's sports writers insisting that he was the logical challenger.

That the din he set up in the writers' ears helped Archie to reach his current exalted state is doubtful. There was nothing anyone could have written which would have convinced Marciano's percentage man, Al Weill.

Those two punches he unloaded on Olson—right to the face, left hook to the jaw—spoke louder than several million words to Weill, who specializes in collecting $1,000 bills.

"Say-Hey" Willie Is Back on Beam Hits Two Homers, Single, Scores Six

BROOKLYN (AP)—It's official, now. Willie Mays no longer is confused. Even the Brooklyn Dodgers will attest to that today.

The young centerfield star proved Wednesday night his mind as well as his eyes was keen again by blasting a pair of home runs (Nos. 18 and 19) and a single to drive in all six runs as the New York Giants defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 6-1 to even their current series at one game apiece.

Willie was the Willie of 1954 as he blasted his first homer in the third inning with the bases full to give the Giants a 4-0 lead, hammered his second four-bagger on a 3-0 pitch in the fifth, and singled in the seventh to drive in the final Giants' tally. It was easily the biggest slugging day he's had this year. Coming on top of Tuesday's four-hit night, Willie may be on his way.

The happiest person in the park, next to Willie, was, of course, manager Leo Durocher.

"That was the real Willie you saw out there tonight," Durocher said after the game. "This was the first time this season that Willie has really broken loose."

It was Durocher who benched Mays for the first time in his life some 10 days ago, explaining that Willie was "confused."

Mays, as usual, didn't say much. "I guess I'm beginning to get lucky," Willie said with a poker face. "That single I got was a real lucky one. The ball had eyes."

Two Californians Lead Field In BC Open

By DAVID ROUNTREE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Californians, a stroke apart, today led a field of 39 par-crackers and 53 other golfers into the second round of the $15,000 British Columbia Open here.

Calling the pace was 29-year-old Bob Rorburg of San Francisco, who battered the par-72 Shaughnessy course with 34-31—65.

Rosburg, who shared fifth place in the U.S. Open at San Francisco two weeks ago, found the greens very much to his liking. He boldly rolled in two 35-footers and one 20-footer. He had seven birdies in the round.

Clark opened his round with a birdie four on the 575-yard first by canning a 40-footer. He snipped three strokes from par on each side of the course.

Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., smiled affably at the growing gallery after his first-half 33, four strokes better than par and best on the day, and finished erratically into a three-way tie for third place at 67.

He shanked his tee shot on the short 10th and then floundered in to "Hogan's alley"—a stretch of wooded country along the dog-leg 13th—for two one-over-par holes. He went one over again by flubbing a putt on the par-three 17th.

The other "67" finishers were Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, and Marty Furgol, No. 3 gold trail money winner last year, from Lemont, Ill.

RUNS NEAR RECORD

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—Roger Moens, Belgian middle distance runner, missed by only four-tenths of a second Wednesday the 800 metre world record set by Germany's late Rudolf Harbig in 1939. Harbig's mark of 1:46.6 is considered one of the toughest in the record book.

'Campy' Back Sooner Than Expected Catcher Quizzed in Liquor Scandal

BROOKLYN (AP) — Roy Campanella, who was supposed to have a knee fracture, but hasn't, may be back in the Brooklyn Dodger lineup sooner than the July 15 date predicted for him.

The slugging catcher today was resting comfortably in his home, reassured by the latest doctor's report that no operation will be necessary to mend his injured left knee.

After two diagnosis which showed "an incomplete fracture which will necessitate an incision for removal," the doctors finally decided that "the injury is an old one which will heal with rest."

The first diagnosis, taken from the wet x-ray plates, which indicated the break, brought the announcement that Campanella would be out "at least a month and perhaps two." The second, made after the plates had dried and showed only a bone spur, resulted in the announcement that Campanella will be ready for action "in about three weeks."

The third report was that the doctors decided against any kind of surgery and advised that all Campy needed was to rest for about 10 days and the knee would be as good as new. After immobilizing the damaged knee and bandaging it tightly, Roy was sent home.

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn Dodgers' star catcher, was questioned for three hours Wednesday in a State Liquor Authority bribe scandal investigation.

Campanella bought a liquor store in Queens in 1951 and transferred the licence to Harlem. Investigators claim many such transfers were possible only through bribery of Liquor Authority agents.

"I assure you there was nothing under the table," Campanella told reporters as he left the office of commissioner of investigation J. Irwin Shapiro. "I can truthfully say that there's nothing to be ashamed of. All my books are on the up and up."

Shapiro, himself, turned aside questions, saying:

"I don't think it is fair to discuss why he is here. He holds no public office. He is not on the public payroll."

Since Shapiro opened his investigation last February, 18 SLA employees have been eased out of their jobs because they refused to come clean about their personal finances.

Investigators claim evidence of widescale bribery and blackmail against New York City's 7,949 bars and 2,536 package stores. One prober termed the SLA "rotten from top to bottom."

Senator Jim Favored For Canadian Derby

WINNIPEG (CP) — An eastern-bred horse probably will be made favorite in the 26th running of the $10,000-added Canadian Derby over 1¼-miles Friday at Winnipeg's Polo Park.

Senator Jim, a grey colt raised by Charles Robson of Oshawa, Ont., ranks as the horse to beat in view of his excellent showings this year and the fact that his arch-rival, Ace Marine, will not compete in the West's richest stake race.

The Stafford Farm entry will be one of three eastern-owned thoroughbreds going to the post in the event for three year olds foaled in Canada. The other two are Loyalist, owned by W. A. Moffatt of Toronto, and Fleet Countess, owned by Mrs. R. E. Cook of Toronto.

Senator Jim, backed down to favorite, came from 14th place to finish third in the 96th running of the Queen's Plate at Toronto Woodbine, beaten by four lengths, with Ace Marine the winner. Last Saturday, he was second to Ace Marine in the Prince of Wales Stakes.

"YANKEE PASHA"

Jeff Chandler, a fur trapper, rides into Salem, Mass., in 1800 and promptly falls in love with Rhonda Fleming. She sails for Morocco with her father, but is captured by pirates and sold to Bart Roberts, a powerful Moorish leader, as a slave. Chandler follows and, because of his marksmanship prowess, wins a post as instructor for the Sultan's infantry. Next Chandler provokes a duel with Roberts and wins Rhonda as his prize of victory, but a jealous slave-girl, Mamie Van Doren, exposes his plot to escape, and he and Rhonda are recaptured by Roberts. However, the slave-girl, repentant, effects Rhonda's release, and the Sultan's army commander rescues Chandler. After a furious battle, Roberts is killed, and Jeff and Rhonda flee for the U.S. along with several other American prisoners.

"SO BIG"

Suddenly orphaned and broke Jane Wyman becomes a school teacher in a Dutch farming community. It is a life of incessant drudgery, especially after she meets and marries Sterling Hayden, a hard-working son of the soil. They have one child, whom she calls "So Big," and for whom she envisions a brilliant future. When Hayden dies, Jane and the boy go it alone, and she is enabled to send the lad to college to study architecture. In the gay 20's, he abandons their cherished dream and becomes a whirlwind success as a sales promotion executive, although Jane is bitterly disappointed. However, when her son falls in love with a successful painter, Nancy Olson, he realizes —when Nancy turns down his proposal—that he has gotten off on the wrong track, and plans to return to his first love, architecture.

Guinness' pictures taken on his missions establish that enemy gliders are being taken to Sicily in preparation for a siege of Malta. Guinness falls in love with Muriel Pavlov, a Maltese girl, and he discusses the situation with his wing commander, Anthony Steel, and then asks the girl's mother, Flora Robson, permission. The latter asks him to wait until the end of the war when matters are no longer desperate in Malta. As the island takes the offensive, Guinness is given the task of finding the enemy forces. In his plane, Guinness sights the enemy but is forced to give his own position away. The British bombers are guided to the enemy ships but Guinness loses his own life.

Detroit Lions Get Injunction Against Martin

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions said Wednesday they obtained an injunction in California Superior Court to prevent guard and linebacker Jim Martin from jumping to the Canadian pro football league.

The Lions said judge Ralph Pierson issued a temporary injunction at Long Beach, Calif., directing Martin not to play football with any club other than Detroit. He has until July 5 to contest the order.

Martin informed the Lions he has signed to coach next season with Toronto Argonauts although the Detroit club said he also has a contract with it.

Alert drivers are safe drivers. Avoid drowsiness and driving jitters. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert.

Chew any brand you like, but chew while you drive. Naturally we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, full-bodied flavor and real, smooth chewing enjoyment!

Star Talent Situation Reaches Critical Stage

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The star talent situation has reached the critical stage in Hollywood.

Some producers will tell you that the number of stars who really mean something at the box office has dwindled to a dozen or two. Notable among these are John Wayne, Gary Cooper, James Stewart, Alan Ladd, Bing Crosby, Clark Gable, Humphrey Bogart and a few others.

Most of these stars are middle-aged. A few younger players have joined that stellar position—Marlon Brando, Marilyn Monroe, Martin and Lewis and possiby a handful of others.

The list of what the trade calls "money draws" looks pretty small compared to the old days when 75 or 100 stars could pull people into the theatres. A major reason for the decline is the breakdown of new talent programs at the major studios.

U-I TRAINS TALENT

Only one lot still maintains an extensive training for future stars. That is Universal - International. The studio is even expanding its activities under the direction of Jess Kimmel.

The U-I training, which has helped produce such names as Tony Curtis, Rock Hudson, Jeff Chandler, has become so well-known that outsiders have tried to pay for the program. The studio has declined, limiting the curricula to its own young players.

Many come from little theatres around Hollywood, some from television, some merely arrive at the studio by themselves. The majority are brought by agents, and that's how the studio prefers to deal.

BASIC INSTRUCTION

The players learn body movement by dancing, get horseback riding lessons and some fencing, although Kimmel feels that it tends to create an attitude of posting.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dick Powell appears as a man about-town who loves Debbie Reynolds, a girl about 16, in "Susan Slept Here," RKO Radio's Technicolor production. Anne Francis also is co-starred. The comedy shows today, Friday and Saturday. On the same program in Technicolor is "Rage at Dawn", and now having its first showing starring Randolph Scott, J. Carrol Naish, Forrest Tucker and Mala Powers.

"I've found that boxing lessons are excellent for actors," he added. "When they get in the ring, they lose their inhibitions and become aggressive."

A large part of the training is the day-in, day-out reading of parts. Kimmel believes in having the players study separately. Then they'll play the scenes over and over again with different students.

"I tell them they are here to make mistakes," he explained. "That's how they'll learn."

SIX HURT

NEW YORK (AP)—Collapse of a wooden retaining wall on a Brooklyn construction job injured at least six men Wednesday, one seriously. Police said all the men on the job have been accounted for. Earlier, they reported 40 men trapped.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, July 1, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be exceptionally practical in routine matters and you can gain benefits that otherwise might be overlooked or lost. Use good sense in business matters and be sincere, kindly in domestic affairs.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your Venus' aspect favors straightforward procedure. Keep your side of the bargain and things will break for you. Financial, real estate transactions can be profitable.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Use caution in matters concerning money, deeds and contracts. Your contentment will depend upon yourself. Do not try to do things beyond your realm of capability.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Judicious administration of duties, plus sincerity can bring really fine results now. The stars forecast good will, so cooperate and you will achieve. Romance favored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Feel an urge to be unusually active and acquisitive? Okay! But be well informed before acting. A tendency to confusion could upset you unless you keep calm, serene and cheerful.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Do not be over-enthusiastic; there may be a joker around. Be sure you are right before acting. Do not be over-conservative, however. Remember, "if you don't succeed at first try, try again."

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Indications encouraging for sound investments, business transactions generally. You may have a pleasant visit, some good news. Heed helpful suggestions.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Stellar influences could be unfriendly, so be cautious. Sidestep irritability; it will increase tension. Have faith; smile!

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Pleasant, invigorating influences. Give others their rightful share and you'll receive like in kind.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Very likely you will have pleasant results from worthwhile endeavors. Try to enjoy life fully but, at the same time, do not neglect any duty. Be sensible, philosophical.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Interesting, even exciting influences most of this day. There may be a tendency to dare the unusual, the untried, but do use sensible caution.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — It is easier to brush things aside sometimes, but it is not always the best way. It can cause hard feelings, errors. Be thoughtful in "little things"; use kindness and diplomacy in dealing with others.

You born today are inclined to be restless and changeable in disposition, but you are loyal, honest in intent and very capable. Correct any tendency to needless argument. You love home and family ties; are retrospective, can recount incidents delightfully; are usually conservative. Guard against being stubborn or oversensitive. Try to be philosophical. Emphasize your sympathetic nature.

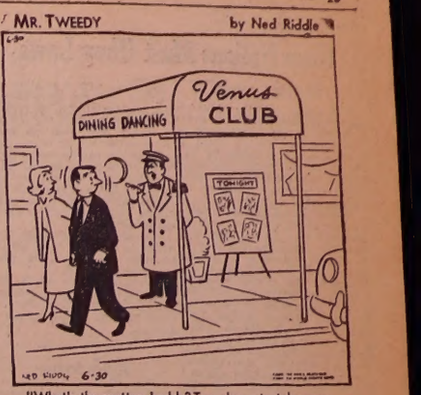
Govt. Slashes Sales Tax On Certain Films



OTTAWA (CP) — The government has slashed the sales tax on Canadian-produced films.

Effective July 1, the tax, formerly 10 per cent on the film's selling price, will be applied on a fixed value of 9½ cents a foot on the finished film, a revenue department spokesman said Wednesday.

On a 1,000-foot film selling for $20,000, the tax formerly would have been $2,000. After July 1, the tax will be just a nominal $9.50. The 10-per-cent tax will still be applied on the individual selling price of copies or prints of the film.

The concession is expected to be a stimulant to Canadian film-making.

Broadway Critics Differ In Reaction to Stratford

NEW YORK (CP) — Broadway critics, in their first reports of the Stratford Shakespeare festival, agree that "Julius Caesar" was excellent spectacle but differ in their assessment of how effectively Monday's curtain-raiser of the 1955 festival was performed.

Walter F. Kerr of The Herald Tribune says the special virtue of the production is "the swirling, racing, sometimes blood-red vitality with which it whips through the audience, surrounds it and hurls it headlong into the political brawls of ancient Rome."

Kerr praises director Michael Langham's use of the festival theatre's entrances through the auditorium and projecting apron stage in bringing the audience closer to the action of the play.

URGENT STYLE

"In part, the trick is worked by the earnest, tingling, sober urgency of the general playing style," he writes. "For the rest, it is a matter of atmospheres so vividly created that they drift from the open state and envelop the theatre."

Brooks Atkinson of The Times greets the production with less enthusiasm, criticizing Langham for failure to add "refinements of character to excellent mass spectacle."

"A 'Julius Caesar' with a languid, supercilious Caesar and a hollow Brutus does not get deep inside the play," Atkinson writes. "Robert Christie's mannered Caesar has little of the brilliance of a great political leader. And although Lorne Greene's Brutus is a man with a big voice and a massive presence, he is dull."

Atkinson says the deaths throughout the performance are "conventional and perfunctory—more like makeshift actors' exits than bloody ends to the careers of imperfect men."

"SUPERB THEATRE"

But Atkinson finds other aspects of the performance praiseworthy, particularly the "superb theatre" of the second act, dominated by the performance of Donald Davis of Toronto as Mark Antony.

He also praises the "sophisticated" Casca of Douglas Campbell, the "human" Cassius of Toronto's Lloyd Bochner, Donald Harron's "boyish but slightly petulant Octavius" and Douglas Rain's "artfully treacherous" Decius Brutus.

Kerr agrees that Langham's portrayal of the play is "not an introspective one" but his praise for the cast covers all the principals.

"The Canadian players are—once more—astonishing in the uniformity and poetic forcefulness of their work," he writes.

GMC and Union Will Resume Contract Talks

TORONTO (CP)—Contract talks, including the thorny question of the guaranteed annual wage, will be resumed here Monday between General Motors Corporation and the United Auto Workers Union (CIO-CCL).

The decision to start the talks again came Wednesday after Ontario government conciliator William Dunn of Toronto met with the two parties and decided they were too far apart to attempt any intervention.

The original discussions ended June 14 when the union, which is seeking a new master agreement covering GM plants in Toronto, St. Catharines, London and Windsor, charged that the company was stalling on minor details.

It was the second time Mr. Dunn had decided that General Motors and the UAW were nowhere close to reaching an agreement. He made a similar decision last week when he investigated separate negotiations between GM and the union's 10,000 workers at the Oshawa plant.

RECOMMENDS BOARD

The conciliation officer recommended that the two sides arrange to set up a three-man board to comprise a conciliator and union and company representatives. A similar board has been formed in connection with the Oshawa negotiations.

In addition to the guaranteed annual wage, the union also seeks general wage increases.

Sunday School Lesson:

Even Nations Must Obey Laws

By ROY L. SMITH

The events of the last few months should serve as a sharp reminder to the governments of the world that we are living in a universe that is under the authority of law, and that even governments are under the supervision of a moral authority no race or nation can escape.

The scripture of this week's Sunday school lesson abounds in warnings to a little nation that had been permitting the poor to be robbed, the weak to be exploited, and the helpless to be despoiled. The prophet Jeremiah was the spokesman for God who had the unenviable responsibility for preaching to a nation that was in its death throes. The ghastly rattle of doom was in its throat. And the cause of its destruction was not the mighty power of the Babylonian empire, but internal weakness. It was an inside job.

THE ASIAN REVOLUTION

The Bandung Conference of the southeast Asian nations was only a symptom. There is going on throughout Asia, involving more than a billion and a quarter of the world's population, a revolution that is destined to go down in history as being even more significant than the French Revolution.

For 200 years the peoples of Asia and Southeast Asia have been colonials, living under the authority of the great European powers, Britain, France, Holland, Portugal, Spain, and Germany. At the opening of the Second World War Spain and Germany were out, and Portugal practically so. With the close of the war Britain is left with two crown colonies — Hong Kong and Singapore—and France is on her way out of Indochina. The Dutch are making a last ditch stand for a foothold in New Guinea. In the place of the old colonies there is a whole series of young, independent governments.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for July 3: "The Prophet of Judah's Decline," Jeremiah 22; 36; 2 Kings 23:31—24:7.

At the Bandung conference the representatives of 26 Asian nations gathered, as Asians, to discuss their problems and their future. It was the first great world conference in 500 years which was not dominated by the white man. Men of color have discovered (largely through the preaching of Christian missionaries) that they are human beings, born with rights, and that they are entitled to a place and part in the government of the world in which they are compelled to live.

RETURNING CHICKENS

If the leaders of the white governments of the world find the young Asian governments difficult to deal with, let them remember that the chickens of colonialism, economic exploitation, and white superiority complexes are coming home to roost, and that kind of chicken is never reasonable.

Said a young Asian, "We will doubtless make mistakes, but from this time on we are determined to make them ourselves if we have to pay for them. We have been paying for other men's mistakes for five centuries."

If the Indonesians are unreasonable about the matter of oil, remember that they have watched the oil pumped out of their wells by white men for many years. Something of the same thing can be said of the rubber of Malaya, and the jute of Pakistan.

GOD HAS PASSED JUDGMENT

It is a little difficult for a Christian, with a sensitive conscience and any knowledge of Far Eastern affairs, to read the morning newspapers and not have a feeling that God has passed judgment on the white man's administration on this world. It appears to be the case that He is bringing it to an end, and that from this time on there will have to be some kind of democracy among nations as well as among individuals.

What Jeremiah said of his little nation in 595 B.C., he would undoubtedly say about the white man's world in 1955.
